

Protesting truckers block road

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Protesting truck drivers blocked off the Delaware Memorial Bridge on the main highway between New York and Washington, D.C., for seven hours today and stopped traffic at several spots in Ohio and Indiana.

The demonstrations were the latest in a series that began Monday over higher prices for diesel fuel and lower speed limits.

Estimates of the number of trucks blocked up at the bridge ranged over 1,000. New Jersey State Police said there were 1,000 rigs on the Jersey side alone. Authorities reported several hundred other rigs were backed up on highways leading to the bridge which normally carries 45,000 vehicles a day across the Delaware River.

The drivers ended their demonstration at the two-span, eight-lane bridge shortly after 9 a.m. following a news conference during which they aired their complaints.

Police had made no attempt to break up the demonstration, although five drivers were detained briefly.

"There ain't enough tow trucks on the whole East Coast to move us," one driver boasted as traffic started backing up during the morning rush hour.

Drivers identifying themselves as leaders of the protest said at the news conference they were against proposed 55-mile-an-hour speed limits and fuel hikes which they said have put the cost of diesel fuel at 51 cents a gallon.

In Washington, the Cost of Living Council said it was investigating complaints that some truck stop operators were overcharging for diesel fuel.

Indiana State Police said about 100 trucks blocked lanes of the Indiana Toll Road near South Bend, just south of the border with Michigan. They said authorities were trying to move some car traffic past the stopped trucks.

There has been no evidence that the blockades, involving only a fraction of the country's truck drivers, are part of a concerted, nationwide effort, although some organizations have called for a massive shutdown in the middle of the month.

The Ohio blockades came on Interstate 70, the scene of a series of stoppages on Tuesday, and on the Ohio Turnpike, closed during the night at several spots and reopened briefly at dawn.

Authorities said at least 100 rigs stalled turnpike traffic in both directions just west of Norwalk, between Elyria and Fremont in the northern part of the state.

Highway patrolmen were on the scene. "They simply asked us to leave enough room to let the people through to go to work," said one trucker. "We fully agree with that. We just want to hold up freight."

Another 60 truckers blocked traffic on Interstate 70, just east of Columbus, for several hours, demanding a meeting with Gov. John J. Gilligan and threatening to drive their rigs into the downtown area.

A spokesman for the governor's office said the drivers agreed to lift the blockade in midmorning in exchange for a meeting with Gilligan's chief of staff, Jack E. Hansan. Some drivers said, however, that they would stay put until after the meeting.

"All they really wanted to do is call the governor's attention to the situation and see what we could do about it," the governor's spokesman said.

Buses and commuters in cars tried to find alternate routes in the area around Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del., during the bridge blockade.

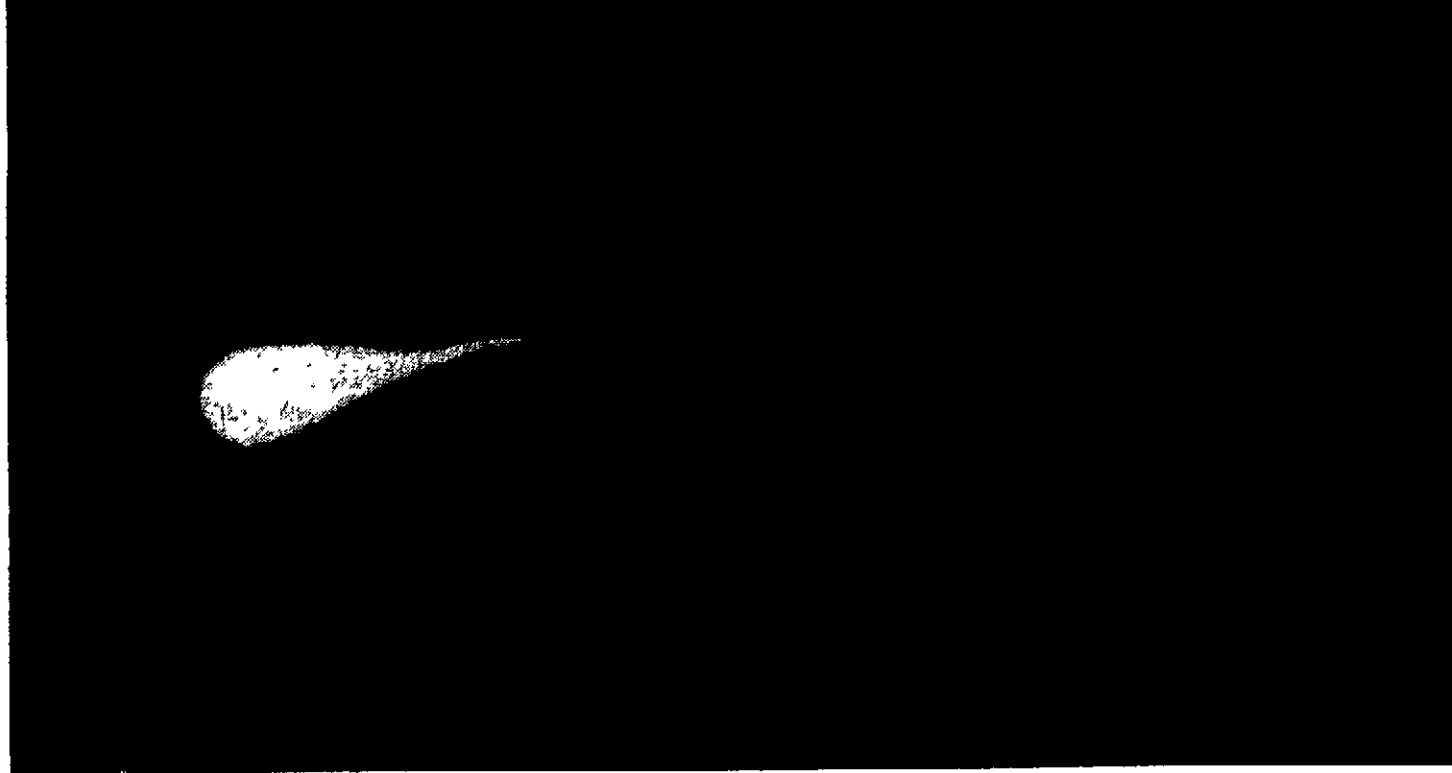

"We expect some delays and will try alternate routes," said a spokesman for the Greyhound Corp. in New York.

The heavily traveled New Jersey Turnpike begins at Deepwater, on the New Jersey side of the bridge, and state police diverted traffic off the turnpike because of the tie-up.

The Ohio truckers had warned of new stoppages. Walter Barclay of Omaha, Neb., one of the leaders, said: "We're trying to shut down the whole U.S.A. to get the fuel price down and let us have fuel priority."

The overnight turnpike blockades had closed all lanes of the toll roads in three

Heating oil price hike permitted as incentive

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council today announced it was permitting increases in prices of home heating oil by two cents a gallon and would order reduction in gasoline prices at the refinery level by one cent a gallon. But while consumers will have to pay the extra two cents for heating oil, probably beginning in January, the reduction in gasoline prices probably will not be seen at the gasoline pump.

Council Director John T. Dunlop said the price actions are designed to stimulate increased production of heating oil at oil refineries by eliminating existing incentives to produce gasoline. He said the one cent reduction in price of gasoline at the refinery level would accomplish this purpose, but probably never would reach the retail level because of other increased costs in producing gasoline.

The increase of two cents per gallon for home heating oil will be about seven per cent over the present average price per gallon of about 28 cents, he said.

Dunlop said the council will announce additional steps to give refiners incentives to produce more heating oil and that this would probably result in additional price increases to consumers. But he said the increases would not be as much as the two cent increase approved today.

The Cost of Living Council also directed the Internal Revenue Service to begin checking diesel fuel prices at truck stops on major interstate highways throughout most of the Eastern United States and in other regions of the country, including California.

Deputy Council Director James W.

Mc Lane said the action was taken after complaints that diesel fuel was being sold at inflated prices to truckers.

The heating oil price increase was indicated Tuesday by William E. Simon, head of the Nixon administration's new Federal Energy Administration.

And sources within the Cost of Living Council have predicted that heating oil prices may increase by eight cents per gallon before the winter is over.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was to meet with Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi Arabian oil minister, to discuss that nation's cutoff of oil to the United States.

Also expected to meet with Kissinger is Belaid Abdesalam, the minister of industry and energy for Algeria.

However, State Department officials say they do not expect the meeting to accomplish much in arranging quick resumption of oil supplies.

Secretary returned to court

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's personal secretary returned to federal court today and flatly denied having any knowledge of anyone deliberately tampering with the subpoenaed Watergate tapes.

Asked by assistant special Watergate prosecutor Jill Volner whether she had any such knowledge, Rose Mary Woods said, "no, Mam, I do not."

Miss Woods had just testified, "if I could offer any idea, any proof, any knowledge of how that 18-minute gap happened, there is no one on earth who would rather."

In a surprise development, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica summoned Miss Woods back to the court during a hearing on what might have caused an 18-minute gap in the tape of a June 20, 1972, conversation between the President and H.R. Haldeman, former White House chief of staff.

Miss Woods also testified that she thought White House lawyers were representing her when she appeared in court for the first time on Nov. 8.

Miss Woods contradicted earlier testimony from White House lawyer J. Fred Buzhardt and Samuel J. Powers when she said she could not remember ever showing them a tape recorder and demonstrating how she might have pushed a wrong button on the recorder.

She testified last week that she pushed the wrong button while listening to the June 20 tape of presidential conversations.

The recall of Miss Woods delayed the scheduled testimony of Alexander M. Haig Jr., the President's top aide.

Sirica made his surprise move to recall Miss Woods as Powers was testifying.

Sirica asked Powers when he first talked to Miss Woods about the gap and the Miami attorney replied he thought it was on Nov. 14, the same day he learned of it.

The judge asked Powers, "weren't you representing her?" when he brought her to court on Nov. 8.

Powers said that no, he was not representing her any more than he was representing other White House staff members called only to establish certain facts about the handling of the tapes.

"She was a fact witness like (Secret Service Agent Raymond C.) Zumwalt and the rest of them," Powers replied.

"Did she ever say to you, are you my lawyer or I want to get a lawyer?" Sirica asked.

"It was never discussed," Powers replied.

President Nixon's top aide, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., had been scheduled earlier for testimony today. According to witnesses at the hearings,

Return to daylight time expected by end of year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the nation is expected to return to Daylight Saving Time by Dec. 30, with the exact date to be settled by a Senate-House conference committee.

The Senate voted 68 to 10 Tuesday to impose a year-round energy time plan as an energy conservation measure, effective the fourth Sunday after enactment.

The House earlier agreed to give industries and transportation companies 15 days to adjust their schedules before advanced time goes into effect.

The Senate bill allows each state to exempt itself from Daylight Time if advancing the clock one hour would result in undue hardship.

The Nixon administration asked for the legislation, contending that adding Daylight Time during the winter months would result in a three per cent fuel savings. Various experts say the savings would range from a fraction of one per cent to 1.5 per cent.

But Chairman Warren Magnuson of the Commerce Committee said that, even without direct fuel savings, year-round Daylight Time would serve as a constant reminder that the nation can no longer waste its energy resources.

Several congressmen contend that delaying the onset of darkness by one hour would result in less crime and fewer traffic accidents.

But Sens. Marlow K. Cook, R-Ky., and Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., said an equally effective argument could be made that Daylight Time could result in more fuel usage.

Cook noted that, under Daylight Time, sunrise in his native Louisville would be at 9 a.m. during the first 10 days of January, that many children would have to wait in the dark for school buses, and that area farmers would waste an hour each day waiting for the sun to burn off the morning dew.

It will be up to the Federal Communications Commission to alleviate another problem caused by Daylight Time. The bill directs the FCC to modify its rules that prohibit many small radio stations from going on the air before sunrise.

Since 1966, most of the nation has observed Daylight Time from May through October each year. The Senate and House bills would impose full-time Daylight Time for 22 months ending the last Sunday of October 1975. After that date, states could decide on their own whether to continue fast time.

Cook added an amendment, adopted by voice vote, allowing any state to exempt itself from Daylight Time during the 22-month period. Any state having two or more time zones could exempt the full state or one or more time zones from Daylight Time.

Life term in installments

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP) — Bobbie Ferguson wants Gov. Robert Ray to give him a life term in the Iowa State Penitentiary so he can stay in the place he regards as home.

Ferguson says he's spent all but 16 months of his 39 years in various state institutions and he wants "a life term because I can't live as a free person."

Ray's office says the governor doesn't have the authority to grant Ferguson's request.

Ferguson was born in the women's reformatory at Rockwell City of a convict mother he's never known. Two days later he was taken to Woodward State Hospital, where he spent the next 14 years as a ward of the court.

Since then he says he's committed a succession of crimes designed to keep him in institutions where he feels secure and has friends. His record shows 18 convictions on charges which include robbery with aggravation, auto theft, jailbreak, larceny and vagrancy.

"Bobbie is serving a life term on the installment plan," says Nolan Ellandson, director of Iowa's Bureau of Adult Corrections.

Ferguson's current 10-year robbery sentence in the penitentiary here will be completed in 12 months, but he says the specter of freedom haunts him.

"I don't know how to live outside," Ferguson said. "My home is inside, and I want to stay here for the rest of my life."

"It would be a joke if I am let out. Why go out and prove I don't want out by robbing someone and hurting them?"

Ellandson said Ferguson's latest prison sentence stems from a 1965 incident in which he robbed a Fort Dodge service station of $10, then walked across the street and waited to be arrested.

Ray's office said the governor can only commute a sentence or pardon a prisoner but that he can't extend a sentence.

Ferguson's reply is that in that case he'd like to be transferred to the mental health institute at Mount Pleasant where he could live in a structured environment before re-entering society under supervision.

"I don't want to hurt anybody," Ferguson said. "I just want them to give me some help."

He added that his requests for a life term or transfer are not granted "a year from now I know I'll be right back here."

Nixon net worth increased to $1 million since he took office

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has become a millionaire since taking office, according to his lawyers. Republican congressional leaders said Tuesday that the lawyers said at a White House meeting that Nixon's net worth had increased from about $300,000 on Jan. 1, 1969, to $968,000 last May 31.

And they listed a cash flow since May 31 that would have added the $12,000 needed to boost the President into the millionaire status, the congressmen said.

The cash flow statement and net worth figures were divulged by two long-time friends of Nixon, lawyers Kenneth Gemmill of Philadelphia and H. Chapman Rose of Cleveland, who are helping draft the personal financial reports the President plans to make public this week.

Two Republican leaders who attended the unannounced White House meeting, Sen. John Tower of Texas and Rep. John Anderson of Illinois, said Nixon was urged to release his income tax returns to back up the financial statements and other documents scheduled for release.

"I think most of us feel that the press and the Congress will be satisfied with nothing less than seeing the actual returns," Tower told newsmen. "The tax returns will show his financial affairs were very much in order."

The Associated Press reported on Sunday that Nixon paid $72,000 in federal income taxes for 1969, but less than $6,000 during the past three years when he claimed substantial deductions for donation of his vice presidential papers to the government.

The net worth figures submitted by Nixon's lawyers appeared to have been based on an audit of the President's records by a New York accounting firm, Coopers & Lybrand. The $300,000 net worth on Jan. 1, 1969, and the $968,000 last May 31 did not correspond with previous public statements by Nixon aides.

For example, when Nixon was a presidential candidate, his staff reported his net worth as of Sept. 30, 1968, was $515,830. On May 12, 1969, the White House said his net worth was $596,900, and on Sept. 16, 1972, aides said it was $765,118.

One White House official said the disparity resulted from different accounting procedures.

According to a cash flow statement prepared by the lawyers, Nixon had $432,874 in bank accounts or savings certificates on May 31, with the rest of his net worth in California and Florida real estate.

The May 31 accounting included $250,000 in certificates of deposit purchased from a Key Biscayne, Fla., bank headed by C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo, Nixon's close personal friend. Since then, the President has purchased another $30,000 certificate.

Lawmakers promotion cost $1.27 million

WASHINGTON — Wisconsin congressmen joined in a $1.27 million self-promotion binge staged by the House of Representatives during the first nine months of 1973, spending almost $37,000 to please hometown editors and appease home district voters.

But the nine Wisconsin congressmen were pikers compared with the 10 leading self-promoters in the House,

Fuel crisis straight talk is needed

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — One thing that the American people could use more than a pay raise or price cuts or even lower taxes is some straight talk from Washington on the energy crisis.

In terms of economic impact from the shortage, the administration has withdrawn to the role of cheerleader or sideline critic of private forecasts. But it has come up with few specifics of its own.

If the 8 per cent jobless forecasts of some economists are too high, as suggested by the administration's experts, what should we expect? If 8 or 9 per cent inflation isn't to be expected, what is?

The independent and academic economists have had a forecasting field day, many of them collecting substantial fees from private enterprise for providing their confidential advice.

So many of these forecasts have become public in the past two weeks that it is possible to come up with something resembling a consensus:

—The economy already was turning cold at the time of the Mideast oil cutback. Expansion would amount to only 3 per cent, or about half that of 1973. The cutback has shaved that estimate in half. If the cutback continues beyond that point the economy could be tipped into a recession, which technically means two successive quarters of production declines.

—Regardless of how long the cutback lasts, unemployment most likely will rise substantially. The lower end of the range appears to be around 5.5 per cent, the upper limit about 8. The present rate is 4.5 per cent.

—Inflation, also regardless of how long the cutback lasts, is expected to continue. The upper limit of forecasts appears to be a rate of about 8 or 9 per cent in the early months of 1974, tailing off thereafter on the assumption the cutback ends.

Based on general forecasts such as these, and more specific forecasts for particular businesses and geographical areas, industry is making its plans for 1974. But the message from Washington to the public is far less specific.

In one breath Americans are urged to reduce heat, the amount of electricity used, the speed of their cars, the amount of gasoline used, but in another they are told the situation is under control.

While service stations are closing, the nation's biggest car maker is cutting production and officials of the U.S. Postal Service say mail deliveries are disrupted, the President attempts to minimize the problem through rhetoric.

Speaking to the Seafarers International Union, he called the energy crush a temporary matter that might be cleared up in a year or so, despite contrary advice and warnings from members of his administration.

What is needed by Americans, and which is indeed their right and the government's obligation, is a set of concise, honest estimates that will permit them to make their plans.

Diners Club sued for illegal interest

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin residents who hold Diners Club International credit cards will remain parties to a lawsuit charging the club with illegal interest rates, a judge said Tuesday.

Circuit Court Judge Richard Bardwell said he would allow the suit to be a class-action petition, seeking reimbursement for persons who were charged 18 per cent interest before March 1.

The suit was filed by attorney Victor Mussallem, who said 18 per cent interest was illegal before Wisconsin's Consumer Credit Act took effect in March.

The club argued that class-action suits cannot be brought under the state usury law.

Bardwell said he knew of no clear-cut precedent ruling and believes the class-action suit is in the public interest.

Violators of the usury law "do not disobey the law on impulse, but only after calculation of the chances of being called to account in terms of money and bad public relations," Bardwell said.

The judge said the small amount of money an individual may have been overcharged "adds up to a substantial extra profit for the firm which cheats just a bit. It is not in the general public interest to ignore such violations."

250 will be idled at Mercury Marine plants

FOND DU LAC, Wis. (AP) — Layoffs of about 250 workers at Mercury Marine plants in Wisconsin were announced Monday.

Gene Streets, the firm's vice president of manufacturing, said 43 employees in several Fond du Lac plants had been laid off, and about 200 more would be let go by the end of the week either at the Fond du Lac facilities or the firm's plants in Oshkosh and Cedarburg.

The manufacturer of inboard and outboard motors said the layoffs result from uncertain market conditions brought about by shortages of resins used in the manufacturing of boats.

who combined to spend more than $202,000 in tax funds to promote themselves and their causes at public expense.

All are users of the "extensions of remarks" section of the Congressional Record, which is given over daily to lengthy reprints of home town editorials praising local lawmakers in Washington, salutes to home district Eagle Scouts and pie baking champions, and essays on the worth of motherhood and the flag.

The Record makes cheap reprints readily available to congressmen after the articles, essays and fake speeches are printed at a cost to the taxpayer of $208 a page.

The reprints are invaluable unofficial re-election tools.

Rep. John Duncan, R-Tenn., wants to change all that.

He says that the "extensions" in the Record are worthless, have nothing to do with legislative business, and would be limited. He is pressuring Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, to slap a 15-page-per-year limit on every congressman regarding the "extensions."

Duncan says that some articles inserted in the Record serve a useful Congressional function, estimating that up to 20 per cent of the "extensions" should be retained. But the rest are worthless and ought to be banned, at least at public expense, according to Duncan. Limiting the number of pages available to a lawmaker would force a choice regarding the worth of every item inserted, Duncan said.

The top 10 spenders are generally clustered at the ends of the House political spectrum — or are candidates for other political office, indicating that there may be ulterior motives in the use of the Record by some.

John Rarick, D-La., 161 pages for a whopping $33,700 price tag; Michael Harrington, D-Mass., 135; Jerome Waldie, D-Cal., a likely candidate for governor in his home state, 123 pages; Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., 104; Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., 86; Olin Teague, D Texas, 83; Donald Fraser, 82; John Brademas, D-Ind., 73; Phillip Crane, R-Ill., and Lawrence Hogan, R-Md., 62 pages each.

Ten congressmen also found it impossible to survive the entire nine months without inserting a single item in the "extensions of remarks" section.

Wisconsin lawmakers and their page totals and the tax costs in the first three quarters of the year are:

Clement Zablocki, D-4th, 33 pages and a $6,897 cost; Les Aspin, D-1st, 30 pages, $6,270; Henry Reuss, D-5th, $4,807; David Obey, D-7th, 22 pages, $4,598; William Steiger, R-8th, 20 pages, $4,180; Vernon Thomson, R-3rd, 19 pages, $3,971; Harold Froehlich, R-8th, 15 pages, $3,135; Robert Kastenmeier, D-2nd, 11 pages, $2,299; and Glenn Davis, R-9th, 2.5 pages, $522.

Tribe squabbles over forest protection

NEOPIT, Wis. (AP) — Menominee Indians have agreed they are concerned about protection of their virgin forest, but they disagree on how to protect it.

Most of Menominee County's 234,000 acres are forest land, and the forest crop represents the principal asset of the tribe.

But at Saturday's annual meeting of Menominee Enterprises, Inc. stockholders, a motion that the Menominee restoration bill now before Congress be amended to require sustained yield cutting of the reservation forest lost by one vote.

Sustained yield cutting is a practice which assures long-term production from the forest.

The restoration bill, which would return the county to federal reservation status, calls for formation of a Tribal Restoration Committee. Opponents of the motion said the committee would be responsible for assuring a sustained yield harvest from the forest.

Theodore S. Boyd, MEI vice president for finance, reported corporate profits of $147,500 for the last fiscal year, but said they would have more than doubled under provisions of the Restoration Act.

Under restoration, the tribe would be exempt from federal and state taxes. Boyd said that would have meant an additional profit in the fiscal year of about $177,000.

"It was significant to note that this was accomplished without selling land," Boyd said. He referred to a longstanding dispute among tribal members over sale of Indian land to non-Menominees.

The practice was halted after many Indians voiced opposition to the land sales.

Indictments against Nowakowski affirmed by Circuit Court

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — A Circuit Court announced Monday its refusal to dismiss indictments against Richard C. Nowakowski, chairman of Milwaukee County's Board of Supervisors.

Nowakowski has been charged with accepting a bribe, violating the state's Corrupt Practices Act and soliciting other persons to commit perjury during a grand jury investigation of his activities.

Judge Robert C. Parins said that, for a second time, he is refusing to dismiss the indictments. Nowakowski, a former Democratic state legislator, has sought dismissal on grounds he has received prejudicial news coverage.

Parins said he expects to rule in two weeks on other motions in the case, after which he will confer with attorneys concerning a date for trial.

Police & fire beat

A rural Hortonville man was confined to the Outagamie County jail pending traffic charges after he and a passenger were injured in a single-car crash at Plamann Park about 10:20 p.m. Tuesday.

The man, Thomas J. Plach, 18, route 2, Hortonville, was taken to the jail after being treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital for a head bump and hand cut.

The passenger, Cindy Ward, 16, 1707

E. Newberry St., Appleton, was listed in fair condition at St. Elizabeth after being treated for a broken nose, cut knee and possible concussion.

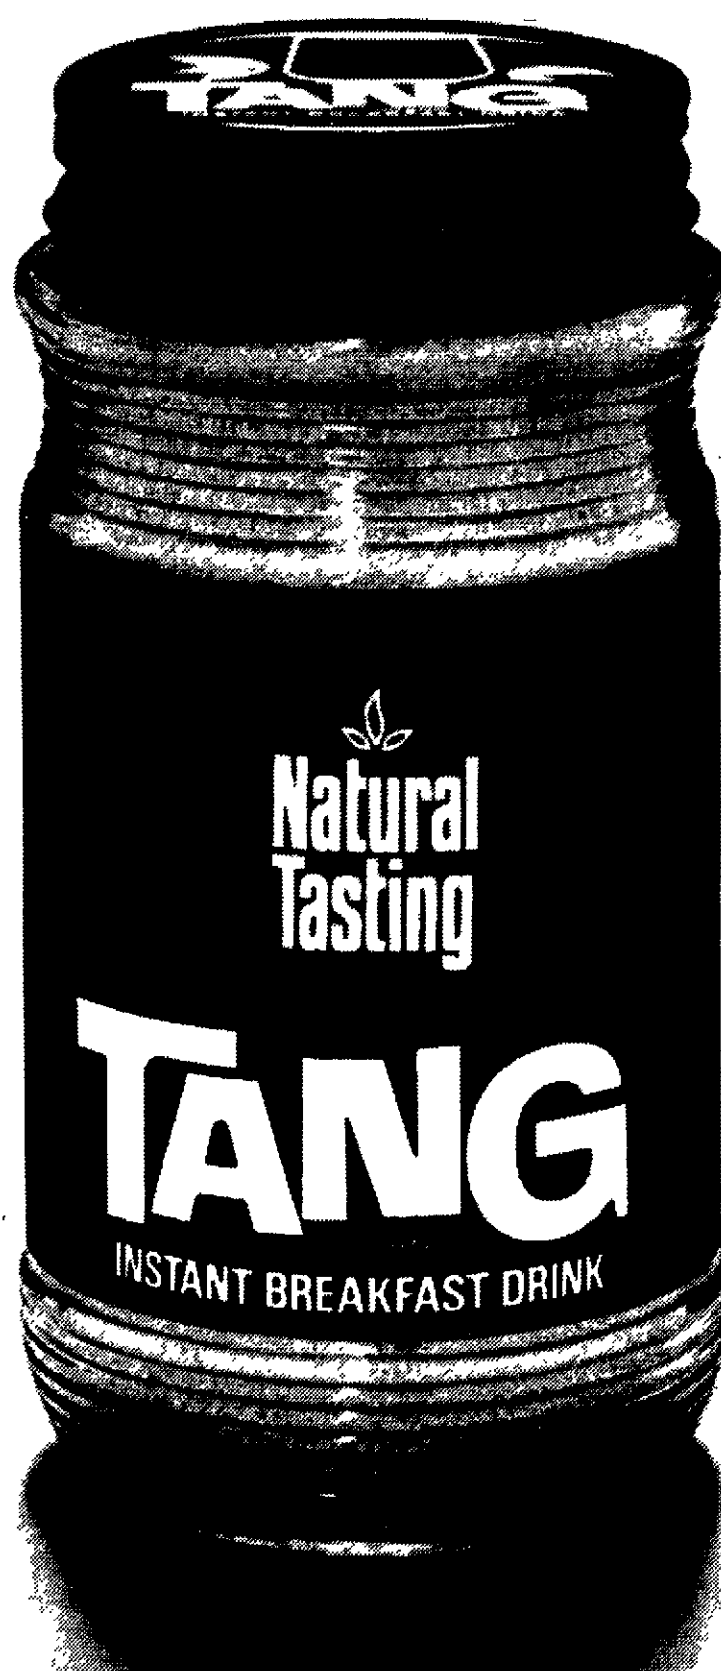

Police said Plach was driving east on Plamann Park Road, missed a curve, ran off the road along a ditch and struck a culvert near Plamann School. He told an officer that his brakes failed.

Jan L. Nettekoven, 36, route 2,

Black Creek, received an arm injury in a two-car accident at Lawe and Washington streets about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Police said she was driving south on Lawe when the second car, driven by Barbara J. Leiternann, 23, 1200 S. Weimar St., entered the intersection from the westbound lane of Washington and struck her auto. Police said the Leiternann car failed to stop at a stop sign.

What a great tape machine

WASHINGTON—Dear Customer. Congratulations! You are now the owner of a 1973 Mark VI Presidential Accident-Prone Tape Recording Machine.

The Mark VI has been scientifically developed to produce the highest quality hums of any tape recorder on the market. It can malfunction at the press of a button, and you can erase anything you want on your tape without even knowing it.

With just a little practice you will have the greatest collection of unintelligible noises ever recorded which you can play back to friends, judges and grand juries any time you want to.

Here's how to use your Mark VI Presidential tape machine:

The first thing to do is sit at a desk facing your typewriter. Place your tape recorder next to you on a small table with the foot pedal underneath the desk. The telephone should be at least three feet behind your chair, almost impossible to reach.

Insert the tape into the recorder and push the PLAY button and start transcribing the voices. Then have someone call you. As soon as the phone rings, reach back with your left hand and accidentally press the RECORD button instead of the STOP button, making certain while twisting your body to keep your left foot on the pedal.

Keep this position for 5 1/2 minutes, which should erase 18 minutes of tape.

After you hang up the phone, put the earphones on again, release your foot from the pedal, push the PLAY button and you should hear a loud shrieking hum.

If for some reason you do not get the hum after the telephone call, you are probably doing one of several things wrong.

1—Check to see that the tape you inserted is the one you wanted wiped out. All tapes look alike and some are not worth erasing.

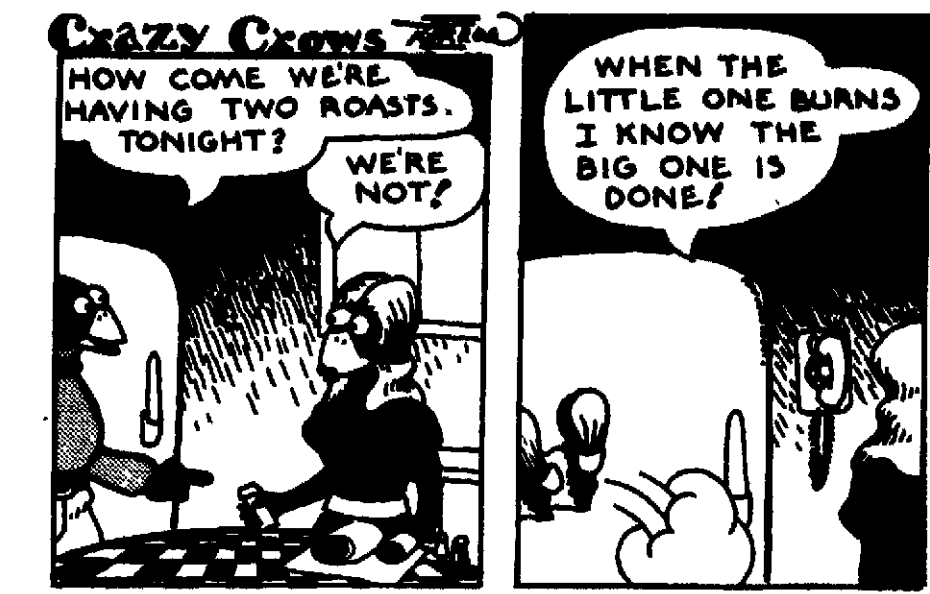

2—Did you by accident press the STOP button when you should have pressed the RECORD button? If you press the STOP button when the phone rings, it is IMPOSSIBLE to accidentally erase a perfectly good tape.

3—Were you sitting in the correct position when the phone rang? If the phone was not located directly behind you, it would be very difficult to reach for it and also hit the RECORD button at the same time.

4—Did you keep your foot on the pedal when you answered the phone and accidentally pressed the WRONG button? Your Presidential Tape Recorder Mark VI will not malfunction unless you push the wrong button at the right time.

5—The quality of the hum you get on your tape will depend on your foot pressure. A weak hum indicates you do not have your foot pedal pressed all the way down to the floor.

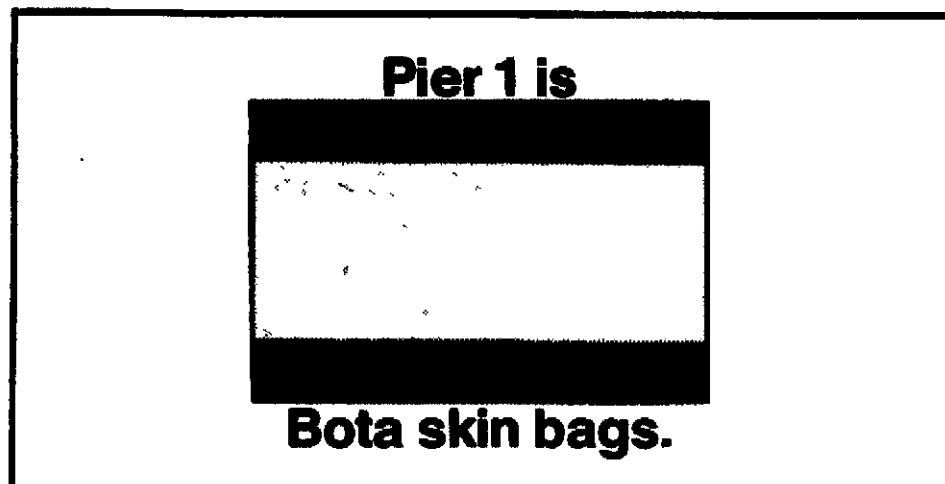

The Mark VI Presidential Tape Recorder has been tested under combat conditions. Secretaries all over the United States swear by it. Here is what Rose Mary Woods, a top-flight executive secretary, says about her presidential tape recorder. "I have been using the Mark VI tape machine for several months now and I don't know how I ever managed without it. It gives me hums when I want hums, and it gives me voices when I want voices. No machine on the market can erase so much conversation so fast."

If for any reason your Mark VI fails to erase accidentally your key conversations, you may return it to company headquarters at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, where it will be fixed absolutely free. The life of this warranty is for three more years or impeachment, whichever comes first.

Shredder lawsuit bid fails

The second lawsuit to block the city's sale of industrial park land to Outagamie County for a solid waste shredder site has been dismissed. County Judge Urban Van Susteren ruled today that the city could legally sell the land and that the use of the site for the shredder did not violate deed restrictions or zoning restrictions. The zoning question was moot, Van Susteren said, because the city had rezoned the property to make it compatible with shredder use and the deed restrictions had been tied to the zoning.

Besides, Van Susteren noted, the state Supreme Court has ruled numerous times that a county is not bound by city zoning regulations.

On the key question of whether the sale violated constitutional restrictions, Van Susteren said the restriction applies only to property acquired by condemnation.

The injunction was sought by Aid. William Errington (15th), in whose ward the northeast industrial park is situated. Errington had charged that the sale violated the city's Planned Industrial Park zoning restrictions, the deed restrictions applying in the park and state statutes under which the industrial park was originally acquired by the city.

Van Susteren said he recognized that there is a constitutional restriction on selling land acquired through condemnation for public use. But, he ruled, a 1912 amendment permitting such sale if the land is formally declared as no longer being needed only served to broaden the restriction on condemned land and not to restrict sale of other property.

The judge said he fully agreed with the "public purpose doctrine" as a prevailing rule in that a city may not use public monies or property for a non-public purpose.

However, he said the city did not violate that rule because it didn't give the land to the county and the sale price was not challenged, as not being fair.

"My view is that the city has more land in its industrial park that is unsold and that it is able to get more land. The presence of the shredder in the city is a boon to industry, commerce and the individual citizen," Van Susteren ruled.

One to a car

Rush hour through the Appleton Flats is packed with autos, as this Tuesday evening scene shows. According to Post-Crescent Photographer Tom Running, however, most of the autos were far from packed. Most cars had one — or, at most, two — occupants, indicating that many motorists aren't heeding appeals to join car pools to save fuel.

Decision due on vocational school status

BY FRANK CHURCH
Post-Crescent staff writer

The Appleton Vocational School's vacant main building could be left unheated, and the two-building former technical school campus could be destined for oblivion, if the City Council approves a recommendation of the Board of Public Works tonight.

The recommendation — B made by Inspection Director Charles Magnette and endorsed unanimously by the full board Tuesday — is to heat just the smaller building this winter in anticipation of razing the structures.

It will cost $4,200 to winterize the main building and modify water and heat distribution systems to service the smaller building, where the city parking meter department and Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 mechanical classes still are housed.

The board was ready to forego even the $1,300 cost for winterizing the large building until Magnette said that to do so might cause damage to fixtures and other building parts that could bring money on the salvage market when the building is torn down.

Magnette said today that if the council endorses the board's recommendation, the main building could be without heat in about four weeks. The inspection director estimated that heating costs would be cut 60 per cent by cutting off the main building from the system, or about $3,000 per year.

The Appleton Redevelopment Authority (ARA) also recommended that the building be torn down. ARA Executive Director Eric Hemphill, in a letter, said the condition of the building, the fuel shortage, slippage problems on the hill above Water Street and other factors were considered.

"Such action (cutting off heat to the main building) and eventually razing the building would in no way adversely affect the authority's plans or objectives for the downtown area," wrote Hemphill.

Mayor James Sutherland had asked the ARA to give its recommendation because of the future roll the Kimball Street site might play in downtown redevelopment efforts. Sutherland and Hemphill have said the site, without the buildings, might be used for other public or private buildings in the future.

The board was committed to razing the buildings eventually, although that cannot be done now because of the tenants occupying the smaller quarters. In six months, however, the contract with VTAE-12 will run out and the building can be torn down.

Sutherland said the city could forego spending $1,300 to winterize the large building — in anticipation of eventually tearing it down — but Magnette squelched that by saying that the winterizing could pay for itself in increased prices for the pipes, fixtures and other materials salvaged when the building is torn down.

By winterizing it, however, the city could decide later to open it again. Magnette said that after a year of being closed, it would cost between $1,000 and $1,200 to re-open it. Each additional year would raise the cost another $500 to $1,000.

Board members didn't want that, so they added a provision to their motion specifying that the work was being done in anticipation of the building's being razed.

Ald. Roylance Pointer (14th) said the city should try and sell the property, cheaply if it has to, to get the property on the city tax roll.

The spur to the latest effort to sell the largely unused former vocational school is the fuel oil shortage, which threatens to leave the city without enough fuel to keep the two-building complex warm this winter.

Added to that is the problem the city has had with Water Street and its retaining wall, between Oneida and Drew

3 orphaned children have a new home

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent staff writer

MENASHA — Three Oshkosh children who wanted to stay together after a car accident Saturday night left them orphaned have found a new home with the family of a Menasha minister.

One of the children is deaf, but that's no big problem because his new "father" is the Rev. Edgar D. Clark, pastor of Evangel Deaf Chapel here.

The Clarks brought John, Kim and Shelly Bantleon into their home Sunday, the day after their mother, Nancy Bantleon, 402 W. 17th Ave., was killed in the accident on Winnebago County Trunk A near Oshkosh. She was expecting her fourth child.

On Tuesday morning her husband, Raymond, driver of the speeding auto that was fleeing a hit and run accident, died in an Oshkosh hospital.

A county policeman who was on County Trunk J said the Bantleon car passed in front of him at 90 to 100 miles per hour. He pulled onto County Trunk A, intending to pursue the vehicle, but before he could get his red lights and siren on, the car left the highway, struck a sign and an embankment and flipped over. Two passengers in the car, including Mrs.

Bantleon's brother, Michael McCue of Oshkosh, escaped death.

Shortly before the fatal crash, the Bantleon car struck the side of another auto, causing minor damage.

Bantleon, an unemployed laborer, no longer had insurance on his car. He sped away. The hit and run accident occurred near the fatal crash site.

Winnebago County Coroner Duane Moore said today he probably will not call an inquest because questions regarding the accident have been resolved through statements taken by authorities Tuesday.

He termed "absolutely untrue" a television station's report that Bantleon's car crashed during a chase by police. The dead woman's father, Harold McCue, also said the car was not being chased.

The Bantleon children attended their parents' double services this afternoon at an Oshkosh funeral home.

Clark conducted the services. Then he brought the children back to his home. The Clarks are not adopting the children. They will seek legal custody.

There are relatives who could take the children, but they know the Clarks will give them a good home.

"I'm in agreement with it," said McCue.

"They will be brought up in a religious home and they will be kept together. I don't want them separated."

The Clarks have grown close to the Bantleon children since John, 13, who is deaf, started attending Evangel Deaf Chapel four years ago.

Mrs. Clark was one of John's teachers in his deaf classes at Merrill School in Oshkosh.

Ever since John's sisters, Kim, 8, and Shelly, 6, have been big enough to climb into the chapel's small van, they have accompanied their brother to Sunday School, church school and the church camp near Brillion.

"The kids are very close," Clark said. They are learning to "talk" to John, using sign language. John's hearing aids permit him only to distinguish sound. Neither of his sisters is deaf.

"We have a deep love for the children," Clark told a reporter.

They have many questions about their parents' deaths, he explained. "We're answering them as best we can and they are drawing strength from their prayers." Clark said the children also have been an inspiration to his family.

The Clarks have two children. Lester is in college and Linda, a high school senior, has been the Bantleon children's Sunday School teacher.

Mayor selects energy director

Appleton has its own energy director with the appointment today of Dr. Roger Mosher, an oral surgeon, to head the city's Energy Crisis Committee.

Mayor James Sutherland made the appointment and set guidelines for future committee action to fight the energy crisis.

He said he saw the committee giving "major emphasis" to gathering and disseminating information on energy-related matters, from how best to winterize a home in case of a freeze-up to recommendations of specific energy conservation measures.

Sutherland was instructed by the City Council in October to appoint a committee to coordinate local action on the energy crisis. Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd), who initiated the proposal, said the city should be ready for the crisis by providing surplus supplies of home heating oil and emergency plans in case individuals run out of oil.

Sutherland said today, however, that the committee would be more informational than action-oriented.

"Although I do not anticipate that the committee will get into detailed research efforts, I do see it sifting and winnowing available information so that it will have the ability to provide appropriate answers or refer people to the sources that can provide the correct answers," the mayor said in his press release.

Mosher's appointment to head the committee is the first of several expected from Sutherland in the days ahead, as he seeks others to serve. He said he would rely heavily on community participation and seek persons with expertise in areas related to energy.

"Although the committee has an admittedly limited role, it is an important one, and with the benefit of hindsight, we may soon find ourselves saying it is a critical role," said Sutherland. "Dr. Mosher's record of community concern and activity reflect the type of 'can do' aggressiveness needed in this situation."

Sutherland listed three areas for committee activity:

— Act as a center for energy conservation information.

— Develop and if necessary, coordinate an emergency plan to be put into effect if there are residential "freeze ups" due to lack of fuel.

— Recommend specific fuel conservation steps that can be taken by residents.

Sutherland said there is a need to "clarify" what does and what does not conserve energy.

"Too often people are receiving contradictory recommendations as to what they should do to conserve energy," he said. "Hopefully, the committee can ferret out and recommend the right approaches and discourage those actions which are counterproductive."

He said it could also recommend safety precautions be taken when implementing certain conservation measures.

Mosher, 1115 E. Moorpark Ave., is a past president and member of the building committee of the Golden Age Clubhouse, a member of the board of directors of the Appleton Youth Drop-In Center and has participated in YMCA and other fund-raising efforts.

He also belongs to numerous professional organizations on the local, state and national levels, the mayor said.

Purdy heads directors of St. Elizabeth

Bruce Purdy has been elected president of the St. Elizabeth Hospital Board of Directors. He has served as vice president of the board for the past two years.

Purdy, president of Outagamie Corp. and retired vice president of Appleton

Bruce Purdy

Wire Works, was chosen at the latest monthly board meeting.

Two new board members also were elected — Dr. H.C. Danford, a physician, and Leonard Tysver, vice president of the human resources division, Aid Association for Lutherans.

They replace R.W. Mahony, who remains as honorary chairman of the board, and Cyrus Rachie, who has left the area.

Other officers elected were Wendell Bueche, vice president; Richard A. Stack, secretary; John S. Wells, treasurer, and Sister M. Anselma Michka, assistant secretary-treasurer.

The other members of the board are Gus Zuehlke, Elmer Otte, Robert Sauter, William Sirek, Mrs. Niels Miller, Donald Plunkett, Sister M. Kathleen Daniel, Sister M. Barbara DeWindt and Sister M. Diane Sledge.

Zuehlke, who has served on the board for a number of years, was presented a plaque and a vote of appreciation for his "dedication and meritorious service as past president of the board."

Senate approval foreseen for recycling setup in state

BY TONY WALTER
Post-Crescent Madison bureau

MADISON — A state solid waste recycling program that proposes to use the Fox River Valley as its testing ground is expected to encounter some alterations before receiving a Senate stamp of approval early next year.

The Senate's Natural Resources Committee Tuesday heard representatives of private industry lead for a clarification of the wording in the bill in order to remove the possibility of competition between the state and private enterprise in the handling and processing of solid waste.

The bill, which passed the Assembly by a two-to-one margin in October, calls for the establishment of a nine-member authority to coordinate all solid waste recycling. The initial project is being planned for Outagamie, Winnebago and Fond du Lac counties.

Predominant fears among the bill's opposition included doubts that the project could be self-sustaining as some have claimed, that the state is committing itself to an untested program and that local municipalities may be forced into a state program although they have their own operating recycling systems.

Sen. Clifford Krueger, R-Merrill, committee chairman, said he agreed with the concept of the bill but would be anxious to see some of the doubts answered through amendment before the bill is passed.

"There will be some changes made," Krueger said. "But we'll have something ready for the Senate to vote on when it comes back in January."

Sen. Robert Kasten, R-Brown Deer, a strong supporter of the bill, expressed confidence that there were already enough votes to gain Senate approval but agreed that some wording changes would be wise to reassure the private sectors that his state is not seeking to compete.

Kasten represents an area of the state that would receive the third recycling project, an area including Washington, Milwaukee, Ozaukee and Waukesha counties. The second designated area is the Lincoln, Marathon, Portage and Wood county area of central Wisconsin.

Sen. Jack Steinhilber, R-Oshkosh, also expressed support for the concept but offered strong reservations about the wording of the bill. Steinhilber, who attended the hearing to listen to the four hours of testimony, said later that he was concerned about the state's getting into competition with private business.

The formulators of the bill insist that the state will not be competing with private business and will not require much tax money to operate. Many who appeared at the Tuesday hearing did not believe them.

The Wisconsin Towns Association, through lobbyist Myron Lotto, offered an amendment deleting a portion of the bill that would give the Solid Waste Authority the power to acquire property owned by a municipality through condemnation.

Gerald Schwerm of the League of Suburban Municipalities offered a series of amendments, including one which would allow any municipality to detach itself from the state program if it could prove that its own existing program cost less.

Much of the opposition came in the form of out-of-state witnesses. Among them were David Reichert, an attorney from Cincinnati representing the Institute for Scrap Iron and Steel; Eugene Wingerter of Washington, D.C., speaking for the National Solid Waste Management Association; and Jerome Scharf of New York, representing the National Association of Secondary Material Industries Inc.

Sen. Gordon Roseleip, R-Darlington, took issue with Kasten's statement that the program could be self-sustaining despite a provision of the bill asking for $23 million in bonding.

"Why should the other areas of the state, who have nothing to gain by this program, help support it?" Roseleip asked. "I think we're being discriminated against."

Remember the 50s?

The sounds and styles of the 50s made a big comeback Tuesday at Appleton High School-East. But it was short-lived, for the dress-up day was sponsored by the Pep Club as a promotion for the East-West basketball game Friday. Above, two seniors demonstrate the Twist for their classmates. Penny loafers, saddle shoes, tennies, sandals and bobby sox were part of the uniform of the day, left. (Post-Crescent photos)

Law creates problem for annexation plans

Appleton can annex about 45 acres of land in five town islands because of legislation recently passed by the state legislature, but there are about three acres it will not get because of another provision of that bill.

A specific prohibition against annexation that would create further town islands will prevent the city from annexing the land which lies south of Capitol Drive and west of Meade Street in the Town of Grand Chute.

Annexation proceedings on the property were started officially on Sept. 14. Owners of four of the eight lots included in the L-shaped parcel had signed a petition to annex, and prospects were good that one more lot owner would sign the petition.

Passage of the new law, however, ended that. If the land had been annexed by the city, it would have created a town island immediately to its south, where there are two lots that could not be brought in with the rest.

Proceedings to annex the 45 acres of town island land, however, have begun. The engineering department is drawing up legal descriptions of the five parcels.

Courts

Jedd T. Vander Zanden, 20, 439 Sidney St., Kimberly, was charged Tuesday with one count each of possession of amphetamines and marijuana.

Vander Zanden's truck was stopped on Lincoln Avenue in Little Chute on Oct. 27 after a patrolman claimed he saw a passenger in the vehicle drinking something from a glass. After the truck was stopped, the officer said he found a bag of marijuana and about 90 amphetamine pills in the vehicle.

The defendant appeared before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, where the case was continued to this afternoon.

Larry Jansen, 21, 1715 S. Jefferson St., was charged Tuesday with shoplifting a $5.79 auto tuneup kit from Treasure Island on Oct. 21.

He appeared before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, where the case was continued to Friday.

Thomas E. Whitney, 22, 511 Jeffrey St., Combined Locks, was charged Tuesday with indecent exposure.

The charge stemmed from a Sept. 25 incident near Mason and Eighth streets in Appleton, and reported to police by a 12-year-old girl.

Whitney entered a not guilty plea before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, and the case was continued for a Dec. 20 pre-trial conference.

Three Appleton men were charged with marijuana possession when they appeared Tuesday before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

A Dec. 12 hearing on motions was scheduled after the three entered not guilty pleas. The three include Neil J. Hartzheim, 20, 507 E. Maple St.; Arthur Taggart, 18, 2300 E. John St.; and Ronald J. Spoehr, 18, 915 E. North St.

The men were arrested late Nov. 9 near Lawe Street and Wisconsin Avenue after a patrolman spotted one of them as approximately matching the description of a suspect wanted in connection with an armed robbery. He said he found the marijuana after searching the men's car for weapons.

Leroy Lemke, 56, no permanent address, was sentenced Tuesday to 180 days in the county jail with Huber Law privileges after he was found guilty of shoplifting and public intoxication.

Lemke was arrested on the drinking charge at a car in the 400 block of W. Franklin Street on Nov. 1. Two days later, he was arrested for taking an $82 overcoat from Sears. He pleaded guilty to both charges before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Glen J. Schuh, 20, 4511 N. Meade St., was fined $100 after he was found guilty Tuesday of carrying open intoxicants in a moving vehicle.

Police said the defendant had an open bottle of beer in his vehicle when arrested at Douglas Street and Wisconsin Avenue early Sept. 28.

Schuh pleaded guilty before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Official waives right to preliminary hearing on perjury charge

OSHKOSH — An Altoona, Wis., city official, charged with perjury after he gave testimony in a John Doe investigation into chemical companies, Tuesday waived his right to a preliminary examination.

The defendant is Edward Duszynski, 50, superintendent of streets, sewer and water. His case was bound over to circuit court from county court, and he was released without bond.

Duszynski was arrested Nov. 14 and charged with having perjured himself during John Doe proceedings last April.

According to the complaint filed by state Atty. Gen. Robert Warren, Duszynski received a $306 boat from a Del Chemical Co. salesman in exchange for an odor control business from the City of Altoona. Duszynski on April 19 denied that the exchange occurred.

Chains most effective for safe winter driving

Today's tip for safer winter driving from Appleton Police Chief Earl O. Whiff:

"Before starting out on a winter trip, be prepared for severe weather conditions by carrying a set of reinforced tire chains in the trunk of your car. Tests by the National Safety Council have shown that they provide four to seven times the traction of regular tires on snow and ice."

Open house set for Big Brothers' center

An open house and dedication of the new headquarters of Big Brothers of the Fox Valley Region, Inc., is planned for Dec. 16 at the American Home and Realty building at 1919 N. Lake St., Neenah.

The event, from noon to 6:30 p.m., is open to the public. The dedication ceremony will begin at 2 p.m., according to F.E. Faulkner, executive director.

Neenah's residency case in AG's hands

NEENAH — The Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission has turned the city's residency case over to the attorney general's office for enforcement of a January award to a fired sanitation worker.

The commission submitted the case to the state prosecutors in mid-November. Charles Hoonstra, an assistant attorney general who handles WERC cases, said today that he was still reviewing the agency's decision to force Neenah to comply.

Hoonstra said he would probably decide in about a week how to proceed. If the case goes to court, it would be heard in Winnebago County Circuit Court, he said.

The case has a complicated history, going back to December 1970, when the city worker was fired after he moved out of Neenah. The city has had a residency requirement since 1966 as a work rule but not part of the labor negotiations with the Teamsters Union, which represented the worker.

A WERC arbitrator ruled in January that the worker was unjustly fired because of an "unreasonable work rule." That ruling was essentially the same as a December, 1971, decision by the same arbitrator. However, the first ruling was struck down in May, 1972, because the arbitrator addressed the constitutionality of the residency question, a matter out of his jurisdiction. The Teamsters appealed that technicality, and eventually the case was turned back to the same arbitrator. In the January ruling, the arbitrator in effect changed the semantics of his decision to avoid the constitutional question. But the award was the same: the city could have to reimburse the worker for lost wages, perhaps up to $20,000.

Throughout the case, the city has refused to comply with the award, hoping to set up a court test of the residency requirement. The latest developments in the case stem from City Atty. Duane Philis' letter to the commission, saying Neenah wouldn't follow an Oct. 25 order from the WERC. (That order came in response to an unfair practices labor practices complaint filed by the Teamsters.)

Philis was out of town this morning and could not be reached for comment. In the past, he has advocated going "all the way" to the state Supreme Court to test the legality of residency requirements. If the city takes that route, Philis has said he would need additional legal help to handle the case.

If the residency question does reach the Supreme Court, the case would affect many other municipalities in Wisconsin which have similar ordinances. Supreme Court tests in other states have gone both ways: some residency rules upheld, some struck down.

Woman found dead in parked auto

OSHKOSH — The body of a 27-year-old Town of Omro woman was found in the back seat of a car parked in her garage around 10:30 a.m. Monday.

Mary Curtis, route 2, apparently died from carbon monoxide poisoning. Her husband, George Curtis, discovered the body when he came home.

Proposals weighed for airport fire station

OSHKOSH — Officials resumed their daylong meeting of Tuesday at Wittman Field today to iron out technical points of outfitting and equipping the proposed on-airport fire station.

Michael Brock, airport manager, said he was meeting with Oshkosh Fire Chief, Russell Rothenbach, and three Federal Aviation Administration officials to reach a consensus.

Items discussed include the size of the proposed building, type of equipment and fire trucks needed, Brock said.

Behind the proposal for an on-airport station is a federal regulation relating to response time of emergency vehicles. Under that rule, suitable fire fighting apparatus must reach the midpoint of the furthest runway within three minutes of an alarm, or be in violation.

In a trial run a few months ago, airport authorities determined that the nearest city fire station, located about a mile north of the airport, could not respond with equipment in the required time.

Brock said information gathered this week would be reviewed by FAA authorities, who would come back with a list of recommendations in a couple of weeks.

A formal agreement between the city and county placing the county in charge of construction and the city responsible for manning the proposed station is still in discussion stages.

Most of the construction costs would be reimbursed by the state and federal governments, providing that the building conforms to regulations.

A formal agreement between the city and county would have to be ratified by the city council and county board to be effective.

Last year, the FAA threatened to decertify the airport if fire protective measures were not met on a specified date but reconsidered later when the county indicated planning was underway for a new building.

The first public meeting between city and county officials to draft a mutual agreement for airport fire protection was held last March.

One hospitalized

Eugene Schmidt, 23, rural Kaukauna, was reported in good condition today at Kaukauna Community Hospital where he is being treated for injuries sustained in a two-car accident about 3 p.m. Tuesday on U.S. 10 near Calumet County Trunk M five miles west of Forest Junction. Schmidt, driver of the car shown above, is being treated for fractured ribs. He was alone in his car, headed east on 10, according to State Patrol and Calumet County Sheriff's Department personnel. Daniel Fredericks, 30, Appleton, was westbound on 10, but authorities had no details at midmorning today on circumstances of the accident. Fredericks, also alone in his auto, was not hospitalized but told to see a physician. (Keller photo)

Six died on county roads in November

Six persons were killed and 86 were injured in traffic accidents investigated by Outagamie County police during November.

Although the injury total is for only those accidents outside the cities with police departments in the county, the fatalities represent the entire county. The county's fatality toll stands at 41 for the year, an all-time record.

County police investigated 145 accidents involving 216 vehicles during November. They issued 387 warnings and made 127 arrests. The arrests dropped from the 170 in October, but rose from the 92 of November, 1972.

Of the 127 arrests, 52 were for speeding, 11 for stop sign and light violations and 10 for illegal passing.

The 145 accidents are an increase from 139 in October and 131 the previous November.

Of this November's crashes, 35 were attributed to animals, mostly deer, while 28 were due to speeding. Another 15 were blamed on inattentive driving and 12 more were for following too closely.

The monthly figures were released today by Lt. Robert Keating of the sheriff's department.

Salary change listed

Dr. Thomas M. Loescher, who recently submitted his resignation as medical director at the Outagamie County Health Center, said today that his salary for the part-time position was $740 per month, not $900 as reported Tuesday.

Eugene K. Speener, health center superintendent, told The Post-Crescent today that he had mistakenly told a reporter Loescher was paid $900 a month. Loescher has been medical director since 1961.

Correction

David Wendtland, administrative assistant to Appleton Mayor James Sutherland, will become Oshkosh community development director on Jan. 7 at a salary of more than $17,000 a year.

It was incorrectly reported in Friday's Post-Crescent that his salary would be slightly more than $7,000.

Junior Achievement firm begins quiz show taping

Taping is slated to begin tonight at Fox Valley Technical Institute for the first in a series of 10 half-hour programs produced and directed by Junior Achievement students from nine Fox Valley high schools.

The shows — Trivia Quiz, patterned after an old College Bowl TV series in which student teams competed against one another to answer questions within a time limit — handled completely by the students from Kimberly, Appleton East and West, Fox Valley Lutheran, Xavier, Menasha, St. Mary-Central, Shattuck and Armstrong high schools, according to Robert Campbell, one of three advisers.

The youths, members of the Junior Achievement firm Fox Valley TV Productions, will produce, direct stage, research information and appear as team members and moderators in each show.

They also have solicited sponsorship of air time from local business and industry and in many instances have written and photographed material for commercials, Campbell added. The students and their advisers — Campbell, Mrs. Dolores Steller and Mrs. Pat Grantin, all employees of the Marine National Bank of Neenah, sponsor of the JA TV production firm — have worked on the program schedule for the last month.

The shows will be televised over cable TV stations in Appleton and Neenah-Menasha, beginning next week. Each program will be shown at 6:30 p.m. four times weekly, on Monday and Wednesday in Neenah-Menasha and on Tuesday and Thursday in Appleton.

Teachers ask citizen support in pact dispute

HORTONVILLE — The Hortonville Education Association, preparing to enter fact-finding with the board of education in an attempt to end a 10 month contract dispute, has asked district residents to ask board members to agree to binding fact-finding.

A fact-finding hearing with a University of Wisconsin-Madison mediator has been scheduled for Thursday, but the board twice has refused HEA requests to make the study binding. The hearing is open to the public. While the teachers' group has pushed for the binding study "so we can get this cleared up," the board, saying it wants to keep local control, has agreed to advisory fact-finding.

Ken Couillard, chairman of the teachers' negotiation committee, asked residents to call members and ask for binding fact-finding. "We're not appealing to the public to support our position, but we'd like it binding so that when the fact-finding is done, our dispute is done. Local control is fine," he added, "but when you reach an impasse, local control won't help."

Couillard said the dispute centers over salary base schedules and fringe benefits. But he added, "The only issue we're asking support on is to make it binding so we can get it settled."

He said HEA expects a ruling from David Johnson, the fact finder, in early January or sooner.

Couillard dispelled rumors that HEA was considering a strike vote before the Thursday hearing. "I have no plans to present a strike vote," he said. "It's obviously futile to take a strike vote before you go through fact-finding."

But he said a strike at the school is a possibility after fact-finding. Supt. Marvin Obry, in explaining the board's position, said the board wanted to retain local control for negotiations. "The board is concerned that if you go to a state person now (and it's binding), what stops it from going there in the future? It could go there year after year."

Vocational school . . .

streets, which prompted Public Works Director Robert Miller to put $950,000 in his 1974 preliminary budget request (which was cut by the mayor) to rebuild the street and the wall.

Miller, who is presently seeking a consultant to study the retaining wall problem, said he isn't sure whether removing the vocational school buildings will stop the pressure that is weakening the wall and street.

Magnette noted, however, that the southern end of the building (the latest addition) is "moving away, slowly but surely" down the hill because of the slippage.

Miller told the board Tuesday that it "might be a good investment" to rebuild the retaining wall and street regardless of what happens to the vocational school, because that might prepare the hilltop site for a developer.

The school site is about 1.58 acres, with about one acre of that on flat land and the rest running down the hill.

An informal appraisal of the property has placed a $75,000 value on the building (which has suffered because of the hill slippage) and a $200,000 price tag on the land.

Pointer, in arguing for razing of the building as soon as possible, said it would cost "at least half a million dollars" to remodel the structure in order to make it conform with state building code standards.

Annexation . . .

which vary in size from one-third of an acre to over 20 acres.

When completed, they will go to the Board of Public Works for initial action. The City Council must then give them a two-thirds vote of approval.

Action is expected as early as the council's second meeting in January.

City Atty. David Geenen told the board Tuesday that it could recover sewer and water line costs from the annexed areas through connection charges, but roads that now run through one of the islands and alongside the other four cannot be assessed.

Problems like law and health code enforcement and snow plowing procedures will be cleared up with the annexations. The presence of diseased elm trees on one of the tracts, and the rundown buildings on another, can be eliminated by the city once they annex the lands that are now completely surrounded by city property.

Recycling . . .

Winnebago counties appeared at the hearing and expressed differing opinions. Joseph DeBruin, chairman of the Outagamie County Zoning Committee, opposed the bill and said that Outagamie was in the process of building its own shredder in an Appleton industrial park.

Outagamie County board Supvs. Fred Rehfeldt, Eugene Klose and Clayton Van Dyke also appeared and Rehfeldt testified in favor of the program, despite the fact that the Outagamie County Board has voted against it.

Oshkosh City Manager Gordon Jaeger appeared in favor of the bill, pointing out that both the Oshkosh City County and Winnebago County Board support it.

Proxmire aide to be available for questions

Tom Pattison, home secretary for Sen. William Proxmire, will be in the Appleton main post office from 10 to 11 a.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 12, to answer citizen questions on any matter. No appointment is necessary.

The balance of the day he will spend making calls in the business area.

Auto industry layoffs welcomed, for now

DETROIT (AP) — Auto industry layoffs caused by the energy crisis or parts shortages mean pay losses for hundreds of auto workers, perhaps the loss of their jobs.

But to thousands of their fellow workers, the layoffs are a welcome holiday season respite. They will still get the bulk of their pay.

The Big Three American auto makers have announced layoffs for more than 200,000 of their 720,000 workers. Most of the layoffs are set for a week or less.

Many of the auto workers who have been laid off or who face a layoff will receive as much as 95 per cent of their usual take-home pay from unemployment compensation and from supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) under United Auto Worker contracts.

This, coupled with a week off before the holidays, couldn't make many of these auto workers happier.

"Why not," said one Pontiac, Mich. Pontiac auto assembler. "I've been working plenty of overtime. I'd love some time to relax."

"I've haven't been without work for more than a week since I was nine years

Kissinger talks with oil sheiks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is meeting with the Saudi Arabian oil minister to hear an explanation of that Middle East nation's cutoff of oil supplies to the United States.

Kissinger scheduled an hour for today's session with Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani. In addition, the meeting also was to involve Belaid Abdesalam, the minister of industry and energy for Algeria. Both have toured major European cities lately to explain the embargo and production cut of their countries' oil supplies since the Arab-Israeli war began Oct. 6.

The United States has been listed as hostile to the Arabs and, therefore, the object of a near total embargo of oil from Arab exporters.

In his conversations with Western European officials, Yamani has stated that the major condition for resumption of his nation's oil production is Israeli withdrawal from all Arab territory taken in the 1967 war, as well as lands conquered in October.

State Department officials do not expect today's meeting to accomplish much in arranging a quick resumption of oil supplies from Saudi Arabia. That will be the function of Kissinger's diplomatic efforts to bring about a full-fledged Middle East settlement, the sources said.

Part of that effort will be the secretary's trip through the Middle East later this month.

old," said Frank May, 29, a millwright at GM's Buick Division in Flint, Mich., who was clearly pleased with the prospect of a week's vacation at almost full pay.

"Most everybody here is taking it pretty well. Personally, I've got plenty of work to do around the house to keep me busy."

Still there is the future to consider. Because Buick doesn't have a small car to offer that booming market, some Buick workers are a little suspicious about what the paid-vacation could lead to.

"I really expected these shutdowns because all we make here is the big car," said Don Hanneman, 52, a skilled tradesman at Buick.

it often was Haig who knew the most the earliest about problems with Watergate tapes.

In another development Tuesday, an attorney for billionaire Howard Hughes gave the Senate Watergate committee $100,000 in cash, supposedly the same bills given three years ago to Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo to pass on to President Nixon's re-election committee. Each of the 1,000 $100 bills was photographed by committee staffers on a copying machine.

The money was given to Rebozo, President Nixon's close personal friend, in two $50,000 installments in 1969 and 1970.

The money was kept in a Florida bank. It never was turned over to the re-election committee and last summer, according to Rebozo and the President, the same bills were returned to Hughes.

Lawyer for committee studying impeachment says he's 'good cook'

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Attorney Richard Cates is not saying much about his part in a House review of the possibility of impeaching President Nixon, but says his cooking is good.

Cates, of Madison, is the No. 2 man on the staff of the House Judiciary Committee, which is trying to determine if it should recommend impeachment.

He was appointed last month to work as assistant to general counsel Jerry Zeifman.

In telephone interviews from Washington with the Madison Capital Times, Cates and Zeifman declined to comment on the investigation.

"We are trying to be very judicious," Zeifman said.

Cates said his job "gives me a chance to totally immerse myself in one project," but also gives him a chance to try out his skills at the stove.

"I never cooked before I came down here except for once at the Edgewater (Hotel). They hired me as a cook, but fired me in two days," Cates said.

"Now I'm finding out they made a big mistake," he said, "because I am pretty good at it."

11 killed as fire hits bar in Pusan, Korea

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — A flash fire at a downtown bar killed 11 persons Tuesday night and injured nine others in this south coast city, police reported.

The police said one of the customers was drunk, had a quarrel with one of the female employees and set inflammable ornaments afire. About 40 persons rushed for the narrow exit, and most of the victims died of suffocation. One kitchen employee drowned in a water tub.

Barber says Nixon is easy man to please

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barber Milton Pitts says his most prominent customer is an easy man to please.

Pitts, who cuts the hair of President Nixon about every 10 days, talked with reporters at a White House dinner party

Tuesday night. He said Nixon takes a razor cut.

"The President is a great person. President Nixon never tells me what to do. He's very kind, very easy to please," said Pitts.

Major highway blocked by protesting truckers

places. Authorities said 300 to 400 trucks were involved at one point.

Earlier, police used tow vehicles to remove some of the 800 trucks blocking Interstate 80 in Pennsylvania. The log-jam near Milesburg finally broke up as the trucks started moving at 10 m.p.h. in a two-abreast parade that stretched for 20 miles.

There were demonstrations by truckers on Tuesday in Connecticut and Delaware as well as in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Ohio. In addition, one man blocked the New York State Thruway near Buffalo in a brief independent stoppage.

Truck blockades formed Tuesday night on Interstate 80 in Pennsylvania at the Lamar and Danville exits in the center of the state, at Bartonville near Stroudsburg and at the Strattville exit near Pittsburgh.

When Pennsylvania State Police moved in early today to tow the trucks away, drivers complained that officers broke windows and damaged drive shafts on their rigs.

James Cox, public information officer for the Pennsylvania State Police, said truckers locked their cabs and left the trucks in gear, making it impossible to tow them. He said police had little choice other than to break windshields of vehicles that had to be moved.

The American Trucking Association, a trucking industry organization, and the Teamsters Union, which represents 400,000 drivers, both disclaimed involvement in the protest.

The truckers want an increase in the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit imposed in many areas, and they also want a price ceiling placed on the diesel fuel most trucks use.

In Chicago, Teamsters Union President Frank E. Fitzsimmons said Teamster contracts may have to be reopened if the 55 m.p.h. speed limits are kept in force and wages fall. Many drivers are paid on a mileage basis, and slower speeds mean less mileage.

An Ohio Turnpike blockade Tuesday night cut that busy route between Norwalk and Fremont, 90 miles west of Cleveland. Some 40-50 trucks were involved, police said.

The demonstration came after two truckers had been arrested earlier for impeding traffic on the toll road by driving too slowly.

After the arrests, more than 100 angry drivers met at a turnpike plaza and the drivers decided to stop their rigs on the road. Patrolmen rerouted traffic and let the trucks stay where they were.

Trucks also blocked highways in New Jersey, at Lodi and Blairstown, and at Wheeling, W.Va., Tuesday. Seven drivers were arrested in New Jersey and one in West Virginia.

In Delaware, police broke up a gathering of an estimated 25 truckers near Interstate 295 Tuesday.

Three drivers were arrested near Newtown, Conn., Tuesday on charges of impeding traffic. Arresting officers said they had driven their trucks three abreast on Interstate 84 at 20 miles per hour.

On the New York State Thruway, a driver who swung his tractor-trailer across two lanes of the highway after being stopped for exceeding the speed limit was arrested for obstructing governmental administration, reckless driving and disorderly conduct. Police said he told them he blocked the road to protest the 50 m.p.h. speed limit.

In Los Angeles, Overdrive Magazine, which calls itself "the voice of the American trucker," urged a nationwide walkout Dec. 13 and 14. A spokesman said the protest would signify "the ultimate in fuel conservation."

IF EVERYONE
IT WOULD SAVE
22 MILLION GALLONS OF HEATING OIL
A DAY.

AND THERE WOULD BE COMPARABLE SAVINGS OF NATURAL GAS AND ELECTRICITY, TOO.

The President of the United States has urged all Americans, whether they heat with oil, gas or electricity, to dial down their thermostats 6° to help conserve heating fuel. If everyone does — homes, offices, factories, schools, government — the savings would be immense. On a cold day, heating oil consumption alone would be reduced 22 million gallons. A tremendous amount of natural gas would also be conserved and could be used to relieve the shortage of petroleum products. That's enough to make the difference between a serious shortage and a moderate one.

DIAL DOWN TO 68°

For every degree the thermostat is set above 68°, it increases fuel consumption about 3%. So, if you keep your thermostat at 68° during the day, you're conserving a substantial amount of heating fuel.

If you dial down even lower when you go to bed at night, you'll be saving even more. And, if you go away over the holidays, dial down to 55° so you don't waste fuel overheating an empty house.

THE GASOLINE SHORTAGE: WE BEAT IT WHEN EVERYONE USED A LITTLE LESS

Last summer, most people hardly felt the effect of the gasoline shortage. Many questioned if there really was a shortage after all.

The fact is, the shortage never got as bad as feared because people did conserve gasoline. Little things — like driving slower, avoiding jackrabbit starts and combining trips — reduced consumption enough so that few people ever experienced serious difficulty in getting gasoline.

If it worked last summer, it can work this winter. If each of us just uses a little less, there'll be more for all of us. Enough, hopefully, so that no one need suffer.

THE ALTERNATIVE: EMPTY SCHOOL ROOMS AND FACTORIES

If we don't conserve, something has got to give. There just won't be enough fuel to heat everything that needs heating.

Schools will close. Businesses will be forced to shut down.

And, since many electric utilities use heating oil to generate electricity, the shortage of fuel may cause brown-outs. Especially over the holidays when Christmas trees and more cooking and baking increase the demand for electric power.

WHAT STANDARD IS DOING TO EASE THE SHORTAGE

We are producing as much heating oil as we can, and investing heavily to produce even more.

We spent more money in 1973 exploring for new sources of oil than in any other year in our history. And, in 1974, we'll top that record.

We're currently adding 4 huge tankers to our fleet and recently announced plans to add 7 more.

An $88 million investment is being made in our Texas City, Texas, refinery to increase its capacity for handling foreign crude.

A $2.5 million investment is being made to increase pipeline capacity. We're enlarging our storage capacities for heating oil in those areas of the country where extremely cold weather is likely to occur. We are telling all Standard employees to dial down, both at home and at work. We are urging other businesses to dial down, too. We are reducing the electric lighting in our offices.

And, we're running ads like this one, urging everyone to conserve heating fuel wherever possible. The ads can't create more oil, but they can help make the oil there is go farther.

MAKE YOUR NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION EARLY: DIAL DOWN NOW

Every day people don't conserve there's just that much more heating fuel used, and that much less to get us through the really severe winter months.

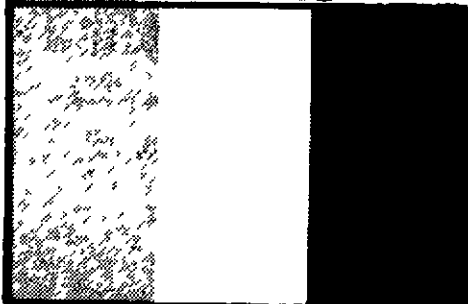

So dial down today. And stay dialed down until the threat of shortage has passed.

And, check your home for other ways to conserve. For a free booklet, on what to do, contact your Standard heating fuel man, or write: Heating Fuel Conservation, Standard Oil, MC 1506, P.O. Box 6110A, Chicago, Illinois 60680.

Grand Chute receives $2.29 tax rate credit

GRAND CHUTE - Town taxpayers will receive a state tax credit of $2.29 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, reducing the tax rates by that amount, the town board learned Tuesday night.

Clerk Leslie Woldt said the credit, which is up from the $1.80 a year ago, will produce an additional $186,687 in revenues to hold down the rates.

With the state tax credit, the tax rates will be $21.46 for property owners living in the Appleton school district and $17.96 for those living in the Hortonville school district.

For those living in the Appleton district and the Butte des Morts Utility District, the rate will be $23.46; for those in the utility and water districts, $28.75, and for those in the water district but not the sewer district, $24.46.

All real estate and Class B personal property in the town is assessed at 100 per cent of full value, with the town assessor increasing all properties from the approximately 80 per cent of a year ago. As a result, the tax rates declined.

Woldt said that the state also informed the town that Class A personal property payments from the state would be raised from 65 to 79 per cent.

In other action, the town board approved a three-month extension of its reservation of a Class B liquor license for Como of Wisconsin, Inc., the firm which announced plans last August to construct a supper club west of U.S. 41 on College Avenue. The club is part of a proposed $80 million building complex.

The town received a letter from Como indicating it had "experienced preconstruction problems" and was delayed in starting construction. Construction hasn't started yet, Building Inspector Robert Van Handel told the board Tuesday.

Como asked for another six months of license reservation, but board members spoke against that long a period.

James Gasper, a town board member, said he opposed the six-month extension at this time. He urged that the firm be given only three months, enough time to start construction.

If Como has started construction in about two weeks, as it now predicts, then the period can be extended again, he added. The extension approved will be to March 4, 1974.

In another move, the town board approved reserving a Class B liquor license for Michael Fischer, who said he intends in spring to start construction of a night club at Packard Street and Lynndale Drive. He estimated the facility, which will include two bars and two service bars, will cost about $250,000.

Fischer and John Murphy of Imperial Real Estate Development Corp. said the club would have a basement and ground floor and would offer live entertainment, including bands and show groups. They expect it to be completed by late summer or early fall.

Fischer, who said he operated the Lantern tavern for eight years, said the plans were to construct a health facility next to the night club in the spring of 1975. That is expected to include saunas, handball, badminton, miniature golf, swimming pool and other health facilities.

Murphy estimates that would cost $300,000 to $400,000 and would be ready by early fall of 1975. That liquor license became available when a dinner-theater project proposed last summer never materialized.

The town board also adopted a snowmobile ordinance dealing with use, operation and commercial leasing, and amended its gun ordinance to outlaw the carrying or discharging of firearms, sling shots, bows and arrows, pellet guns and BB guns in the portion of the town south and east of U. S. 41.

L & R Inc. fined for liquor law violation

An Appleton firm was fined $250 after it was found guilty Tuesday of a liquor law violation.

According to the terms of a plea bargain, L & R Inc., which operates Holiday House, 116 N. Locust St., pleaded no contest to a charge of failure to retain invoices for liquor stock. A second charge, for possession of liquor purchased from an unauthorized source, was dismissed. The fine was assessed by Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 after the plea was entered by Robert Vandehey, president of L & R.

The charges had been filed after a routine investigation of the premises by a state agent on Nov. 19. He said the outlet had six fifths of whiskey without state liquor stamps on display for sale, while another case of unstamped whiskey was found in a storage room. He said there were no invoices for the unstamped liquor.

Post office now sells wrapping materials

Postal-approved package sealing and wrapping supplies now are for sale at the Appleton post office, according to Arlo F. Callahan, officer in charge.

A first for most post offices, a new program makes available approved package sealing tapes, wrapping papers, twine, reinforced tapes and mailing labels to customers. This pilot program is expected to expand nationally.

Called "Mailing Material Centers," brightly colored displays will hold the materials.

Menominee reservation bill advanced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Menominee Indians of northern Wisconsin may be restored to reservation status by the end of the year, Rep. Harold V. Froehlich said Tuesday.

The Wisconsin Republican made his forecast after the Senate Interior Committee gave its blessing to a slightly modified restoration bill which the House approved 404-3 in October.

The Menominee converted their reservation to Menominee County in the early 1960s, taking charge of their own economic development. They since have sought restoration of federal aid programs available under reservation status.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., a member of the committee, said he expects final Senate action on the measure in two weeks.

Froehlich, whose district includes

Menominee County, said the bill has "a good chance to be signed into law before the end of the year."

The Senate committee concurred with the House that Congress should not have the power to veto a provision in the Wisconsin Constitution which requires a county referendum to abolish the county or alter its boundaries.

Froehlich had said restoration should be delayed until there are assurances that the county's non-Indian minority will not be required to take on an increased property-tax burden under an Indian government.

He called it a "balanced" bill, saying it provides the Menominee with their fiscal wishes "while protecting the rights of concerned property owners."

"A key section" protects the rights of non-Indian residents by "authorizing the state to restructure local government, should it become necessary," Froehlich said.

Froehlich aide Dave Prosser said the provision "acts as a check against any abusive powers by the people who control the county."

Several non-Indians purchased cabin sites at a housing development sponsored by an Indian-owned economic improvement corporation.

Prosser said the restoration bill assures the non-Indians that they will not be forced to surrender their tracts.

An amendment adopted by the Senate committee requires the Menominee to arrange an agreement with the secretary of the interior for transferring tribal assets to federal trusteeship.

The agreement is to be worked out in a year and filed with the Senate and House interior committees for approval.

The bill also calls for sustained-yield timbering, a safeguard against clear-cutting under which all trees are cut regardless of size.

Truckers' energy views ripped

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — If the trucking industry was really concerned about the energy shortage, it would be promoting rail transportation, Gov. Patrick J. Lucey said Tuesday.

Lucey's comment on the truckers' argument that 65-foot-long, twin trailers would save energy came during an interview on state educational station WHA-TV taped for showing Friday.

The truckers, led by John Varda, a lobbyist and general manager of the Wisconsin Motor Carriers Association, have begun an advertising campaign advocating the legalization of the longer trucks in Wisconsin.

"I don't think that John Varda and company are as concerned about the energy crisis as they are in sort of warming up an old chestnut that's been around a long time," Lucey said.

"If they were really concerned about the energy crisis, they would be doing everything they could to get us to use rails more and trucks less."

Aside from the trucking industry, the only possible beneficiary of the energy crisis that Lucey mentioned was the oil industry.

The governor said he thinks the oil industry is ready to charge all that an energy-hungry society will pay for its products.

"Oil billionaires are just going to get richer as the rest of us get colder," Lucey said.

Holiday Entertaining

Lillian Mackesy

POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR

Whether the holiday party is planned in every detail or is an impromptu get-together, every hostess hopes it will be an occasion both pleasant and well-remembered. So, instead of the usual dips and drinks or fruitcake and wine, plan some new yet nutritious foods. If a good old American custom of eggnog cheer is preferred, serve the nog with an ice cream base, or borrow from the food traditions of foreign lands, perhaps from the family's own ethnic background. Here's a sampling of ideas that all say "Merry Christmas" with good will and hospitality.

Danish Smorresbrod

HOLIDAY EGGNOG PUNCH

2 quarts Eggnog Ice Cream
2 quarts milk
2 cups bourbon, brandy or light rum
Nutmeg, optional
Spoon slightly softened ice cream into punch bowl; stir in milk and liquor. Refrigerate for 20 to 30 minutes before serving. Stir, and ladle into punch cups. If desired, sprinkle with nutmeg. Recipe makes about 25 four-ounce servings.

1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon minced onion
1/4 teaspoon sage
1 hard cooked egg

Mash together braunschweiger and cream cheese. Stir in lemon juice, minced onion, and sage. Pack firmly into a small mixing bowl and chill. At serving time, turn out on pretty plate and garnish with chopped egg white and sieved egg yolk.

RUSSIAN PIROUSHKI

3 cans refrigerator biscuits
1/2 pound skinless franks, ground
1/4 cup ground chicken or other cooked meat
1/3 cup tomato soup
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 egg yolk beaten with 1 tablespoon milk
Separate refrigerator biscuits and roll each to 1/4-inch thickness.

For filling, combine ground franks, ground cooked meat, soup and mustard. Place 1/2 teaspoon piroushki filling in center of each biscuit. Fold over to form half circles. Press the edges together with a fork. Transfer to an oiled shallow pan. Brush with the egg yolk-milk mixture and bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes. Serve hot. Recipe makes 36 pieces.

DANISH SANDWICHES

Sandwich fillings should combine interesting flavors and textures. The many sausages and round loaf lunchmeats available in the market make tasty, attractive fillers. Try paperthin slices of bologna, cervelat, chicken loaf, pepperoni or salami. Processed meats also make good sandwich spreads. Test some of these ideas.

On buttered rye rounds, place a slice of chicken loaf. Cut almost through a slice of orange and twist it into a fancy spiral atop the chicken loaf. Fit a pitted prune on each half of the orange and anchor with wooded picks.

Spread buttered white bread with braunschweiger. Arrange sauteed mushrooms fan-style on top, then add a strip of crisp bacon.

Grind skinless frankfurters, add a little chopped, tart apple and moisten to spreading consistency with mayonnaise. Use on buttered pumpernickel rounds.

Melt 4 tablespoons butter. Add 1/4 cup chopped onion. Saute till tender and remove from pan. Add 1/2 pound liverwurst to butter and slow-fry 2 minutes. Remove from heat; add onion, 2 hard cooked eggs, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Chop and mix to a paste. Chill. Spread on dark bread and top with a sliced stuffed olive.

Taste-teasing toppers will complete the finger sandwiches. Center each sandwich with a dot of seasoned butter. Press into that a choice of sliced dill or sweet pickle; a halved, stuffed olive; chopped hard-cooked egg; pimiento or

CENCI ALLA FIORENTINA

1 tablespoon softened margarine
1/4 cup unsifted confectioners sugar
5 egg yolks
1/2 teaspoon rum extract
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup heavy cream
1 1/2 cups unsifted flour
Peanut oil
Confectioners sugar

In small deep mixer bowl, cream margarine with 1/4 cup confectioners sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Blend in rum extract, salt, cream and flour to form a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes. Refrigerate at least 1 hour.

Divide dough in half. Roll each half out on board until paper thin. Cut dough into strips, 6 or 7-inches long and about 1/2 inch wide. Tie each strip into a loose knot and fry in deep hot (375-degree) peanut oil until golden brown. Drain on paper towels.

Just before serving sprinkle cenci with confectioners sugar. Recipe makes about 5 dozen cookies.

green pepper strips; a small pickled mushroom; chopped chives; or a salted nutmeat.

Seasoned Butters, used on bread before the filling and topping goes on, can be prepared in advance, and refrigerated for use. In 3/4 cup sweet butter or margarine blend a flavor-seasoning selected from the following:

1 1/2 tablespoon lemon or lime juice and 1 teaspoon fine-grated lemon or lime rind; 1 1/2 tablespoon table mustard; 2 1/2 tablespoon well-drained pickle relish; 2 1/2 tablespoon chili sauce, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and 3 drops Tabasco sauce; 2 tablespoons drained prepared horseradish and 1/4 teaspoon sugar.

To complete the smorresbrod, and make it authentic, serve cold mugs of beer and small glasses of aquavit, the Schnapps helps brighten the long dark Scandinavian holiday season.

If sandwiches are made days ahead, place on cookie sheet, seal with plastic wrap or foil and freeze

SIP AND SUP PARTY

Choose from the many varieties of sausages and wines for the buffet sip and sup party. These two foods strike a natural harmony, but the following pairings make pleasing combinations.

FRESH SAUSAGE (Pork sausage, bratwurst, Italian and thuringer) with burgundy or chianti. These meats must be cooked thoroughly, but gently, turning the sausage with tongs so as to keep the flavorful juices intact.

UNCOOKED SMOKED SAUSAGE (Similar to fresh sausage, prepared from meats that have been cured. These include mettwurst, Polish sausage smoked country sausage and they must be cooked thoroughly and refrigerated.) Serve with claret or burgundy.

COOKED SMOKED SAUSAGE (Skinless frankfurters and bologna which must be refrigerated and often, in the case of the wieners, tastes best when

Jaycettes to help kids shop

Appleton Area Jaycettes will be assisting with the annual Jaycee Christmas Shopping Tour slated Thursday evening. The Jaycees will be taking children ages five to 10 who are on city or county welfare programs to Shopko in Menasha which is providing a separate register and 10 per cent discount. Letters have been sent to participating families.

After the shopping trip, the Jaycettes will help wrap the gifts at St. Mary Catholic School. Santa Claus will be there with treats. Milk and cookies will be served.

Jaycettes' cerebral palsy child, Chad Siebers, will be taken on the tour by chairman, Mrs. Tom Wernecke. He will stay to join in the party fun.

Jaycees will pick children up at their homes at 6 p.m. Shopping will begin at 6:30.

Wrapping will begin at 7:30 p.m. and children will be returned home at 9 p.m.

Jaycee chairman and co-chairman are Duane Keller and Ken Kreil with Mrs. Tom Lonsway, Jaycette co-chairman.

Graham cracker facts

Did you know that the familiar graham cracker was named after a Graham? He lived in the early 1800s and was one of the first opponents of refined cereals in the diet. He was a serious forerunner of present day natural foods backer.

This Dr. Graham developed a partially refined flour that was named after him. When crackers made of this flour reached the market in the late 1800s they were known as Graham crackers and became one of the earliest "convenience" foods.

Today, it's an excellent snack food in itself but also is used often as a dessert with a layer of ice cream or pudding served between two crackers.

Beware those empty calorie snacks ••

There is increasing concern among nutritionists over obesity in children. Changes in eating habits and activities are creating larger numbers of overweight children. Snack foods consisting of little more than "empty calories" are constituting greater percentages of a child's diet. Coupled with the fact that many of these youngsters are getting less exercise, the increase in obesity is easy to understand.

This is where mothers come in. Start the child's eating pattern early with nutritious balanced meals and nutritious snacks. Fresh fruits and raw vegetables in season, peanut butter on bread or crackers, cookies made with enriched flour, ice cream and milk shakes are some good examples.

Fresh oranges are great as snacks by themselves or in snacks that are prepared. Try the peel and juice in oatmeal cookies, or in an energy nog with an egg and ice cubes. For a start, these Peanut Butter 'n Orange Sandwiches are super snacks everyone is sure to enjoy.

PEANUT BUTTER ORANGE SANDWICHES

- 1 orange, peeled, cut into bite-size pieces
- 1 tablespoon fresh squeezed orange juice
- 1 tablespoon honey
- 1/2 cup peanut butter
- 6 slices white or whole wheat bread

Combine orange pieces and juice with honey and peanut butter, blending lightly. Spread on three slices of bread. Top with remaining bread and cut in half.

Correct play of suit not found in vacuum

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The correct play of a suit does not exist in a vacuum. It may depend, among other things, on how many tricks you can afford to lose.

West opened the king of hearts and continued with another heart. South ruffed and drew trumps with the ace and king.

This left two trumps out, the queen and the jack. South likewise had two trumps, the nine and the eight. How should he proceed? Should he lead another trump, or should he go about his business in the other suits?

South was tempted to lead another trump. If each opponent held one of the two missing trumps, they would both fall on the same trick. Then South would make an overtrick.

ONE DANGER

There was a great danger. If one opponent held both of the missing trumps (as was actually the case), he would take them both, drawing South's trumps. Then the defenders could take the rest of their hearts and South would be set three tricks.

The correct play depended on how many tricks South needed. He would make either seven or 11 tricks if he led a third trump, depending on how the trumps broke. He would make exactly 10 tricks if he abandoned the trumps.

In this case, South needed 10 tricks. Hence he decided to forget about the trumps after taking the first two rounds. He went after the clubs, and West eventually ruffed with the jack of spades. West could then take the queen of spades, but South was sure of the rest.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold: S-AK983H-8D-KJ95C-643. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade. The hand is worth an opening bid even though you have only 11 points in high cards. The major suit is strong, and the distribution is good.

FESTIVE FRUIT WREATH

1 cup dairy sour cream
1/4 cup plain yogurt
2 teaspoons grated orange peel
1 teaspoon dried mint
1 can (8 oz.) pineapple chunks in juice
1 can (11 oz.) mandarin orange segments
1 bunch parsley
3 large bananas
1 red apple
Lemon juice

In small bowl, combine sour cream, yogurt, orange peel and dried mint. Cover and chill about 30 minutes to let flavors blend. Drain pineapple chunks and mandarin oranges. Arrange parsley on serving plate or board in the shape of a wreath. Cut bananas into chunks and apple into wedges; brush with lemon juice to prevent browning. Arrange fruit in sections on parsley. Serve with sour cream dip as appetizer or light dessert. Recipe makes 6 servings.

No aging for these fruit cakes

When the tinsel and holiday decorations begin to appear in store windows and on downtown streets—that's usually the signal for fruit cake baking time. Did you know that not all fruit cakes need aging, so that the Christmas cook can relax a little?

So here are the recipes for the two fruit cakes that will add enjoyment to the holiday table (or make handsome gifts) and certainly should be added to your favorite fruit cake recipes.

CHERRY APPLESAUCE

FRUIT CAKE

1 1/2 cups sweetened applesauce
1/2 cup solid all-vegetable shortening
1 cup sugar
8 ounces dried pitted dates, sliced
2 cups chopped walnuts
1/2 cup chopped glace cherries
2 cups seedless raisins
2 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon allspice

Preheat oven to 275 degrees. Grease two 8x4-inch loaf pans or one 9-inch tube pan. Line with foil and grease again. Set aside.

Combine applesauce, shortening and sugar in saucepan. Bring to boil, then cook 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool. Mix fruits and nuts in large bowl. Sift together flour, soda, salt and spices. Gradually stir into fruit mixture. Stir in the cooled applesauce mixture. Pour batter into prepared loaf pans or the tube pan. Bake in 275-degree oven 1 hour, 40 minutes for loaf pan cakes or 2 hours for tube cake or until cakes test done. Cool cakes in pan on rack for about 30 minutes, then remove and cool completely before slicing. Wrap and store in tightly covered container. Recipe makes 2 loaves or 1 tube cake.

CHOCOLATE BROWNIE FRUITCAKE

2 cups raisins
3/4 cup whole blanched almonds
1 cup whole black figs, cut up
1 cup whole dried apricots, cut up
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1 pkg. dark fudge cake mix
1/4 cup water
1 egg
3 tablespoons blackberry jam
2 teaspoons rum extract

Line 1 1/2 dozen muffin cups with foil muffin baking cups. Set aside. Combine fruits, nuts and spices. Set aside.

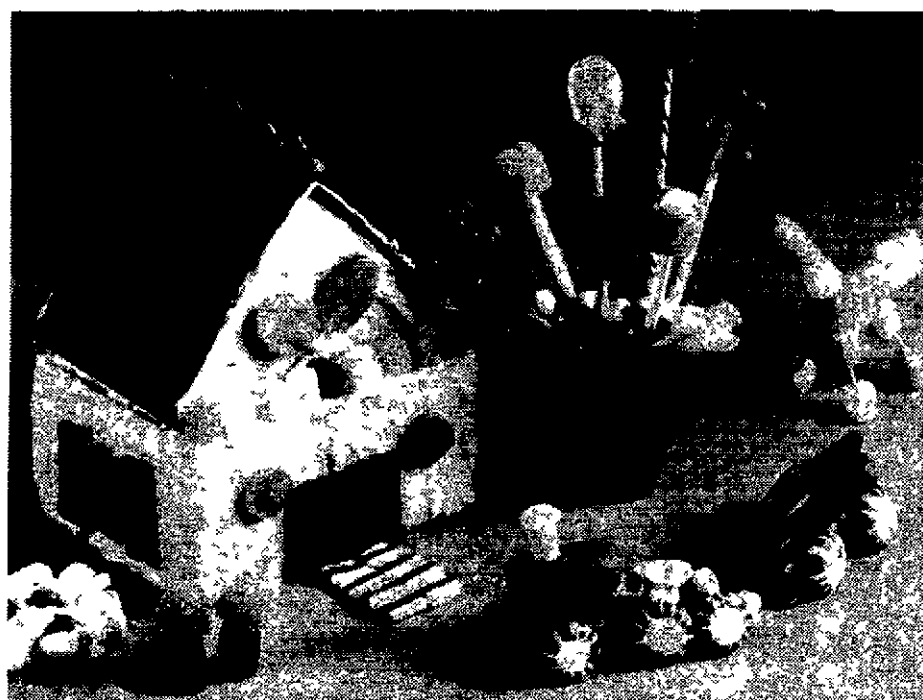

Preheat oven to 300 degrees. In mixing bowl, blend dry cake mix, water, egg, jam and rum extract. Beat 3 minutes at medium speed. Fold in fruits and nuts. Spoon 1/4 cup batter into each muffin cup. Bake about 1 hour, or until toothpick comes out clean. Place cakes on racks. Brush tops with rum. Cool 15 minutes. Brush tops with more rum. When cold, place in covered tin between layers of cheese cloth for 2 to 3 weeks, brushing cheese cloth with more rum each week. Recipe makes 4 1/2 cups batter.

NOTE: Other small baking containers or molds can be used, and given as gifts along with the cake. Merely grease container well. Fill 3/4 full. Bake until toothpick comes out clean.

Festive Fruit Wreath

This colorful, appetizing arrangement of fresh and canned fruits makes an ideal refreshment. More important, it can be created in a matter of minutes.

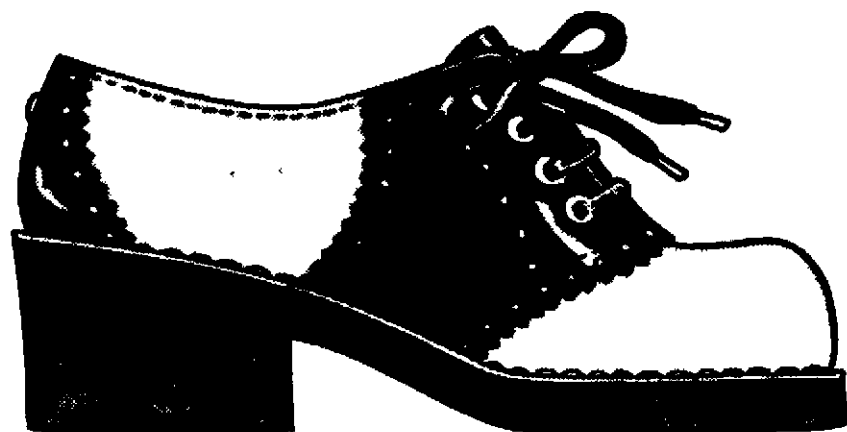

Sugar Plum House

There's nothing more delightful to a child than a decorative house fashioned of frosting and candies just like the fairy tales describe. This one has a frosting covered cardboard box for a base with chocolate bar doors and shutters, jelly square windows, a chocolate roof and lollipop trees. Licorice specialties sliced into "bricks" can form the walk and the garden of "bushes" are easily made from marshmallows, gumdrops, plus other candy forms. Varying sizes of chocolate bars and round hard candies for wheels form the railroad train cars that seem to be carrying a load of sliced chocolate bar "logs."

Swiss-style fondue made in Wisconsin

A new heat-and-serve convenience food, Swiss-Style Fondue, is being made in Plymouth, Wis. for Borden Foods, a division of Borden, Inc. The product has been tested successfully for marketing in Portland, Ore. and Albany, N.Y.

The packaged fondue is marketed in a 12-ounce portion in a plastic tray with a heat-sealed top, then inserted in an attractive, full color outer carton. The package is enough as a main course for two people, but will serve about eight persons as an hors d'oeuvre.

Ann Landers

New men's fashions are youthful

Dear Ann Landers: Can I be you for a few minutes? I have an uncontrollable urge to answer "Outspoken."

Dear Outspoken: You say you resent homosexuals and that the male fashion industry is crawling with them? Where's your proof? Have you ever met the designers of "those fruity horrors," as you put it? According to you, a man who wears a floral shirt, tight pants and a fur coat must be a homo. By the same reasoning, all women who wear low-heeled shoes, slacks and shirts must be lesbians.

If a man wore today what was considered fashionable 300 years ago he would be considered a fag beyond a question of a doubt. Remember George Washington and Alexander Hamilton in their white, powdered wigs, silk stockings, and lace handkerchiefs in their sleeves?

Your resentment of homosexuals must lie deeper than not being able to find square clothing for your young sons. I'll bet you have a brother or an uncle who is a homosexual and it's him you hate.

If you want your children to look like a bunch of undertakers, be my guest, but most people find the new styles exciting, youthful and alive.—Well Dressed And Straight

Dear W.D. and S.: Thanks for your letter. Now what am I going to do about the mail I'm sure to get from the undertakers?

Dear Ann Landers: I am 16, a high school junior and worried about myself. I am such a perfectionist that it takes me twice as long to do everything. Unless a paper is perfect I won't hand it in. I have rewritten things four and five times because when I make an error I refuse to erase it.

If I am unsure of the spelling of a word I look it up. After a while I find myself looking up words I am 99 per cent sure of. This can take hours.

It wouldn't be so bad if I were a perfectionist only about myself but I also expect perfection from my friends. If someone says, "Between you and I," I can't stand it. I have to correct him right then and there. Anyone who says, "I could care less—" gets told immediately that the expression is "I couldn't care less." I got into quite an argument over that one last week.

I realize my inability to tolerate these little mistakes isn't normal. But how kooky is it really? Am I in trouble?—Pernickety Penny

Dear Penny: Everybody has some odd habits, no matter how well concealed, but yours are bad because they rob you of valuable time that could be better spent.

The satisfaction you derive from these oddball demands on yourself are compensating for satisfactions you should be getting in other areas. Talk this over with your school guidance counselor. You need help.

Dear Ann Landers: My son has a paper route. He clears $12 a week and spends every cent on comic books and candy. I have asked him to put at least part of his earnings in the bank and save toward college but he ignores me.

What can I do about it? The boy's father and I are divorced and I don't have a man around who can help.—Out talked Mother

Dear Mother: There's more involved here than $12 a week. Your son is either out of control or he soon will be.

I urge you to seek some outside counseling for yourself. The problem lies with you.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers's booklet, "Booze and You—For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60634.

Wine on the table

BY WILLIAM CLIFFORD

What's the best value of any fine red wine in the world today? Insiders agree: It's the old Reservas of the Rioja.

The Rioja is a picturesque region of northern Spain, a land of castellated hills and river valleys — the Rio Oja (thus Rioja) and the more important Rio Ebro. It's close to the French border and Bordeaux. Close geographically and close in style of wine.

Although grape varieties and soil are Spanish, the Rioja's methods of wine making and results are French. These methods produce wines like red Bordeaux in breed, complexity and finesse.

Older Riojas, which keep for years and improved in bottle, are called Reservas. A direct price comparison quickly shows what extraordinary buys they are in today's market.

For instance Yago Conda Gran Reserva 1966 currently lists at $2.29. A fine second growth Bordeaux of the same year, Chateau Brane-Centenac, costs approximately $20. Yago Conda 1955 sells for $4.79; Brane-Centenac 1955, $45. In short, the Spanish wine costs only about 10 per cent as much as the French!

Yago is now well known for the best-selling Yago Sant'Gria. The full name is Bodegas Rioja Santiago. Since Santiago is Spanish, James, Yago is Jimmy. Whether James of the Rioja or plain Jimmy, this venerable house has more to give the world than a superior wine punch. Yago Conda Reserva is the flagship of the fleet.

George Rainbird, past chairman of the International Wine and Food Society, has commented appreciatively on his tasting of very old Yago:

"This wine is truly remarkable, and had I been given it in a decanter without any knowledge of its origin, I should have been hard pressed to say whence it came. It was perhaps the finest of the Spanish wines that I have drunk."

Any store that stocks Yago Sant'Gria can order Yago Conda Reservas. How long they remain at such low prices is open to question. Serious wine drinkers are scouring the world for acceptable substitutes to overpriced Bordeaux. Rioja Reservas seem tailor-made for connoisseurs of French wines living on Spanish budgets.

Kaukauna council accepts low bond bid of New York company

KAUKAUNA — The City Council Tuesday night accepted low interest bid of 4.79663 for $2,350,000 electric mortgage revenue bonds as submitted by a combination of New York firms, namely Smith Barney & Co., Inc., and Associates.

Only two bids were received, the second being one by John Nuveen & Co., Inc., and Associates, Chicago, with an interest rate of 4.8211. Ronald V. Norene, representative of Paul D. Speer and Associates, Inc., Chicago, serving as municipal finance consultants for the city recommended acceptance of the low bid.

The bonds will mature serially to 1985 and are not callable prior to maturity. Money from the bond issue is to be used to purchase the assets of the Green Bay Mississippi Canal Co. and to help finance an addition and improvements to the existing water facilities in the city.

Together with approval of the bond sale, the council adopted a resolution authorizing the mayor and Utility Commission to enter into agreement for purchase of the Green Bay & Mississippi Canal Co.

Action on sale of two acres of land to Russell Meerdink and Henry Adams in the new industrial park was delayed after a question was raised about land in a different area of the park which could be made available to the men and which would require less sewer work than needed for the area first requested.

The two requested land west of State 55 which would have required extensive sewer for a proposed 7,500-square-foot building to be used eventually as a commercial laundry area. A second site still within the industrial park on County Trunk OO is to be viewed to determine whether this site is satisfactory.

Mayor Robert La Plante indicated that he would call a special meeting of the council to act on the land sale so as not to delay construction as the buyers termed the need urgent. They plan on building a facility for the F. W. Means Co. and have plans for an addition two years.

Aldermen approved a reorganization chart of city government as proposed by the mayor. Major change calls for the removal of the street department and waste water treatment plant from supervision by the city engineer.

Heads of those two departments will now report directly to the board of public works as does the engineer. The move is expected to free the city engineer of some responsibilities and thereby permit him to devote more time to strictly engineering activities. The reorganization also places the city forester under jurisdiction of the board of public works for tree cutting work.

Officials learned that the proposed sewer and water development in the industrial park would cost an estimated $2.5 million rather than the $1.4 million originally estimated by Donohue Engineering, Sheboygan, consulting engineers for development of the park. Increase in cost of materials was listed as a major reason for the updated costs.

UW to seek cost-of-living pay boosts

Post-Crescent Madison bureau

MADISON — The University of Wisconsin Board of Regents will be asked Friday to support a cost of living pay increase for all university faculty and staff, under the assumption that all of the recent 5.5 per cent increases have been offset by inflation.

While UW Vice President Donald Percy said that the central administration would not propose an exact dollar amount, the recommendations are in line with those approved earlier this week by the UW-Madison faculty, which announced plans to seek a 4.5 per cent increase in January, 1974, and another 3 per cent raise on July 1, 1974.

The efforts are certain to bring cries of protest from the legislature, but one UW-Madison faculty member said today that any effort to block the raises would prompt the faculty to file a protest with the state Pay Board over the recent 58 per cent legislative salary increase.

The regents approved a salary increase plan a year ago, awarding a 6 per cent raise annually. The current UW biennial budget provides for an average 5.5 per cent faculty salary increase for 1973-74, a similar increase next year and another 2.5 per cent in fringe benefits.

At the time the increases were approved, the central administration reports, inflation of only 3-4 per cent was anticipated.

But the administration now points out that the actual inflationary increase in the 1972-73 fiscal year was 5.7 per cent and that projections for the 1973-74 fiscal year range from 5.2 to 9.9 per cent.

In fact, despite warnings of a recession, the central administration quotes "economic forecasts" as predicting an inflationary rate of at least 5 per cent and "probably 6 per cent or higher" in 1974-75.

The administration is asking the regents to take this argument to the legislature in the January budget review session. It also is recommending that the regents be allowed to grant increases larger than the 2.75 per cent limit imposed by for UW-administrators in the State Executive Salary Group Plan. In that plan, other state administrators earning more than $25,000 a year are eligible for increases above 2.75 per cent.

Ex-Almond president dies at Oshkosh

George G. Crowell, 86, former Almond banker, village president and school board president, died Tuesday in Oshkosh after a lingering illness.

He was born in Almond and graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1910. He served as a lieutenant in the U.S. Navy in World War I and was a member of the American Legion, Lions Club, Triplot Shrine and the Masonic Lodge in which he obtained the rank of Master Mason and Thirty-Second Degree Mason. Crowell also was a chairman of the Portage County Draft Board.

He is survived by two daughters, a son, nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Almond Memorial Center with burial in the Village of Almond Cemetery.

Visitation will be from 3 p.m. Thursday at the Memorial Center until the time of services. A memorial has been established.

Chairmen named for local paraplegia unit

Chairmen of the standing committees of the Fox Valley Chapter, National Paraplegia Foundation, have been named.

Jeff and Sharon Olmstead are in charge of public education; Kermit and Margaret Brill, legislation; Patricia Zeh, publicity; JoAnn Robber, membership; Richard and Barbara Kierstead, programs; Lois Haferbecker and Denis and Joyce Vande Hey, dinner dance; Duane Seipel, nominations; William Seipel, special project, and Mary Everts and Gerrie Coopers, the newsletter.

The organization will culminate their year's activities this Sunday with a dinner at the Ramada Inn, Neenah.

Mayor La Plante expressed dismay at the new cost estimates, but expressed the hope that since the firm was estimating low on original costs that maybe they were estimating high on the revised figures.

Aldermen directed the engineering firm to proceed with the basic plan for the park and submit it to the board of public works for approval. It is hoped that bids for sewer and water facilities in the park can be let in January.

In other action, the council: — Adopted a revised electrical code patterned after the state and national codes as agreed upon by electrical inspector and a committee of electrical contractors.

— Made Hendricks Avenue and Sixth Street a four-way stop, limited Kenneth Avenue to parallel parking between 10th and 11th streets, and restricted parking on the north side of Wisconsin Avenue between Maria and Gertrude streets.

— Referred a request for a street light on Grignon Street between Ducharme and Tobacnoir streets to the Utility Commission with power to act.

— Referred a city request for annexation of its industrial park from the Town of VandenBroek to the planning commission.

— Agreed to investigate property at 319 Reaume Ave. where the property owner is accused of having encroached on street right-of-way with a garage and thus was denied a building permit by the building inspector and the board of appeals.

Mrs. J. Monsted of New London dies at age 68

Mrs. John Monsted, 68, 616 Wyman St., New London, wife of Dr. John Monsted, died Tuesday in Appleton. Mrs. Monsted had been active in civic affairs in New London and had served as a local and state officer of the Eastern Star.

She had resided in New London since her marriage in 1927. She was a member of the First Congregational United Church of Christ; New London Chapter of Eastern Star and had occupied all its chairs and a member of Wisconsin Chapter of the Grand Lodge and had served as its Grand Electa.

She had been a member of the New London Lionettes, New London Study Club, New London Woman's Club, Community Hospital Auxiliary, New London Public Library Board and other other civic organizations. Survivors are her husband, a son, a daughter, a sister and four grandchildren.

Visitation will be after 4 p.m. Thursday until 9 a.m. Friday at Cline-Hanson Funeral Home, New London and at First Congregational United Church of Christ until funeral services at 11 a.m. Friday. ## 3 officers retire from K-C board

NEENAH — Three officers with long service at Kimberly-Clark Corp. have retired from the firm's board of directors.

They are M. Peter Schweitzer, vice chairman; Richard J. Appert, executive vice president, and William W. Cross, senior vice president.

Darwin E. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer, said the retirements were in accord with a policy for directors adopted last December.

Schweitzer also has resigned his position as senior executive consultant. Appert is relinquishing his post as executive vice president responsible for newsprint and forest products operations to become a senior vice president and senior executive consultant. Cross will continue in a similar capacity, the company said.

Froehlich introduces bill to push research on geothermal energy

WASHINGTON — U. S. Rep. Harold V. Froehlich, R-Wis., has announced that he has introduced legislation to assist the research, development and commercial demonstration of new geothermal energy technology.

"Geothermal" refers to the heat which exists in the earth's interior.

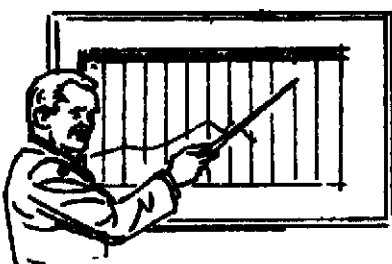

"If the United States is to solve its energy problems for years to come, it is essential that we find new sources of energy generation. Only through the application of new technologies will we ever become self-sufficient in energy resources," Froehlich declared.

The "Geothermal Energy Research, Development and Commercial Demonstration Act of 1973" would direct the National Science Foundation to fund basic and applied research in geothermal energy. Under the provisions of this legislation, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration would demonstrate the commercial usage of the technology developed by the Foundation.

Froehlich expressed his concern that the United States will simply attempt to find short-range answers to the current energy crisis rather than solve the problem once and for all.

Present geothermal energy technology is strictly limited in its total potential, Froehlich said. His legislation authorizes research in non-conventional, but highly feasible, type of geothermal resources. These new sources of energy will be more environmentally safe than any presently used sources for the generation of electrical power.

MR. MERCHANT:

CAUGHT WITH YOUR SALES DOWN?

Every retailer knows the old saw about the roadside seller of wares who decided he could save advertising expenditures and stay in business . . . and, of course, wound up going broke.

But often, expenditure for advertising is not the only answer. It's how you spend the money and what you get for it that really counts. Often, the simple, factual, down-to-earth newspaper ad outsells the fussy, over-crowded, "busy" ad that really doesn't stick to fundamentals.

You need the help of an experienced advertising counselor — representing an experienced advertising staff — to plan an effective advertising campaign. Your counselor from The Post-Crescent is just such person and furthermore he can advise you on the exact size and kind of market your ad will reach . . . and he can guarantee the size, too!

That's why good advertising in The Post-Crescent pays, not costs. Because the impact on your potential customers is many times more valuable than what your ad ads cost.

Chamber notifies area of available services

KAUKAUNA — The Heart of the Valley Chamber of Commerce reported that it has surplus telephone book covers available for telephone customers who failed to receive them in the mail or who may desire additional covers.

The chamber has a rack of pamphlets and maps covering a variety of subjects and areas and if needed information is not available employees will assist in locating material desired, according to the secretaries.

Office hours are 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday at 122 W. Wisconsin Ave.

Comet Kohoutek may fall far short of billing

By PETER B. SEYMOUR
Associated Press Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Comet Kohoutek may fall short of its billing when it helps skywatchers welcome the new year.

Astronomers, amateur and professional alike, have been counting on a January spectacular as bright as the moon with a brilliant tail sweeping across 15 per cent of the evening sky.

But physics and geology professors, analyzing the latest reports from observatories throughout the world, say Kohoutek may pass the earth as an object little brighter than Sirius, the brightest star.

"Comets are pretty unpredictable," Michael Shurman said. "The first predictions of its brightness were made on the strength of distant sightings" before measurements had to be suspended while the space traveler hid behind the sun.

It returned to view in September, is to be hidden by the sun again for a few days late in December, then makes its best showing in the first few days of January when it about 75 million miles from earth.

Shurman, director of the planetarium, said: "Everything we have read lately has downgraded the brightness of the thing."

"Of course, Sirius is a pretty bright creature to begin with," and astronomers will not be dissatisfied if Kohoutek can be likened to a superstar, he said.

At Yerkes Observatory in Williams Bay, the world's largest refractor telescope, gloomy skies have discouraged a reliable measurement of Kohoutek's promise, Dr. Thomas Adams reported.

"From the technical literature we have seen, it seems somewhat fainter than originally reported," Adams said. "I can't say it really was the newspapers that got carried away."

Until the comet is fully under the sun's influence in late December, its January show cannot be estimated reliably, he said.

Scientists suspect Kohoutek will be brighter than Comet Bennett, which similarly was a disappointment to the layman when it passed by in 1970. But it may not replace Haley's Comet as the reigning champion after all.

Adams, a University of Chicago professor, said Yerkes will be concentrating its studies on the dust content of Kohoutek's tail and halo in hope of resolving some of the mysteries about the material composition of comets.

"So we are as anxious as anyone to know how bright it will be, and this is something no one is going to know for sure until January," Adams said.

'Owl, Pussycat' opens at UWGB

GREEN BAY — An all-student production of "The Owl and the Pussycat" opens Thursday at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

Performances of the Bill Manhoff comedy will be given at 8:15 p.m. through Sunday in the coffeehouse of the Bay Apartments on campus, under the direction of Mark Silverstein, a sophomore from New York City.

The play, which opened on Broadway in 1964 and was later made into a film, starred Allan Alda and the late Diana Sands. In the local adaptation, Silverstein added choreography and mime and an emphasis on the '50s flavor.

Cast in the only two roles are Scott Nelson of Morristown, N.J., and Susie Barrett, Brookfield, both sophomores. Miss Barrett will be making her acting debut in the comedy. Nelson played the lead in the campus production "Butterflies Are Free," which was presented last May under Silverstein's direction as the first offering of the Coffee House Players.

The troupe was organized last year specifically to provide opportunities for dramatic performance to students who are not enrolled in the theater arts program. It is now open to all students who wish to gain acting and backstage experience, Silverstein said.

Seating in the coffee house is limited to 50 per performance. A few tickets will be available at the door for each show, but advance reservations cannot be accepted.

OSHKOSH — Two bands of the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh music department will present their annual Winter Concert at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Music Hall of the Arts and Communication Center.

These are the Titan Band, directed by Dr. Alvin J. Curtis, and the Regimental Band, directed by Dr. Thomas E. Neice.

Shirley Hamman, a junior music major from Plymouth, will be featured in "Ballade" by Alfred Reed as also saxophone soloist. She will be accompanied by the Regimental Band, which also will play "Selections from Tom Sawyer" by Richard and Robert Sherman, "Viennese Sonating" by Mozart, a tone poem by Douglas Willis

East High band to have free concert

The Appleton High School-East band will give its annual winter concert at 8 p.m. Thursday in the school auditorium.

The concert, which will feature music both light and serious, is free for the general public.

The band director, Tom Jacobs, announced this week that the band has received an invitation to participate in the third international band festival at Vienna, Austria, in July, 1974. It is the second invitation the East band has received.

"Although the East band feels it is an outstanding achievement to receive this honor, it has been decided to decline the invitation for the second time," Jacobs said.

Last year, only 14 United States band participated with bands from Germany, Israel, Italy and Russia.

and "Sunburst," a concert march by Eric Osterling.

The Titan Band will follow with Wagner's "Lohengrin," Handel's overture to "The Messiah," Robert Washburn's "Overture: Surmont," selections from "I Do! I Do!" by Harvey Schmidt, "March, Opus 99" by Prokofiev, and "We Wish You a Merry Christmas" as arranged by Wilfred Lausche.

The concert is open to the public without charge. Parking is available in lots 26 and 27 along High Avenue.

RIPON — Leonard Gershe's "Butterflies Are Free," the story of an unusual pair of young lovers, is the second major production of the 1973-74 Ripon College Theatre season.

The play will be produced at 8:15 p.m. Thursday through Sunday in Benstead Theatre of the College's Rodman Center for the Arts.

The play revolves around the experiences of Don Baker, a blind youth who leaves his comfortable suburban home to make his way alone in New York's Greenwich Village, and Jill Tanner, his uninhibited neighbor. They get to know each other quickly, and their attraction is soon transmitted to physical terms, setting the stage for the unexpected arrival of Don's overly-possessive mother.

Rescue workers find body of actor-singer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rescue workers have recovered the bodies of actor-singer Bruce Yarnell and two other persons killed in the crash of a single-engine plane.

Thwarted by heavy snow on Saturday, rescuers reached the bodies Sunday near the 5,300-foot level of Sandberg Point, about 15 miles from Gorman in northern Los Angeles county.

Yarnell, 35, who learned to pilot his plane in 1968, reportedly radioed before crashing that he had become disoriented over the mountainous terrain and that the plane had lost electrical power.

The bodies of Yarnell and his passengers — David Wirsching, 26, and Wirsching's wife, Terry, both of Burbank — were taken to the county coroner's office, authorities said.

Yarnell was from North Hollywood. Yarnell played the deputy marshal in "The Outlaws" television series and later performed with the San Francisco Opera.

'Star Trek' becomes topic for classroom

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — Devotees of the outer space television show, "Star Trek" now can take a course in the show.

The course at Mankato State College is entitled "The Logic of 'Star Trek'" and is described as "an in-depth examination of the ideas, characters and craftsmanship which make 'Star Trek' unique."

Fifty-five students are enrolled in the one-month minicourse taught by Leo Standeford, a member of Mankato's Department of Mathematics and Astronomy.

The series was canceled by NBC in 1969 after a three-year run. Now, due primarily to efforts of "Star Trek" fans, the show is being rerun in more than 100 cities.

Don't miss this TV movie

7:30 - 9 — Channels 9-11 — "Wednesday Movie of the Week: Bloodsport" is a remarkably true-to-life look at the pressures on a high school football hero who sees an eventual pro career as the only thing he can do. Fostering this is his father, a factory worker. The acting is fine, particularly Larry Hagman's accurate portrayal of a cold-blooded football coach, Ben Johnson's nice father and Gary Busey's conscientious young son. Filmed on location in northern California, with a fine script and direction by Jerrold Freedman.

7-7:30 — Channel 5 — "Adam 12" has an amusing episode which concerns a lonely young boy (Johnny Whitaker), a woman who raises chickens and an almost clever female robber. Doubling for Whitaker on a mini-cycle is Andrew Milner, Martin's son.

7:30 - 9 — Channel 5 — "Wednesday Mystery Movie: Tenafly" continues its totally believable course with lots of human touches and realistic snatches of dialogue. Harry (James McEachin) is working on a case involving a young runaway girl who says she saw a murder through a window. But the locale turns out to be a vacant lot. Ruby Dee plays the mother.

7:30 - 9 — Channel 26 — "Hollywood Television Theatre's" production of Arthur Miller's "Incident at Vichy," directed by actor Stacy Keach, stars Harris Yulin and Richard Johnson in a study of mankind's guilt over Nazi atrocities. The play is talky but makes strong points and the production is fine.

9-10 — Channels 2-7 — A beautiful woman (Lola Albright) enters "Kojak's" (Telly Savalas) life as he is investigating the murder of a man who headed a jewelry company. She is involved with the company, the man and a racket, but she is also helpful.

9-10 — Channel 5 — "Love Story" has a very good modern tale, a study of a swinging single, a man (Frank Langella) to whom women are trophies. He lives in a singles complex and his philosophy fits his dwelling until he meets a different-type young woman (Victoria Principal).

9-10 — Channels 9-11 — A man's right to privacy is the subject of a good "Owen Marshall, Counselor at Law" as a man is hounded into suicide. Madlyn Rhue plays the widow with Mariette Hartley as the sexy investigator who has filed reports which did so much damage. Lee Majors has a big role tonight.

HERE ARE THE COMMENTS FROM A SPECIAL LADIES' PREMIERE SHOWING WE HAD

'JEREMY' WAS AN EXCELLENT MOVIE

"Great Picture! Let's Have More Like This One."

"I lived it! Fantastic!"

"I've forgotten how beautiful and serious young love can be. The music was wonderful."

"I've seen a lot of movies based on the same thing and none have been as warm and as touchingly real as 'Jeremy'. It's a fantastic movie."

"The movie was very touching... the innocence of youth... the thrill of first love. As a mother of a teenager, I find it realistic... I could sympathize with their emotions."

It's about the first time you fall in love.

Kissinger wants joint U.S.-Soviet peace unit

WASHINGTON—In private, candid talks with congressional leaders, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is revealing his inner plan to guarantee a Mideast settlement: a joint U.S.-Soviet military force, with other nations sharing, under the symbolic flag of the UN Security Council.

Kissinger, bucking somewhat diminished headwinds from the potent pro-Israeli bloc on Capitol Hill, carefully notes that for the first time in history the Soviet Union has agreed to a "peacekeeping" force in which they themselves may serve.

The Soviet presence in Sinai in a UN-backed peacekeeping force would infuriate pro-Israeli hardliners already fearful about growing Soviet power in the Eastern Mediterranean and the Arab Middle East.

But Kissinger argues with cold logic that this growth of Soviet power is far more predictable, in an escalating spiral, as long as the Arab-Israeli dispute continues. Soviet influence there, in short, was made possible in the first place by the Arab-Israeli 25-year war in which Moscow was invited in as the Arab champion to offset American aid to Israel.

But Arab identification with the U.S. and the West, particularly strong in Egypt and Saudi Arabia, should reassert itself after the Arab-Israeli struggle is brought under control—a condition that, ironically, Soviet presence in a peacekeeping force will hasten.

Thus, Kissinger tells congressional leaders that the Sinai peninsula must be restored to Egyptian sovereignty and a "powerful" UN force placed in the largely demilitarized Sinai to prevent military attack by either side against the other. So far, his confidential talks with congressional leaders have produced a surprising amount of agreement.

Nixon counterattacking
A classic demonstration of President Nixon's counterattack style came during an "Operation Candor" conversation with Republican Congressmen when, in a defense of his own integrity, he charged that both Charles G. (Bebe) Rebozo, his best friend, and the Howard Hughes organization, a long-time Nixon campaign contributor, have had close ties to prominent Democrats.

The President contended that his best pal, Rebozo, was once a friend of John F. Kennedy. He equated Democratic leader Lawrence F. O'Brien's business relationship with the Hughes organization to the surreptitious $100,000 Hughes payment to Rebozo.

Those comments came in reply to a general question from Rep. Chalmers Wylie of Ohio, who commented that a constituent in Columbus, an ophthalmologist, feared the President was using his office for personal gain and asked Mr. Nixon's response.

That set off a discursive 14-minute answer which dwelled at length on Rebozo and the $100,000 in cash he received from Hughes, supposedly as a political contribution to Mr. Nixon.

Rebozo, said the President, has been chummy with many Democrats—a particularly good friend of Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, he said, and a "moderate" friend of the late President Kennedy.

After discussing his own finances, Mr. Nixon returned to the Hughes contribution. After all, he said, Hughes had given $250,000 to O'Brien. Some in his audience got the impression the President was implying that O'Brien had received the funds during his first tenure as Democratic national chairman in 1968.

The comparisons seem wholly superfluous, calculated to muddy the waters. Mr. Kennedy's closest aides say they cannot remember Rebozo as any kind of real "friend" of the former President. The $250,000 to O'Brien was

Kaukauna may have to borrow funds

KAUKAUNA — Treasurer Mary Kavanaugh informed aldermen Monday night that the city could be faced with the need for short term borrowing as a result of delay in distribution of the state shared tax fund.

The city anticipated receiving $284,000 about Nov. 19 but because of a court suit by Milwaukee and 12 other cities who dispute state population estimates, the $165 million in the fund is being withheld from payment.

Population is a consideration in the shared tax fund as a portion of it is returned to municipalities on a per capita basis.

Mrs. Kavanaugh pointed out that had the city received its $284,000 on schedule, a goodly portion of it would have been invested and she estimates the city is losing about $30 per day in interest by not having the money to invest.

She said the city has never before had to turn to short-term borrowing and did not anticipate such a move until no-compensation for legitimate, contracted public relations work unconnected with politics, beginning in 1969, and, as such, wholly irrelevant to the secret $100,000 payment to Rebozo.

Jaworski and Connally
Although John B. Connally secretly visited special prosecutor Leon Jaworski's office recently, he did not see Jaworski and left after interrogation by federal prosecutors about the milk lobby.

Connally was spotted on the elevator getting off on the floor where Jaworski has his office. That aroused suspicion that the two Houston corporation lawyers—Jaworski the investigator and Connally the investigated—were getting their heads together despite mutual claims that they had not seen each other in years.

In truth, Connally still has not seen Jaworski as special prosecutor. Mutual friends in Texas speculate that Connally might have recommended Jaworski to Mr. Nixon as a special prosecutor who would not prove too zealous. True or not, Jaworski so far has displayed more zeal even than the deposed Archibald Cox.

Vatican denies report of papal illness

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican today denied a report in a Milan newspaper that Pope Paul VI is suffering from a heart condition.

The paper said periodic medical tests during the summer disclosed that the 76-year-old pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church has a swollen left ventricle.

"The report is without any foundation," said Vatican spokesman Federico Alessandrini. He added that anyone suffering from a heart condition could hardly stand the stress of the Pope's daily activities.

Questions drivers ask

Traffic sign vandalism serious state problem

Q: I have read many articles about vandalism as it concerns transportation. Is this a problem in Wisconsin?

A: Yes, it is. Complete data is difficult to obtain, but vandalism is a serious problem in Wisconsin and other states and raises safety and maintenance costs.

Section 346.42 of the Wisconsin motor vehicle laws says, "Interference with signs and signals is prohibited. No person shall intentionally damage, deface, move, or obstruct an official traffic sign or signal or intentionally interfere with the effective operation of such sign or signal. (2) Any person violating s. 346.42 may be required to forfeit not less than $20 nor more than $200." Penalties for offenses resulting in the injury of others, or in traffic deaths, could be severe.

State Patrol and county highway maintenance forces exercise continual vigilance, but effective curtailment of vandalism depends, for the most part, on the consciences of individuals. Traffic markings and rest areas, for example, are constructed and maintained as a safety benefit for all motorists. For this reason, any form of vandalism directly affects all.

The cost of vandalism in dollars is a significant factor, particularly now in times of rising prices and shortages in materials. However, the major harm remains — a stop sign or barricade removed or a traffic marking defaced can result in tragic accidents, even deaths.

Q: Now that Wisconsin has cleared the way for a surviving spouse to have legal, sole ownership of up to two automobiles upon the death of either husband or wife, without having to wait for probate, I'd like to know what the procedure is in having my car registered in my name only?

A: If you wish to transfer title on your car from joint ownership to your name only, you and your wife should sign the title in Section 1 as sellers. Your name should show in Section 1 as purchaser. You then complete Section 3 as sole owner.

Show your present current license number in the proper area on the back of the title. Complete the enclosed tax form and submit title, tax form, $1 title fee and the proper registration renewal fee.

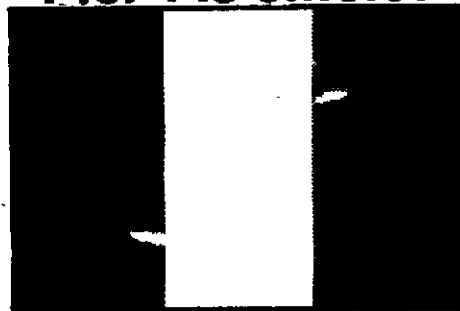

Since the probate laws have recently been amended, there is a form used to transfer up to two vehicles to the surviving spouse. This form is available from any branch office of the Division of Motor Vehicles in your area, or directly from: Division of Motor Vehicles, Department of Transportation, 4802 Sheboygan ave., Madison, Wis. 53702. When requesting the form by mail, be sure to ask for "Vehicle Transfer Form to Surviving Spouse."

Paterno defends Penn State quality

NEW YORK (AP) — Coach Bear Bryant called Alabama's Sugar Bowl meeting with Notre Dame on New Year's Eve "the game of history in the South," while Penn State's Joe Paterno declined to get into an argument over the national championship Tuesday night.

Pressed to respond to an announcement earlier this week that the National Football Foundation would award its MacArthur Bowl to the winner of the Sugar Bowl game between Alabama and Notre Dame, Paterno would only say, "It's obvious we're in their class; I don't think I have to say it."

Alabama is ranked No. 1, Notre Dame third and Penn State sixth in the final regular season Associated Press ratings. A final AP poll after the bowl games will determine college football's national champion. Alabama and Penn State wound up the regular season with 11-0 records while Notre Dame finished 10-0.

Bryant, Paterno and Notre Dame's

Ara Parseghian were among more than 1,300 persons who attended the National Football Foundation's 16th annual awards dinner Tuesday night at which movie star John Wayne, a former football player at the University of Southern California, was presented the foundation's Gold Medal Award, its highest honor.

Asked who would receive the MacArthur Bowl in the event Alabama and Notre Dame played to a tie, Dick Kazmaier, chairman of the foundation's awards committee, said they would share it.

Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford, a former University of Michigan football star, addressed the dinner and scolded his alma mater for raising a fuss over the fact that Ohio State was chosen to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl although the two teams shared the conference championship.

"As a good Wolverine alumnus I'm disappointed," he said, "but I agree with Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State that once a decision is made you ought not to bellyache about it."

Rip Engle, who coached at Brown and Penn State, was inducted into the college football Hall of Fame, along with 11 former players — Larry Bettencourt of St. Mary's, John "Hurry" Cain of Alabama, Fred Crawford of Duke, Vic Hanson of Syracuse, Leon Hart of Notre Dame, Dr. Bill McColl of Stanford, Rev. Donn Moomaw of UCLA, Bill Osmanski of Holy Cross, former Massachusetts Gov. Endicott "Chub" Peabody III of Harvard, "Lighthorse" Harry Wilson of Penn State and Army and Bobby Wilson of Southern Methodist.

Also honored were the foundation's scholar-athletes for 1973 — Frosty Anderson of Nebraska, Rick Bland of Colorado, Dave Blandino of Pitt, Dave Casper of Notre Dame, Dave Gallagher of Michigan, Randy Gradisher of Ohio State, Mark Harmon of UCLA, Jim "JJ" Jennings of Rutgers, Pat Kelly of Texas, Mark Markovich of Penn State and Norris Weese of Mississippi.

Perry Smith, Dale to meet

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Back in mid-September, Dan Devine dropped a bomb on the Packer faithful.

He diverted their attention from the upcoming season opener with the New York Jets by announcing that Carroll Dale, a man apart to Packer buffs, had been placed on irrevocable waivers after declining to retire and join the coaching staff.

They found the development particularly startling because the revered wide receiver, a starter since 1965, had survived the final roster cut to 40 just 48 hours earlier.

And, after digesting this intelligence, they were further surprised to discover that Dale had been released to make room for a largely unsung rookie, defensive back Perry Smith.

No more so, however, than Smith, who also was a trifle take n aback.

"I thought, wow, they really know how to put pressure on a young guy," he later confided.

Now, in the best Hollywood tradition, the principals in this early season drama are on the verge of a face-to-face confrontation in Saturday afternoon's date with the Minnesota Vikings at Lambeau Field.

But the circumstances have changed ever so slightly. Dale, as expected, has found a home with the Vikings. But so, with surprising speed, has Smith with the Packers.

Abruptly elevated to starting status in late October after Willie Buchanan suffered a broken leg against the Los Angeles Rams, the former Colorado State athlete has quickly won his spurs.

And, consequently, he sees the circumstances of his arrival upon the Packer scene a little differently now.

"It's been a long time and people mostly have forgotten how I happened to come here, I'm sure," he said Tuesday as he awaited his seventh consecutive starting assignment. "But I suppose they'll be thinking about it now that we're playing the Vikings Saturday."

"I understand Carroll will be starting so I'll probably go up against him one-on-one sometime during the afternoon. But I don't think about it one way or another," said Perry, a confident young citizen. "I'll be out there for just one thing—to keep Carroll Dale from beating the Packers. I've got to stop him to help us beat the Vikings."

"I don't feel the pressure any more," Smith continued. "I feel comfortable back there. I'm getting my confidence. In other words, I just play."

"But I'm going to respect Carroll. I've looked at film of him this week and I'm going to respect him just as much as John Gilliam (the Vikings' other starting wide receiver). He has a lot of years behind him and he can use it against my five weeks in the business."

"I'm going to play him hard," Perry promised, "and hope that it will result in a Packer victory."

A confident as well as candid young citizen, Smith is not inclined to make apologies for his performance to date.

"Since I've played there, I've only given up one touchdown, he pointed out, "and that was last Sunday against New Orleans. And, being a rookie, they're throwing my way a lot. I think I've done a fair job."

"I'll admit I've dropped a few interceptions I should have had and missed a few tackles, although I feel that I hit people, I think the performance can speak better than anything I can say. People can look back at my performance and judge for themselves."

Defensive Coordinator Dave Hanauer suggests that Smith is not overstating the case.

"I feel Perry's done a real fine job for us," he said. "In our game against the 49ers, for example, Gene Washington caught only one pass on him and Washington is about as good as they come."

"It takes time for a cornerback to develop, of course. And Perry's been put on the spot, too, because a lot of our opponents have respect for Kenny Ellis at the other corner, so they're going to throw at Smith. I think he's done a fine job."

"With Willie Buchanan getting hurt, I might add, he's been an awfully handy guy to have around. He would have been, even if Willie hadn't been hurt."

"And with Willie coming back next year, we're hoping he can play either corner or one of the other positions back there. He doesn't have to take a back seat to anybody as far as potential is concerned. He has the speed you need to play the corner (he's 4.5 in the 40) and he also has the ability to play the other deep positions."

Smith, meanwhile, is still a man with a mission.

"I'm always going to try to make Coach Devine's decision (to release Dale and pick him up) look good, because I respect him and I like him. I'm always going to try to play well for him and the Packer organization."

Kareem shakes off flu, rips Houston

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Half an hour before game time Tuesday night, the Milwaukee Bucks' physician passed word to the press that Kareem Abdul-Jabbar probably wouldn't be able to play because of flu.

With first-string guard Lucius Allen already out for sure with an ankle injury, loss of Abdul-Jabbar would seem almost certain to render the Bucks' sixgame National Basketball Association winning streak extinct by 10 p.m.

But the brilliant 7-foot-2 center played 46 minutes with no apparent ill affects, scoring 32 points and grabbing 14 rebounds to power the Bucks past the Houston Rockets 124-109.

Abdul-Jabbar poured in 14 of his points in the second period as the Bucks broke from a 26-28 first-quarter tie to a 64-47 advantage just before halftime.

"I had a head cold this morning, but there was no doubt I would play," Abdul-Jabbar said. "I've had some symptoms, but I felt all right."

Rudy Tomjanovich scored 34 points, ex-Buck Don Smith 21 and 5-foot-10 Calvin Murphy 20 for the Rockets, who closed to within 102-92 and had momentum with 6:53 to play.

However, Abdul-Jabbar sank two free throws and then fed Bob Dandridge with a floorlength pass for a layup.

Reserve Ron Williams followed with three quick baskets, and Milwaukee led by 20 points with 3½ minutes left.

Dandridge scored 28 points and Jon McGlocklin, who replaced Allen in the starting lineup, added 18, sinking eight of 13 long jump shots.

McGlocklin also was credited by Coach Larry Costello with perhaps the Bucks' most effective defensive work of the night for his efforts against Murphy.

McGlocklin expressed surprise when told of that, for the crowd-pleasing Murphy had sunk eight of 16 shots. Murphy scored only six points in the first half, however, when McGlocklin guarded him most of the time.

"I probably did it with my speed and super-quickness," quipped McGlocklin, whose defense is considered to be several cuts below his shooting skills.

"Really, Murphy is so quick I just try to direct him toward a corner where I can get some help from my teammates," McGlocklin said. "That's the way we try to play defense all the time. Neither me or anyone else can stop him by ourself."

Tomjanovich, averaging 25 points a game going in, did most of his damage with an assortment of jumpers and bank shots against Curtis Perry, one of the league's better defensive forwards.

"They ran so many plays for him he was hard to stop," Perry said. "They set up a lot of double picks for him so he could get free on the baseline."

Perry, however, found himself unattended often enough to pull down a game high 17 rebounds.

Houston Coach John Egan said Perry often was unguarded because the Rockets tried to give the 6-foot-8 Smith help against Abdul-Jabbar.

"Jabbar makes a lot of guys look great," Egan said. "We've got to help out against him, which leaves somebody else open to score 20 points. And you can't cheat on Dandridge because he shoots too well. They just outman us."

The Bucks, still three games ahead of Chicago in the Midwest Division, play improved Portland here Friday night.

Pitchers are in trade spotlight

Right-hander Nelson Briles and left-hander Ross Grimsley are among the latest dealt in the pitching-oriented trades this week at the massive conference of baseball officials.

Briles, the Pittsburgh Pirates' No. 1 pitcher this past season, was dispatched to Kansas City along with rookie infielder Fernando Gonzalez Tuesday. In exchange, the Pirates received three players from the Royals — catcher-outfielder Ed Kirkpatrick, infielder Kurt Bevacqua and minor league first baseman Winston Cole.

After that deal, Cincinnati and Baltimore were involved in another big one with the Reds' Grimsley the key man. Cincinnati sent the power-throwing, left-hander and minor league catcher Wallace Williams to the Orioles for outfielder Merv Rettenmund and two minor leaguers — shortstop Junior Kennedy and catcher Bill Wood.

There would have been more trading activity Tuesday — only third baseman Ron Santo of the Cubs threw a curve at the owners. The Cubs were reportedly on the verge of a deal with the California Angels, but Santo nixed it.

The veteran third baseman utilized the

Santo blocks deal

CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Santo has always worn his emotions on his sleeve. This time it was doubly tough. The Cubs wanted to get rid of Santo and Ron didn't want to go.

The Chicago Cubs announced Tuesday at the baseball meetings in Houston that Santo had been dealt to the California Angels for pitcher Rudy May and first baseman Bob Oliver but that Santo had blocked the deal.

Santo, because of his veteran status of being a 10-year man and also having five years with the same club, has the right to refuse to be traded. He exercised that right Tuesday.

"This is difficult," said Santo. "I didn't believe it at first but now I have to be convinced they want to get rid of me. No, I don't want to go."

"John Holland (vice president) called and asked if I wanted to go to any particular club. He said California wanted me. I told him I didn't want to go, I wanted to stay in Chicago."

"Then he asked me if I would mind if the Cubs issued such a statement."

I said no. Then I told them if there was any club I would go to it would be the White Sox because I want to stay in Chicago.

"Heck, I don't even know if the White Sox would want me what with Bill Melton stationed at third base."

"This has turned into a difficult situation. They say I blocked the deal, okay, so I did."

"But I've given the Cubs everything I've had for 14 years. I can't say anything bad about the organization. It has been super."

"But I feel I want to stay and I have that right. I'm able to accept matters as they are. I think I should get a chance to go to spring training and win back my job. If I can't, okay. But I want and deserve that chance and I'm going to take it."

Santo was considered expendable after the Cubs, bent on a complete rebuilding program, traded veteran pitcher Ferguson Jenkins to the Texas Rangers. Included in the deal was third baseman Bill Madlock, whom the Cubs figured could replace Santo.

Russell vows to shake up Sonics

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
While Chicago Coach Dick Motta was savoring his team's highest point production of the season, Seattle boss Bill Russell began scheming to shake up his team and re-align the skidding club through a series of trades.

"You can bet there are going to be a lot of changes made on this team," Russell said after the Bulls defeated the Super-Sonics 130-107 in the National Basketball Association Tuesday night. "I've seen enough. There are going to be some changes. We're going to make some trades and I hope we get some good players in the draft. I don't know where I'm going to get them, but I'm going to get some players for this team."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Milwaukee defeated Houston 124-100, New York beat Portland 113-100, Detroit downed Golden State 112-83 and Los Angeles topped Phoenix 120-103.

In the night's only American Basketball Association contest, San Diego outplayed Memphis 112-101.

Koehn, Davis lead doubles

Roger Koehn and Bernie Davis are leading the doubles division and the 41 Bowl team from the Classic League, heads the regular team section in the Fox River Valley Bowling Association Tournament which is being staged at the 41 Bowl.

Koehn had a 596 series and Davis hit 612 for a 1,208 total to take over the doubles lead. Bob Freiboth and Gary Knott, Manitowoc, are in second place with 1,196.

The 41 Bowl team hit a 2,864 total to take the top spot in the regular team division. Bob Schmitz was high with a 605 series while Davis added a 589 and Kayo Kruse hit 575.

Leading the team booster division is Meadow Lanes, Manitowoc, with 2,678 with Courtney and Plummer of Winneconne next in line with 2,671.

Orv Sieger, Fond du Lac, is pacing the singles with 686. Freiboth is first in the all-events with 1,834 while Dick Walbrun, Neenah, is third with 1,780.

Area keggers who competed last weekend and their scores included Frank Lehman, Appleton, 594 in the singles; Kayo Kruse, Appleton, 228 in doubles and 232-616 in singles; Roger Koehn, Little Chute, 584 in singles; Walter Keip, Appleton, 233-589, singles; Marv Schure, Appleton, 232-589, singles; and Casey Jones, Plymouth, 225, singles and 590 doubles.

State Bank wins

The Appleton State Bank team (13-2) has won the first-round championship in the Appleton YMCA Women's Fellowship Volleyball League.

Allis-Chalmers (11-4) finished second, with the Power Co. (9-6) third.

Bob Love and Norm VanLier scored 54 points apiece and reserve center Dennis Awtry broke the game open in the second quarter as the Bulls dealt the Sonics their 20th defeat.

Awtry scored nine points in a three-minute outburst to give Chicago a 63-47 halftime lead. Fred Brown led the Sonics with 24 points and Spencer Haywood added 23.

Knicks 112, Trail Blazers 100
Walt Frazier, who led New York with 27 points, scored 15 points in the third period and started a surge that ensured his team's victory. Frazier ignited a decisive 13-2 surge in the third-period when he hit the first of two free throws and then recovered the missed shot and sank a jumper.

Pistons 112, Warriors 83
Dave Bing, who totaled 27 points, led a third-quarter charge and the Pistons then weathered a late Warrior comeback for the triumph. Golden State rallied in the final period to trim Detroit's lead to two points. The Pistons then regained command by outshooting the Warriors 16-4.

Lakers 128, Suns 103
Jerry West became the third player in NBA history to score 25,000 career points, bucketing 26 points as he led the Lakers to victory. The effort gave West a career total of 25,002 and lifted him into an exclusive plateau shared by Oscar Robertson and Wilt Chamberlain.

Condolers 112, Tams 101
San Diego took an early lead and stayed in command the entire game, but couldn't satisfy Coach Wilt Chamberlain.

"We should have had it tucked away at halftime," Chamberlain said. "We just turned the ball over too many times and that kept us from really coasting."

Chuck Williams led the Q's with 18 points while Charles Edge was high for Memphis with 20.

The step was a modest one as Gov. Lucey recently signed into law a narrowly approved act of the legislature that is the first indication, in more than a decade of legislative wrestling about territorial annexation laws, that the city interest is making some progress in accommodating urban legal boundaries to the realities of population.

Now law is a new procedure for the annexation of "town islands", so called, usually tiny fragments of territory that are legally defined as parts of towns, but were in fact fragments left hanging accidentally as "foreign" colonies inside cities. There are scores of examples around the state, and Madison has been complaining for years about the inconvenience, costs and frictions that such artificial enclaves create.

The League of Wisconsin Municipalities, which has tried in vain to persuade the legislature to write more enlightened laws governing the annexation of territory to meet the growth pressures of cities, regards the enactment of the "island" law as a sign of a slight improvement in a legislative attitude that had been consistently hostile. Yet the achievement, however it is measured, came after painfully protracted struggle and negotiation, and with a significant concession by the city interest that such dribbles of town territory within incorporated places could be attached only with a two-thirds vote of the governing boards of the municipalities.

That was clearly a condition imposed to appease the losing town board lobby, and it probably indicates that the legislature is not yet prepared for truly enlightened action in this area.

It is progress, nevertheless, and when some of our more doubtful legislators realize that this act is supported by all persons who are concerned with effective and economical local government, they may be persuaded one day soon to make our other laws involving territorial annexation more practicable. The rule ought to be that what is urban should be city (or village) and that what is rural should be town. For those who uphold that goal, our lawmakers have recorded a small, but possibly suggestive, advance toward most efficient municipal government.

The yearning for ancient artifacts

There have been several publicized examples in recent months of a rather strange cupidity — the yearning for and stealing of the ancient and sometimes holy artifacts of other cultures for display in the Western world.

There was an ancient vase, allegedly stolen from a grave area in Italy which arrived at a New York museum to the embarrassment of some of the officials. Apparently a professional thief had stolen the vase and peddled it to people who should have known better and perhaps did. Then there was the revered carving of an ancient deity from an African country discovered in a private collection in the United States. It has been returned to the Africans.

But there undoubtedly are a great many large and small, valuable and merely interesting, artifacts pilfered in other countries. Karl Meyer points this out in his new book, The Plundered Past.

Meyer tells of one New York dealer who tried to lift an entire temple facade from a Mayan site in Mexico. When found out he wanted to get back the $80,000 he had spent on the air strip he built for the clandestine operation! There still is the missing Fourth Codex, a possible key to a Mayan hieroglyphic, which apparently is in someone's private collection or may be gathering dust in an attic somewhere. There are innumerable shards, vases, idols, textiles, tools and other objects lifted from the countries where they belong primarily to flatter someone's ego. Museumologists, archeologists and anthropologists have not always been honorable as they might. Their argument, often reasonable, is that the artifacts would be destroyed or would disappear if they were not saved and transported elsewhere.

Since the findings of recent years often come from the underdeveloped countries, it hasn't been difficult to find natives who will do the grave and temple robbing for a nominal price. In Costa Rica it is estimated that at least 5,000 Costa Ricans are gainfully employed at the trade. It may be that governments haven't communicated the loss to a people of the examples of its earlier culture. But the main reason is just plain money.

In the United States few things have a chance to get old — they are razed to make way for shopping centers or highways. Other civilizations haven't always bothered much about the past. The Parthenon was largely destroyed because some gunpowder stored in it by the Turks in World War I blew up. Irish farmers today are annoyed rather than awed by the ancient cairns in their pastures.

But we read today of the aimlessness, the fear, the miseries we suffer and impose upon others in part because we have so little sense of our culture and those who came before us. By stealing the culture of other peoples, we'll add nothing to our own stature and we just help destroy theirs and them.

Bicentennial is coming

Time may run out, but Congress has come up with a new organization to plan the 1976 bicentennial of the American Revolution.

In 1966, the American Bicentennial Commission was established. It was supposed to spend five years planning the celebration and five years developing programs. That would come out to 1976. But the trouble was that the commission did little other than produce plans which couldn't be agreed on — and spend money.

Now, Congress has approved an American Bicentennial Administration to replace the American Bicentennial Commission. It will have an 11-member advisory board and a 25-member policy council to replace a 50-member commission board. So that's some progress.

The new bill provides $10 million a year for administration, including planning grants of up to $25,000 for state programs. And there would be a $20 million matching grant program to provide at least $200,000 for individual state programs.

All that seems a little high on the side of federal administration and a little low on the money going to the states for bicentennial programs. But there is nothing new about that.

The new commission should concentrate on getting the money to the states for the big birthday. We would hate to see a federal law declaring the bicentennial was being put off until 1981 because all the reports had not been written and filed.

Personal income increases go to taxes:

MADISON — Are you earning more but enjoying it less?

If the answer is affirmative, you are a typical Wisconsin resident, according to a remarkably candid report from the state Department of Revenue published by its research division as one of a series of economic surveys of the state.

The work of Peter Karkoff, the department's senior economist, makes the somewhat startling point that since 1967 the aggregate of tax liabilities of the typical state resident absorbed virtually all of the increase in personal income during the same period.

During that time, the per capita tax imposition on a Wisconsin resident rose by 55 per cent.

After tax income unchanged
"The consequence of this increase in tax collections by all levels of government is that real per capita after-tax income has remained essentially unchanged since 1967," according to this unique but probably welcome document. In the early part of the 1960s, it adds, there was a sharp contrast. After-tax income measured in constant dollars grew by 19 per cent.

The author said his report was intended as a contribution to citizens and opinion leaders concerned about the Wisconsin economy and public policy as it relates to economic trends.

It is probably safe to say that it will, indeed, be welcomed by many of them, although some may be surprised at the candor with which the tax and spending issues that only a few years earlier were regarded as unworthy of public discussion are now being reviewed. Perhaps it is a part of the cautious economic posture struck by the state administration as a whole.

As Gov. Patrick Lucey correctly forecast after his election, he has permitted changes in state tax policies, and thereby presumably improved the "economic climate," to a degree that any governor would have found difficult while the Republican party ruled and Democrats heeled as the aspiring minority.

The Revenue Department analysis relates that during the 10 years from 1962 to 1972 the combined total of taxes paid by Wisconsin residents rose from $430 per capita to $1,030. Taxes at all levels contributed to the great leap forward of tax cost in the average citizen's budget.

There was a 61 per cent after-tax increase in per capita income during the same period, but most of it represented the effects of inflation. Thus in "real" dollars the average person's situation was not improved. Government, rather than the citizen, prospered.

The report acknowledges that new conditions bring new needs in public spending, but it cautions that in many cases tax costs are greater than taxpayers are willing to accept. It is not yet demonstrable that the state under its present rule accepts the logic of such a narrative, except as Gov. Lucey has talked about better government productivity, closer scrutiny of spending pressures, and priorities in the clamor for public dollars.

"The resistance to continued expansion of government programs and expenditures is not surprising in light of the non-growth of real income after taxes," the report asserts. It is not clear whether this is an attempt to attract the favorable notice of conservatives or middle of the roaders, but it is a reasonable assumption that they will hail it, whatever the motivation.

It is perhaps impolite — possibly even unfair — to be surprised upon reading a document produced by a Democratic state regime that also discusses with great concern the Wisconsin manufacturing economy, which has not expanded in recent years as rapidly as that in the country as a whole, and emphasizes that manufacturing employment is more important here than in the country as a whole.

Yet it is difficult to forget that when officers of a Republican regime were saying such things there were skeptical cries from Democratic critics.

SMOLDERING BLANKET

Dr. Crane's logic mystifies Harris

One of the most fantastic pieces of logic I've ever seen in print is the rationale of capital punishment recently offered by Dr. George Crane, the only syndicated columnist who signs himself, "Ph.D., M.D."

He writes: "Clergymen should stress the fact that without capital punishment, there would be no Christianity at all! If Jesus had not been sentenced to death on the cross, how could there be any Catholic or Protestant churches today? So Christianity owes its very existence to capital punishment!"

With the use of this tremendous reasoning device, what cannot be justified in history? For instance, without the madness and despotism of King George I, there would have been no American Revolution and no United States of America.

Many of the King's advisers and members of Parliament were in favor of giving the colonies more freedom and self-government and lifting the harsh taxes that had been imposed upon them.

But George I, who eventually went mad, bitterly resisted such advice, and clamped down on the colonists. So we should be grateful to insanity and despotism for resulting — in the U.S.A. Ergo, insanity and despotism are good things, just as capital punishment is.

Let's keep in mind, too, that the Inquisition in Spain was a marvelous thing—because it inaugurated the resistance to Roman Catholicism all over Europe, culminating in the Protestant Reformation. So without the Inquisition, there might have been no Protestant Church, which owes its very existence to religious repression.

Ergo, once more, Inquisitions are good, just as capital punishment is right, because they result in the creation of a new, reformed church. Praise be to all Inquisitors everywhere.

There is no limit to what the imaginative historian can do with this device, henceforth too be known as "Crane's Equation." Since most good things have arisen from the bad conditions that caused them, we should therefore support all bad things on the basis that they will stimulate truth, reason, justice, freedom and reform.

Slavery is excellent, because it precipitated the Civil War, and thus took the blacks out of bondage. Obviously, without slavery there could have been no Emancipation. Infectious and contagious diseases are marvelous things, too, since without them we never would have developed our anti-toxins.

A man needs both a Ph.D. and an M.D. to figure these matters out. I am eternally indebted to Dr. Crane for a whole new slant on history.

Bureaucrats find very little to do

WASHINGTON — What is a day like in the life of a middle-level civil servant in Richard Nixon's crippled government?

To hear one such bureaucrat describe it, a fellow reads a lot, magazines, newspapers, technical journals, novels in plain brown wrappers, anything to while away the time at the desk behind an empty "in" basket.

The President insists that the Watergate crimes have not damaged his administration and that everything is functioning as usual. There is hardly anybody around here who would agree with him. Morale is low at all levels of the government. Cabinet officers and middle-level officials are openly searching for new jobs. Recruiting of top talent in this climate of uncertainty has become almost an impossible task, and a discouragingly high number of policy-making posts are going begging.

There are 22 sub-cabinet posts that are empty or temporarily filled by "acting" officials. Civil Service Commission figures show a vacancy rate of 20 per cent in the supergrades, the highest Civil Service jobs. The White House has refused to answer repeated requests about the number of vacancies in the political appointment category below the sub-cabinet or on the honorary commissions, but the number is known to be substantial.

Dissipated authority

The massive career bureaucracy hums along, tending to the necessary daily routine that keeps the government in business. But there is an unmistakable problem at the policy-making level. This was an administration disciplined in taking orders only from the White House, funneled through key political appointees in the agencies and commissions. But now the White House is in confusion and authority is dissipated. The departments are left pretty much to go their own way. And few officials, whether appointed or career, care to stick out their necks to make a policy decision in the current atmosphere of turmoil.

Back to my friend, the bureaucrat. He is a G.S. 13 in the Department of Commerce, a respected project officer with a long record of federal service. In the intervals of preserving his salary and dignity, he will remain anonymous.

"I keep the same hours as I always did," he said. "But I've had scarcely anything to do during these hours for the past six months or so."

He used to begin the day by reading the Washington Post quickly and skimming the New York Times, to see if there were any news stories in his field. Now he stretches that routine to last more than an hour. "I practically memorize every page of both papers," he said.

No new projects in works

Then he makes standard checks on the projects he supervises, which takes about a half hour. There are no new projects in the works and no changes are permitted in existing programs, so this is mostly a housekeeping chore.

Potomac Fever

Bob Hope is undecided whether to entertain our armed forces in Washington, San Clemente or Key Biscayne.

The oil crisis in the White House has been exaggerated. It continues to function as usual on hot air.

The Navy used nine planes to fly cadets to a football game. Just part of the basic airlift practice.

Senator Proxmire says acting Attorney General Bork is holding his job illegally. The limit is 30 days, or your Bork back.

Gerald Ford has everything going for him — except the liberals, civil rights leaders, college students and Justice Douglas.

Looking back Young group organizes reading club

100 YEARS AGO
Appleton Post, Dec. 11, 1873.

A Reading Club, containing some 15 or 20 members, and composed of the young people, has recently been organized in the city.

The first two meetings were held at the rooms of Messrs. Peabody & Hutchinson, 135 College Ave., at which a pleasant and profitable time was experienced. The object of the club is to have parlor readings once each week as a means of mutual improvement in the way of cultivating literary tastes.

Messrs. Peabody & Hutchinson deserve the credit for the organization of this society, the meetings of which the present winter promise to be full of interest and profit.

25 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, Dec. 1, 1948.

John Bloomer and Lynn Casper were co-consuls of the Appleton High School Latin Club, which was to elect its two officers for the year. The two heads were named the previous spring, according to club tradition.

Members of the Wooden Wing Junior Ski Club working on a new ski slide at New London included Jim Enos, Marvin Handschke, Gene Shoemaker, Keith Piper, Jim Yost, Kenneth Jagoditch and club adviser Al Pieper.

Members of that season's basketball team at the Menasha Extension division of the University of Wisconsin included Jerry Spaay, Louis Mayer, Jim DeBrall, Bob Goss and Norm Jackels, all of Appleton; Bill Jensen, Seymour; Don Ostrowski, Menasha; Jack Giese, Darrell Schultz, Sam Cannon, Jim Schmidt, all of Neenah; L. C. Ansoorge, Menasha, was coach; John Jacobson, Kaukauna, was manager.

10 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, Dec. 4, 1963.

Miss Rebecca Bates, Appleton student at the University of Wisconsin, was one of the 34 students on the Madison campus chosen for membership in the Dolphin Club.

Miss Elizabeth Letter, Menasha, was named for national recognition in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. Miss Letter was a senior at Wisconsin State College-Whitewater.

Mr. and Mrs. Johannes A. Van den Akker, Appleton, were the general chairmen for the Century Club dinner dance at North Shore Golf Club.

Joe Lopatynski found Hahn's Lanes to his liking Tuesday night and slammed a 746 national honor count for his first three of a four-game series. He finished with 902.

Lopatynski, who on Sunday finished in third place of the Wisconsin Non-Pro Bowlers Alliance Tournament at the 41 Bowl, started out toward his big series with a 267. He followed with a 232 and then blasted 247. The counts were recorded in the Hahn's 3-Man Major Scratch League.

Stan Prue had 259 with 829 for four games while other top scores at Hahn's included Chuck Bayer 820, Bob Parenteau 806, Duke Hahn 773, Jerry Ellenbecker 768 and Dave Laux 764.

In the Tri-City Men's League at Sabre Lanes, Earl Berndt was high with a 664 series with a 248 game. A share of the high game honors went to Bill Quella as he also fired a 248. Doug Crane had 233-652, Ed Schultz 227-633 and Jack Single had 627.

Jones scores 26 but UWGB quint loses

Wisconsin college basketball teams were reminded Tuesday that individual standout performances are not always victory insurance.

Tom Jones and Al Schwels each scored 26 points for their schools, and Greg Holman scored 20 for his while collecting 31 rebounds.

But Schwels' Ripon was beaten 87-71 by Lakeland, Jones' Wisconsin-Green Bay was outclassed 99-56 by Southern Illinois, and Holman's UW-Oshkosh was whipped 87-67 by St. Norbert College.

UW-Whitewater, led by Elmer Polk's 16 points, defeated Valparaiso 94-64, with Valparaiso's Jeff Holms taking scoring honors with 18 points.

Lakeland nullified the output of sophomore guard Schwels with a balanced scoring attack led by Steve Hotz' 19 points. Lakeland is 6-1.

Three freshmen contributed a total 26 points as UW-Stevens Point defeated Northern Iowa 72-58.

The Pointers had five scorers in double figures, led by Bruce Weinkauf with 16 points. Stevens Point converted 55 per cent of its shots from the field for a third victory in four games.

Jeff Kunz scored 25 points and Clark Eichstedt added 23 to lead St. Norbert to a third consecutive victory.

Green Bay was in over its head. SIU jumped to a 14-10 lead, then scored 20 uninterrupted points for a 34-10 handle.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The word out about Minnesota before the 1973-74 college basketball season opened was that the Gophers weren't very tall ... but thin.

However, the Gophers, known for raw strength in winning the 1972 Big Ten title and earning a National Invitation Tournament berth last spring, seemed to have found a sling shot when they come up against a Goliath.

Minnesota used time-consuming ball control and quickness as its chief weapon to slip past towering Furman 49-47 in overtime Tuesday night for its second straight victory.

The Gophers, with 6-foot-7 forwards Phil Filer and Pete Gilcud fighting 7-1 Fessor Leonard and 6-9 Cliff Mayes on the backboards, pecked away at a six-point Furman lead in the second half to finally tie the game 47-all on 6-foot Phil Saunders' banking jump shot from the free throw line.

Dennis Shaffer, who led all scorers with 21 points, sank the final Minnesota free throw with two seconds left to preserve the victory.

Elsewhere in college basketball Tuesday night, Rutgers forfeited a home game to Pitt when a group of some 100 Rutgers black students sat down in the middle of the court with about two minutes left in the first half.

Pittsburgh was leading 36-21 but the forfeit goes in the books as a 2-0 victory. "We are protesting against racism at Rutgers," the demonstrators said. "We are interrupting this basketball game to emphasize the immediacy of our demands."

Michigan shot 55 per cent from the floor and was led by Campy Russell's 21 points in beating Toledo 75-65 and Tony Jenkins' free throw on a technical foul with no time left on the clock gave Harvard a 65-64 victory over Dartmouth in the Ivy League. Dartmouth was assessed the technical foul for calling a timeout when it had none left.

West swimmers sink East

Chuck Graves, swimming with a fractured hand, set two pool records and paced Appleton West to a 94-64 victory over Appleton East Tuesday at the Patriot pool.

The win was the first ever for the West swimmers over Appleton East.

Graves swam the 200 freestyle in 1:55.8 and the 500 freestyle in 5:33 for pool records. He also swam on the victorious 400 freestyle relay team.

Other first for the Terrors were by Dave Wolfe, 50 freestyle in :25; Paul Ciske, 200 individual medley, 2:16; Dave Werner, 100 backstroke, 1:07.5; Tom Rossmeissel, 100 breaststroke, 1:12.9, and Gary Lemons, diving.

Rick Bollenbeck, Ciske, Steve Rossmeissel and Tom Lewis tied the pool record with a 1:58 clocking in the 200 medley relay. Werner, Wolfe, Dave Mader and Graves won the 400 freestyle relay in 3:46.

Taking first for East were John Stevens, 100 freestyle, :53.4, and Mark Johnson, 100 butterfly, 1:03.9.

Orioles acquire Grimsley

option of a player with more than 10 years of major league service, refusing to approve the deal that reportedly involved another arm — California pitcher Rudy May. Santo was the first to exercise his rights under the revolutionary new contract rule.

The trades kept interest at a high pitch. A total of 20 players — 10 of them pitchers — have been swapped in six major league trades during the first two days of the conference. In addition, three minor league deals have been made — including two on Tuesday.

However, the trading activity may take a back seat today to some controversial problems facing both the National and American leagues, the bizarre managerial situation involving Oakland owner Charles O. Finley and the disputed sale of the San Diego Padres.

Finley was in town for a meeting with the New York Yankees to resolve the Dick Williams case. Williams had left the A's after winning the World Series this year, presumably to join the Yankees as manager.

But Finley ultimately blocked Williams' escape from Oakland, pointing to his contract and demanding "considerations" from New York if the manager signed with the Yanks. Finley is interested in one or two top New York farmhands, he says.

National League owners, meanwhile, are expected to put the San Diego story in better focus. A group headed by racetrack heiress Marjorie Everett is seeking to buy the Padres and keep them in San Diego, but there are strong indications that the owners will refuse the bid.

Mrs. Everett, described as a "pushy broad" by one high National League official, was not expected to get consent because of her alleged involvement in an Illinois bribery scandal some years ago.

If the National League turn the red light on Mrs. Everett, it opens two avenues the league could take over the franchise or the team could move to Washington.

General managers came out swinging early Tuesday morning with announcement of the Pittsburgh-Kansas City trade.

"We want to win now and we feel that Briles can help us do it," said Kansas City General Manager Cedric Tallis, hoping that the burly right-hander can pitch his Royals to the top of the American League West.

Briles, who figured prominently in World Series games for both the St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh, had a 14-13 record and 2.84 earned run average last season on the low-key Pirate staff.

Kirkpatrick, selected by Pittsburgh primarily as a backup catcher for Manny Sanguillen, was the key man in the deal for the Pirates.

Kirkpatrick batted .263 in 1973 and had been with the Royals since the club began major league operations in 1969. Tallis said he "really hated to see him go."

Grimsley, who had a 13-10 record for Cincinnati in 1973, joins Jim Palmer, Mike Cuellar, Dave McNally and Doyle Alexander — probably the best pitching staff in the American League East.

Rettenmund, once a starter for Baltimore and a World Series hero, was kicked out of the Baltimore outfield by the fast development of talented youngsters like Don Baylor, Rich Coggins and Al Burnaby.

Rettenmund batted a sub-par .262 in 95 games with the Orioles last year.

In other developments at the hectic winter meetings, former Texas Manager Whitey Herzog was named as a coach with the California Angels and onetime Yankee Coach Jim Hegan was named to a similar position with the Detroit Tigers.

Edmonton stops Cougars

BY JOHN NELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rich Coutu may have lost a game, but he won a job with the Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association.

Coutu, in his first start at goalie since he was called up from the Cougars' farm system, gave up two goals to Edmonton, as the Oilers defeated Chicago 2-0 Tuesday night.

"I just got the idea to call him up late yesterday afternoon because I heard he had been playing so well for Long Island in the North American League," said player-coach Pat Stapleton.

"I guess the reports I got were pretty accurate," Stapleton said, "and he sure earned another start."

In the WHA's only other game, the Minnesota Fighting Saints defeated the Los Angeles Sharks 9-2.

In the National Hockey League, the St. Louis Blues defeated the New York Islanders 3-1, and the Los Angeles Kings defeated the Vancouver Canucks 3-2.

Oiler goalie Chris Worthy recorded his first shutout of the season in the game. He made 27 saves in helping to hand the Cougars their fourth straight loss.

Len Lunde beat Coutu from point-blank range for the Oilers' first goal, and Brian McKenzie knocked the puck 50 feet into an unprotected net with just 37 seconds left to cap the scoring.

Saints 9, Sharks 2
Mike Walton tallied his second three-goal performance of the season to lead Minnesota to a 9-2 victory over Los Angeles. The Saints jumped to a 5-0 lead in the first period and added two goals in the second.

Blues 2, Islanders 1

Gordon Brooks and Bob Collyard, both rookies from the St. Louis farm system, combined on two goals to give the Blues a 2-1 victory over the New York Islanders. Brooks scored the goals, the first of his NHL career, and Collyard assisted on each. The two are not new to each other; they played on the same line with Denver in the Western Hockey League.

Kings 3, Canucks 2
Don Kozak scored with six minutes gone in the final period to break a 2-2 tie and give Los Angeles a 3-2 victory over Vancouver. Los Angeles jumped to a 2-0 first period lead when Mike Corrigan scored twice. But the Canucks came back with two goals of their own in the second period.

Stockbridge wins, 52-51

Randy Westenberger dropped in a free throw with 37 seconds left to put Stockbridge ahead and the Indians weathered a late storm to edge Random Lake, 52-51 in a non-conference basketball game here Tuesday night.

Stockbridge now has a 2-3 record for the season while Random Lake is now 1-2.

Random Lake had a chance to pull it out in the closing seconds, but two free throws were missed at the 13-second mark and a desperation shot failed with three seconds left.

Westenberger and Larry Joas each had 20 for the winners.

Stockbridge (12-14-12-12-32) Leuknecht 0-0-2, Joas 10-10-1, Westenberger 9-3-3, Moehn 2-1-3, Hemmner 1-1-4. Totals 24-4-13. FTM-4.

Freedom trims Chiefs

FREEDOM—Breaking loose for 34 points in the fourth quarter, the Freedom Irish rolled to a 87-55 non conference basketball victory over Shiocton Tuesday night.

The win boosted Freedom's record to 4-1 for the season while the Chiefs are winless after five contests.

The Irish led by two points at the end of the first period and by seven at the half before taking command of the game in the final two periods. Shiocton was limited to 13 points in the final quarter while the Irish were burning the nets with their 34.

Freedom shot 46 per cent for the game with 33 field goals out of 68 shots. Shiocton was 24 of 69 from the field.

Larry Daul had 26 points to lead the Freedom scoring and Jim Van Camp added 17. For the Chiefs, Scott Yahle had 18 and Mike Brisco hit 12.

TCU expected to pick Shofner

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Jim Shofner has been appointed Texas Christian University's 25th head football coach, the Fort Worth Star Telegram learned from a University source Tuesday.

The San Francisco 49ers aide and former TCU player and assistant will be formally announced as the Frogs' coach today to replace the fired Billy Tophill.

Shofner, is expected to get a five-year contract for more than $30,000 a year.

"You've put me on the spot," Shofner said when contacted at the 49er office late Tuesday.

"For the last two weeks the rumors about me have been flying furiously. Some of the writers out here have asked me about my going to TCU, and I really haven't made any comment."

"If I were to take the TCU job I would still be obligated to stay with my position with the 49ers until the conclusion of their games."

Shofner admitted that he was contacted by TCU officials immediately after Tophill's firing, but said he could not confirm rumors about his succeeding Tophill.

Wealth a problem in Kuwait

EDITOR'S NOTE — In 25 years Kuwait has risen from a mudbrick sheikhdom into one of the world's richest nations. Oil is the reason. Together with other ministates on the Persian Gulf, Kuwait has become a center of attention of the energy-hungry west and a factor of importance in the daily lives of millions of people around the world. Here is a profile of this little known country.

by HARRY DUNPHY
Associated Press Writer

KUWAIT (AP) — It looks like a desert Los Angeles with wide freeways, late model American cars and sumptuous villas. But its inhabitants wear dashdash instead of doubleknits, earn twice as much and don't pay taxes.

Oil bubbling up from the blazing sandy wastes and blue green waters of the Persian Gulf has made Kuwait one of the richest countries on earth. But the immense wealth has caused social problems at home and Kuwait, like the ministates on the western shore of the gulf, feels the squeeze of outside powers.

Up to now, this conservative Moslem country has tried to buy protection with $4.1 billion in development loans to Arab countries, including its powerful northern neighbor Iraq, which has cast covetous eyes in the past.

But recently Kuwait joined Saudi Arabia and Iraq, the kingpins in the gulf, in a $500 million arms buying effort to upgrade its defense capabilities.

Per capita income in this small desert sheikhdom is approaching $5,000 a year, compared to some $4,200 in the United States. Its citizens get free medical care, free university education and interest free loans for homes and businesses. Telephone service is free and the average income of a middle class family is $19,000.

There is one car and seven air conditioners for every three persons in the state that is the size of Connecticut.

Twenty-five years ago, Kuwait was a dirt-poor, mudbrick sheikhdom with an annual income of $35 per person, no electricity or paved roads. Drinking water had to be brought in by skiff and the gates of the old walled city were closed at sundown.

Since then, the population has jumped from 70,000 to 733,000, and even the street sweepers look like laboratory workers in their smart white uniforms.

The government banks and some 1,500 millionaires have an estimated $9 billion invested overseas. Kuwait, the world's seventh largest oil producer, earned $1.8 billion in revenue last year.

Kuwait joined other Arab states in ordering oil production cutbacks and export boycotts to the West as part of the war effort against Israel. The oil squeeze has brought about fuel-saving measures in many western nations.

The actions have also focused the world's attention more than ever before on the oil rich Middle East and many of the mini states that dot the Persian Gulf area.

Despite production cuts, profits will increase because of the present sellers market for oil in the energy hungry west and Japan.

Even before the cuts, Kuwait had imposed production restrictions in a "bank the oil" policy designed to save the country's most prosperous resource against depletion. "The money is coming in faster than they can spend it," said a western diplomat.

Although there is no poverty, many of the welfare benefits apply only to Kuwaitis and 86 per cent of the population is foreign born-persons seeking jobs and business opportunities from all over the Arab world as well as Iran, Pakistan and India.

There are an estimated 200,000 Palestinians, most of them highly educated, who work as civil servants, teachers and technicians. Thousands of Iranians have immigrated illegally across the gulf. They do the heavy labor.

To a large extent, foreigners make the country run and many resent their second class citizen status. They cannot own land or a majority business share. Only 50 non-Kuwaitis can become citizens a year.

For their part, Kuwaiti Nationalists consider foreign workers fortune hunters and think Kuwaitis should have the better jobs. But many still lack essential skills and resent manual labor.

The pro-Western government is a "constitutional hereditary emirate," but the royal family and established Kuwaiti families run the show.

The head of state is Sheikh Sabah al Salim al Sabah, a sort of chairman of the board who assumed office Nov. 27, 1965, after the death of his brother, the Amir Abdullah. Another brother, Sheikh Jaber al Ahmad al Sabah, is the powerful prime minister.

Both Sheikh Sabah and Sheikh Jaber pursue progressive social policies and allow mild opposition in the 50-member national assembly. They tolerate a free-swinging press that is second only Lebanon's in outspokenness about Arab affairs.

In his message from the throne to the assembly last month, Sheikh Sabah said the government's policy is based on "continued effort to increase the country's wealth and strengthen the national economy."

Kuwait came under British protection in 1899 and remained unnoticed by the rest of the world until oil was discovered in significant quantities in 1938.

The oil was exploited by British Petroleum and Gulf, a U.S. company. In 1961, the little country, its ruling sheikhs bursting with oil wealth, became independent.

No longer under direct British protection, Kuwait quickly came under direct threat from its bigger neighbor, Iraq. The Iraqis had undergone a bloody revolution in 1958 that ended the monarchy of King Faisal brought to power a radical revolutionary group of Baathist Socialists.

They quickly came under Soviet influence. By 1961, flexing new muscle, the Iraqi Baathist regime attempted to take over Kuwait and was frustrated by British intervention.

But Britain pulled out of the Gulf in December 1971, leaving Kuwait and the

What kind of gift giver are you?

At Christmas time, are you:
A "reciprocal giver"? If so, you balance your bounty on some invisible inner scale which minutely measures all the input and output and comes out with a niggardly offering.
An "overwhelming giver"? In contrast, you overgive out of inadequacy or guilt or both.
A "martyr giver"? You are a guilt maker, for your unsolicited giving becomes an oppression and a rebuke.
A "narcissistic giver"? You see only your own generosity, reflected like a glossy, retouched photograph of yourself.

Do you go through agonies?
A "talentless giver"? You go through agonies of indecision before making a choice which turns out invariably to be inappropriate, unusable, equivocal—or whatever—but no matter what you choose, it's the absolutely wrong gift which is destined in advance to be returned or exchanged.

Or are you the "typical giver"? If so, throughout the year, you give between five and six gifts to close relatives at an average price of $17.80, between three and four presents to casual relatives or friends at an average price of $12.49, and between three and four obligatory business gifts at an average of $15.09. The items you buy most frequently are electric clocks, radios and mixers. And if you're among the majority of men in managerial/official positions, you spend an average of $155 for presents for women at Christmas alone, with almost half the gifts you buy for women in the category of small appliances.

A nationwide telephone shopping service, GiftAmerica, has just been put together by Western Union—in time to help you shop for the holiday gifts and save on energy (human and fossil). At any hour in the 24, seven days a week, you can dial a toll free phone number (800-325-5000) and get assistance from a little sheikhdoms that dot the area dangerously exposed.

Iraq showed signs it had not dropped its territorial claims on Kuwait when it sent troops to overrun a Kuwaiti border post earlier this year, a way of forcing its tiny neighbor to grant it access to two islands that control approaches to its new Soviet-built port at Um Qasr.

But the Baghdad government, racked by internal troubles, later admitted this was a mistake and talks between the two sides have resumed. It is believed agreement will be reached under which Kuwait will lease the islands, Babiyan and Warba, to Iraq.

Kuwait's other concern in the gulf is Iran assuming the role of the U.S. surrogate in the present vacuum that prevails in the gulf.

"Kuwait is concerned that if Iran moves in this direction, this will provoke Saudi Arabia and Iraq to take over the smaller gulf states," a diplomat explained.

GiftAmerica shopper guide. Linked together by computers in the shopping network are 5,500 dealers. Your gifts can be charged to most major credit cards and, Western Union promises, they will be delivered within hours, gift-wrapped, to recipients almost anywhere in the 48 contiguous United States. Letitia Baldrige, social secretary to the White House during the Kennedy administration, has been named adviser to the new WU service, and she has selected 16 quality brand name gift items for the GiftAmerica collection, ranging from a box of one dozen golf balls and tees priced at $15 to a digital AM/FM clock radio at $44.95.

"What are the most popular gifts wives might give their husbands in the average $17.80 price range?" I asked Miss Baldrige.

Her choices for you to give: golf balls, male cosmetics, jewelry such as cuff links, wallets, clothing accessories such as mufflers and gloves. There also is a trend toward giving husbands who are experimenting with cooking such gifts as gourmet cookbooks and fondue accessories.

And what are the most popular gifts husbands might give their wives in this average $17.80 range?

Her choices: perfumes and toilet water, pajamas and nightgowns, sweaters.

Actually, the gourmet department is becoming one of the fastest growing shopping areas. Both men and women are giving and getting such gourmet props as herb mills, push-button blenders, serving bowls—in addition to the unusual cookbooks and fondue sets.

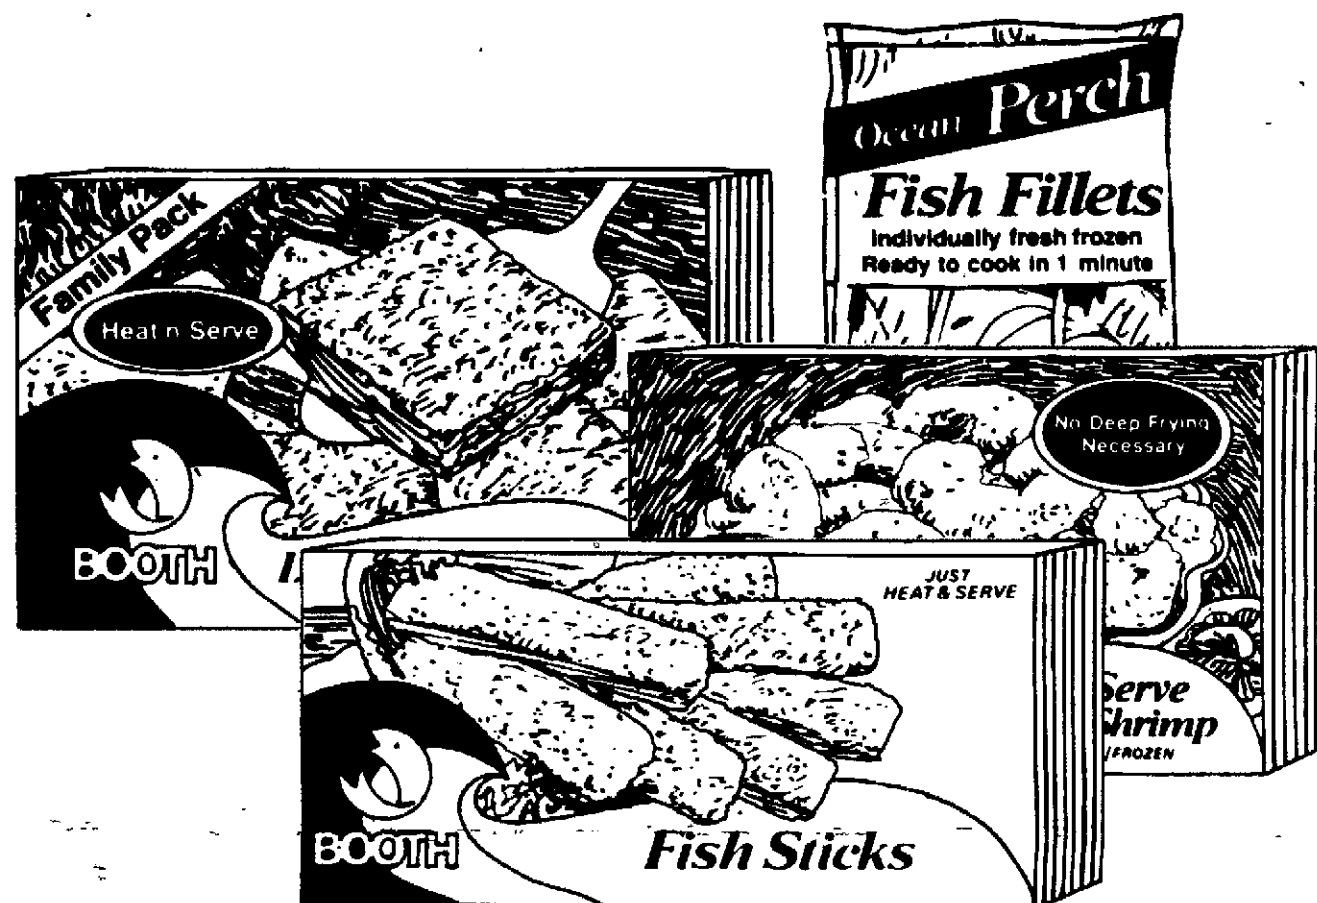

Marketing studies have established that the man whose shopping is gourmet-gear has an emotional need to identify himself with the charmed circle of the knowing and a desire to transfer that same image to the recipients of his gifts. Also, he would like to do a little creative cooking himself.

Men may go all-out romantic. Marketing studies also have established that if you're a typical male shopper, you're about to go all-out romantic—with gift shopping at Christmas a miasma of fragrance and silk lingerie. This emotional involvement has no relationship, incidentally, to the fact that at other seasons, you are a bit tight with the dollar or you have to be reminded you have a wedding anniversary coming up.

P.S. If you really want to bestow a love token on your best girl, carve her a spoon out of a piece of wood using only your pocket knife. In Wales, a man often would do this when betrothed to a maid. When the spoon was finished, it would be attached to a ribbon and worn around the girl's neck as a sign of the engagement. Sometimes it was very elaborately designed. From this custom, we derive our word "spooning," when applied to two people courting.

Super Suppers!

From Booth. Who else.

Take the most delicious food the ocean has to offer, make it easy to serve in a hurry and you have Super Supper Ideas.

Like Booth individually frozen fillets. We freeze them the way you serve them. One at a time, so you cook exactly what you need and keep the rest.

Or, Booth Heat 'n Serve Breaded Shrimp. Real, whole shrimp that gives you real deep fried flavor straight from the oven without the mess of deep frying.

Or, Booth Breaded Portions and Booth Fish Sticks. They're made from real fillets of firm deep-water fish dipped in a secret blend of spices and coated with crispy country-fresh breading for the flavor more people prefer.

Value of special session debated

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's decision to order legislators into special session because of fuel shortages was dismissed Tuesday by a Republican spokesman as a move to "grab some pre-holiday headlines."

Rep. John Shabaz of New Berlin, the GOP minority leader of the Assembly, accused the Democratic governor a misguided failure to spell out how he thinks the legislature can resolve energy problems.

"The governor apparently feels a wild compulsion to bring us back to the Capitol, even if he hasn't any idea why," Shabaz remarked.

In the Senate, Republican Sen. James Devitt of Greenfield predicted the GOP-controlled Senate would cooperate with efforts to deal with the energy crisis.

The legislature, which was not to have reconvened until late January, was told by Lucey to convene Dec. 17.

Lucey's agenda includes fuel shortages and a municipal dispute with the state over distribution of shared-tax revenue.

He said he will submit data and resolutions in a few days, saying state action is needed because of a dearth of satisfactory moves by Congress and the Nixon administration.

Shabaz, in remark for a Wisconsin Consumer Finance Association convention in Milwaukee, predicted the governor will encounter legislative opposition if he attempts to add other topics to the agenda.

"If the governor intends to use this special session as a vehicle to enact any of his other programs under the holiday gun, he is going to ignite some short legislative fuses," Shabaz said.

Devitt said he expects the legislature to go along with congressional action to reduce maximum highway speeds to 55 miles per hour.

Legislation to expedite payment of shared revenue to communities would also gain support of Republican lawmakers, Devitt predicted.

But he too said Lucey should not attempt to expand the session into a "catch-all."

Police & fire beat

Cindy K. Bessette, 330 W. Commercial St., reported the theft of a $40 baby stroller from her front porch late Monday or early Tuesday.

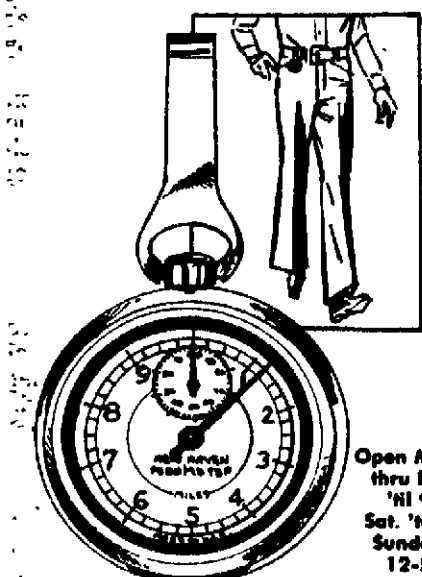

Edwin W. Duncan, 1622 E. Pauline St., reported to police that someone siphoned 10 gallons of gasoline from his car at the parking lot of the Super Bowl, Northland Avenue, about 10:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Police said the gas may have been taken by three persons seen leaving the area. It was the seventh such incident of siphoning reported this week to city and county police.

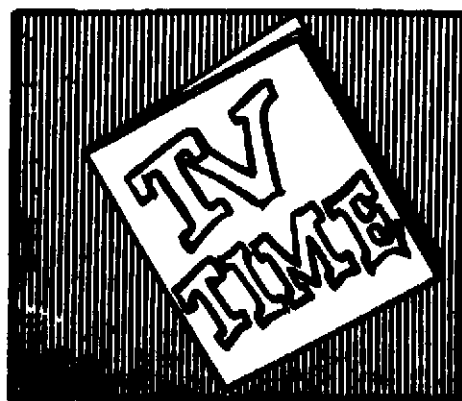

No damage estimate was given after 15 letters were removed from two outside walls of the Appleton Pharmacy, 418 E. Longview Drive, during the weekend. A spokesman for the pharmacy told police that the letters, used for the store's name, were taken from the west and south walls, and that three of the letters were damaged.

Timothy J. Nelson, 126 S. Joseph St., reported the theft of a $35 tape player from his car Tuesday morning at Appleton High School-East. Police said there were no signs of forced entry into the vehicle.

Win "rebound" game and win a prize

BY CAPPY DICK

How many Christmas gift packages are in the pile on which Santa Claus' elf is sitting? If you count them correctly and send in a neat entry, you may become the deep, a really big package of fun.

Five "Rebound" games will be awarded as national grand prizes in today's contest, one for each of the five nearest and most original correct contest entries among those that win local qualifying prizes in each city where this column appears. The local prizes will be selections from Cappy Dick's huge supply of grab bag prizes, including leathercraft kits, pocket puzzles, nature curios and many other articles of interest to boys and girls.

To enter the contest, count the packages in the picture, then clip it out and paste it on a piece of paper. Beneath it print the total of packages; also print your name, age, address and Zip Code number. Finally, decorate your entry in any neat, original way with paints, crayons or cutouts.

Address it to Cappy Dick's Midweek "Rebound" Contest at the Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

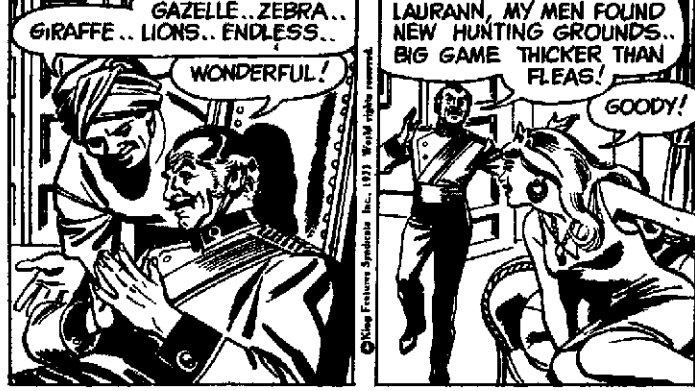

Prize winners' names will be announced here. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned.

Tomorrow, a new, easy way described for drawing circles!

Dr. G. C. Thosteson Anemia, neuritis can cause pricking in hand

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes a "needles and pins" feeling in the hands? According to a nutrition book, it could be a low-grade anemia. So three months ago I improved my diet, as the book suggested, adding fat-free dried milk, wheat germ, vitamins B complex, C, D and E. I have found some improvement, but still suffer at times. Would B shots or liver extract help? —Mrs. W.M.

While, obviously, good nutrition is important, I'm not too sold on the idea of monkeying with health foods, varieties of vitamins and special diets as the first recourse for whatever ails you. That attitude has, however, achieved a lot of publicity. Too much? At times, yes.

It is true that an anemia could cause the "pins and needles" in the hands, but that is by no means the only cause. It can be from neuritis of various types. It also can be from what we call mechanical factors. These can include bony changes in the neck, exerting pressure on nerves radiating from the spine. Another possibility is a pressure on nerves in the wrist. Rather than spend three months tinkering with your diet, it would seem sensible to me to have a blood count to start with, which would show at once whether you are anemic. If so, start correcting it. If not, let your doctor start some tests to sort out the other possibilities. If you have pernicious anemia, vitamin B-12 is the essential treatment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a girl, 18, in good health, active, etc., but my hands sweat. When I'm nervous they really sweat and this is embarrassing. Then I get even more nervous and they sweat even more.

I am entering a career program in college, but am afraid to go to a doctor about this. Does anyone else have my type of problem?

I think it may be nerves but I'm not the nervous type. —J.R.

Does anybody else have that problem? An army of people — the majority of them around your age. And in healthy individuals, the answer comes down to nerves.

You may not be the nervous type but these sweaty palms happen to be something that bothers you — you've already noticed that the more you worry about it, the more you sweat.

No need to be afraid to go to a doctor about it, but there isn't much he can do except reassure you and maybe give you a mild sedative to take if you are expecting some nervous situation to develop.

However, I'm really not much in favor of trying to sedate people for something like this. Why start popping pills when, I think you'll discover, as you become more self-assured and stop worrying about having moist palms, they'll stop sweating.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 76 and until recently have had unusually good eyes, but suddenly cataracts have developed. Could the drops the ophthalmologist put into my eyes cause cataracts? I also have heard that pupils in the eyes should not be dilated in people past 40.

Now they all seem to be using drops. Is this harmful? —M.C.H.

Such eye drops do not cause cataracts but since yours developed rapidly, I should tell you that the rate at which cataracts form varies widely from person to person.

As to not using drops in the eyes of patients past 40 — that is because it can be harmful if they have glaucoma. However, eye specialists more and more are testing eye pressure (to see if glaucoma is present). If the pressure is normal, use of ordinary eye drops is helpful and not harmful.

Purdy heads directors of St. Elizabeth

Bruce Purdy has been elected president of the St. Elizabeth Hospital Board of Directors. He has served as vice president of the board for the past two years.

Purdy, president of Outagamie Corp. and retired vice president of Appleton Wire Works, was chosen at the latest monthly board meeting.

Two new board members also were elected—Dr. H.C. Danford, a physician, and Leonard Tysver, vice president of the human resources division, Aid Association for Lutherans.

They replace R.W. Mahony, who remains as honorary chairman of the board, and Cyrus Rachie, who has left the area.

Other officers elected were Wendell Bueche, vice president; Richard A. Stack, secretary; John S. Wells, treasurer, and Sister M. Anselma Michka, assistant secretary-treasurer.

The other members of the board are Gus Zuehlke, Elmer Otte, Robert Sauter, William Sirek, Mrs. Niels Miller, Donald Plunkett, Sister M. Kathleen Daniel, Sister M. Barbara DeWindt and Sister M. Diane Sledge.

Zuehlke, who has served on the board for a number of years, was presented a plaque and a vote of appreciation for his "dedication and meritorious service as past president of the board."

Clintonville Cub pack trying to raise funds

CLINTONVILLE — Cub Pack 28 has in its possession a grandfather clock, which is for sale and which is on display at the First National Bank.

The clock is made of durable plastic and is a woodtone color, approximately 21 inches tall, and would be suitable either as a wall clock or could be placed on a table.

Bids for the clock may be placed in the box provided at the First National Bank and bids will close at 3 p.m. Dec. 18. Bids will be opened later that day and the clock will go to the highest bidder. Bidders are asked to please put their name and address on their bids.

Profits from the sale of the clock will go into the general fund of Cub Pack 28 to be used for various activities throughout the year.

Fuel . . .

past month's supply, allocation from supplier, and severity of the temperature.

Daily temperature monitoring is considered especially critical by the state in light of the energy shortage. The energy office is advocating using the "degree-day" system for incorporating temperature into the allocation program.

Under this "degree-day" system, it is assumed that artificial heat is needed when the outside temperature falls below 65 degrees. The state will be determining the daily mean temperature (halfway between the extremes) and broadcasting it at 7:30 a.m. daily, starting this week, on the state broadcast network.

"This should help distributors in distributing their product equitably," an energy office spokesman said.

Some Fox Cities fuel oil distributors said this is the system they have used for years. The difference between the daily mean temperature and 65 degrees is recorded daily (if the mean temperature is 40, that produces 25 "degree-days") and allowed to accumulate until a predetermined number is reached. Then the dealer knows it is about time to fill the tank.

The time-to-fill point is reached at different times for different customers, depending on their fuel consumption and when they got their first fill. Carrying this a step further would be difficult.

One Fox Cities dealer said he had 80 to 70 deliveries per day. To handle the additional paperwork to meet the state's request would mean hiring an additional two women.

State energy office spokesmen admit it could be a difficult job, but they point out that in light of the fuel oil shortage and potential severe cutbacks to the state, such a program is needed.

The state energy office is attempting to keep tabs on the amount of fuel oil that can be expected to be available to the state dealers during each month. It had expected more than the 71 per cent of last year's supply that was reported last week, but state Energy Coordinator Stanley York said if people keep their thermostats down 6 1/2 degrees, or about 66 1/2 degrees, the supply can handle it.

Teachers ask citizen support in pact dispute

HORTONVILLE — The Hortonville Education Association, preparing to enter fact-finding with the board of education in an attempt to end a 10-month contract dispute, has asked district residents to ask board members to agree to binding fact-finding.

A fact-finding hearing with a University of Wisconsin-Madison mediator has been scheduled for Thursday, but the board twice has refused HEA requests to make the study binding. The hearing is open to the public. While the teachers' group has pushed for the binding study "so we can get this cleared up," the board, saying it wants to keep local control, has agreed to advisory fact-finding.

Ken Couillard, chairman of the teachers' negotiation committee, asked residents to call members and ask for binding fact-finding. "We're not appealing to the public to support our position, but we'd like it binding so that when the fact-finding is done, our dispute is done. Local control is fine," he added, "but when you reach an impasse, local control won't help."

Couillard said the dispute centers over salary base schedules and fringe benefits. But he added, "The only issue we're asking support on is to make it binding so we can get it settled."

He said HEA expects a ruling from

David Johnson, the fact finder, in early January or sooner.

Couillard dispelled rumors that HEA was considering a strike vote before the Thursday hearing. "I have no plans to present a strike vote," he said. "It's obviously futile to take a strike vote before you go through fact-finding."

But he said a strike at the school is a possibility after fact-finding.

Supt. Marvin Oby, in explaining the board's position, said the board wanted to retain local control for negotiations. "The board is concerned that if you go to a state person now (and it's binding), what stops it from going there in the future? It could go there year after year."

Recycling . . .

but agreed that some wording changes would be wise to reassure the private sectors that the state is not seeking to compete.

Kasten represents an area of the state that would receive the third recycling project, an area including Washington, Milwaukee, Ozaukee and Waukesha counties. The second designated area is the Lincoln, Marathon, Portage and Wood county area of central Wisconsin.

Sen. Jack Steinhilber, R-Oshkosh, also expressed support for the concept but offered strong reservations about the wording of the bill. Steinhilber, who attended the hearing to listen to the four hours of testimony, said later that he was concerned about the state's getting into competition with private business.

The formulators of the bill insist that the state will not be competing with private business and will not require much tax money to operate. Many who appeared at the Tuesday hearing did not believe them.

The Wisconsin Towns Association, through lobbyist Myron Lotto, offered an amendment deleting a portion of the bill that would give the Solid Waste Authority the power to acquire property owned by a municipality through condemnation.

Gerald Schwerm of the League of Suburban Municipalities offered a series of amendments, including one which would allow any municipality to detach itself from the state program if it could prove that its own existing program cost less.

Much of the opposition came in the form of out-of-state witnesses. Among them were David Reichert, an attorney from Cincinnati representing the Institute for Scrap Iron and Steel; Eugene Wingerter of Washington, D.C., speaking for the National Solid Waste Management Association; and Jerome Scharf of New York, representing the National Association of Secondary Material Industries Inc.

Sen. Gordon Roseleip, R-Darlington, took issue with Kasten's statement that the program could be self-sustaining despite a provision of the bill asking for $23 million in bonding.

"Why should the other areas of the state, who have nothing to gain by this program, help support it?" Roseleip asked. "I think we're being discriminated against."

Representatives from Outagamie and Winnebago counties appeared at the hearing and expressed differing opinions. Joseph DeBruin, chairman of the Outagamie County Zoning Committee, opposed the bill and said that Outagamie was in the process of building its own shredder in an Appleton industrial park.

Outagamie County board Supvs. Fred Rehfeldt, Eugene Klose and Clayton Van Dyke also appeared and Rehfeldt testified in favor of the program, despite the fact that the Outagamie County Board has voted against it.

Oshkosh City Manager Gordon Jaeger appeared in favor of the bill, pointing out that both the Oshkosh City County and Winnebago County Board support it.

National Guard starts extensive recruiting drive

CLINTONVILLE — The local unit of the Wisconsin National Guard is involved in an extensive recruiting campaign, which has been initiated throughout the state in an effort to bring the force up to the authorized strength of 10,000.

The National Guard in Wisconsin is 10 per cent under that strength.

Detachment 1, company A of Clintonville is now eight members under its authorized strength.

The Clintonville National Guard Armory, E. 12th Street, will be open weekly during the day, on Saturday mornings from 8 a.m. until 12 noon, on Mondays from 4 to 8 p.m., and on regularly scheduled drills, in an effort to recruit veterans and men and women without prior service.

Three programs have been initiated to aid the recruiting drive: The 3 by 3 option, the Try One Program and the 180-day enlistment program. Each offers a different approach to enlistment and training.

Veterans and men and women without prior service may seek information on the programs from Sgt. Ray Harwick at the National Guard Armory.

Keeping posted

NEW LONDON — A visit from Santa and gift exchange will be included at the Jaycette meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Mrs. Roger Mathison home, 1826 Nassau St.

Christmas workshops and the quick hearing screening test for local schools will be discussed. New members will be installed. Members are asked to bring a 50-cent gift, wrapped in plain paper, for St. Joseph's. The gifts will be used throughout the year for prizes at bingo parties.

Proxmire aide to be available for questions

Tom Pattison, home secretary for Sen. William Proxmire, will be in the Appleton main post office from 10 to 11 a.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 12, to answer citizen questions on any matter. No appointment is necessary.

The balance of the day he will spend making calls in the business area.

Protesting truckers block road

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Protesting truck drivers blocked off the Delaware Memorial Bridge on the main highway between New York and Washington, D.C., for seven hours today and stopped traffic at several spots in Ohio and Indiana.

The demonstrations were the latest in a series that began Monday over higher prices for diesel fuel and lower speed limits.

Estimates of the number of trucks blocked up at the bridge ranged over 1,000. New Jersey State Police said there were 1,000 rigs on the Jersey side alone. Authorities reported several hundred other rigs were backed up on highways leading to the bridge which normally carries 45,000 vehicles a day across the Delaware River.

The drivers ended their demonstration at the two-span, eight-lane bridge shortly after 9 a.m. following a news conference during which they aired their complaints.

Police had made no attempt to break up the demonstration, although five drivers were detained briefly.

"There ain't enough tow trucks on the whole East Coast to move us," one driver boasted as traffic started backing up during the morning rush hour.

Drivers identifying themselves as leaders of the protest said at the news conference they were against proposed 55-mile-an-hour speed limits and fuel hikes which they said have put the cost of diesel fuel at 51 cents a gallon.

In Washington, the Cost of Living Council said it was investigating complaints that some truck stop operators were overcharging for diesel fuel.

Indiana State Police said about 100 trucks blocked lanes of the Indiana Toll Road near South Bend, just south of the border with Michigan. They said authorities were trying to move some car traffic past the stopped trucks.

There has been no evidence that the blockades, involving only a fraction of the country's truck drivers, are part of a concerted, nationwide effort, although some organizations have called for a massive shutdown in the middle of the month.

The Ohio blockades came on Interstate 70, the scene of a series of stoppages on Tuesday, and on the Ohio Turnpike, closed during the night at several spots and reopened briefly at dawn.

Authorities said at least 100 rigs stalled turnpike traffic in both directions just west of Norwalk, between Elyria and Fremont in the northern part of the state.

Highway patrolmen were on the scene. "They simply asked us to leave enough room to let the people through to go to work," said one trucker. "We fully agree with that. We just want to hold up freight."

Another 60 truckers blocked traffic on Interstate 70, just east of Columbus, for several hours, demanding a meeting with Gov. John J. Gilligan and threatening to drive their rigs into the downtown area.

A spokesman for the governor's office said the drivers agreed to lift the blockade in midmorning in exchange for a meeting with Gilligan's chief of staff, Jack E. Hansan. Some drivers said, however, that they would stay put until after the meeting.

"All they really wanted to do is call the governor's attention to the situation and see what we could do about it," the governor's spokesman said.

Buses and commuters in cars tried to find alternate routes in the area around Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del., during the bridge blockade.

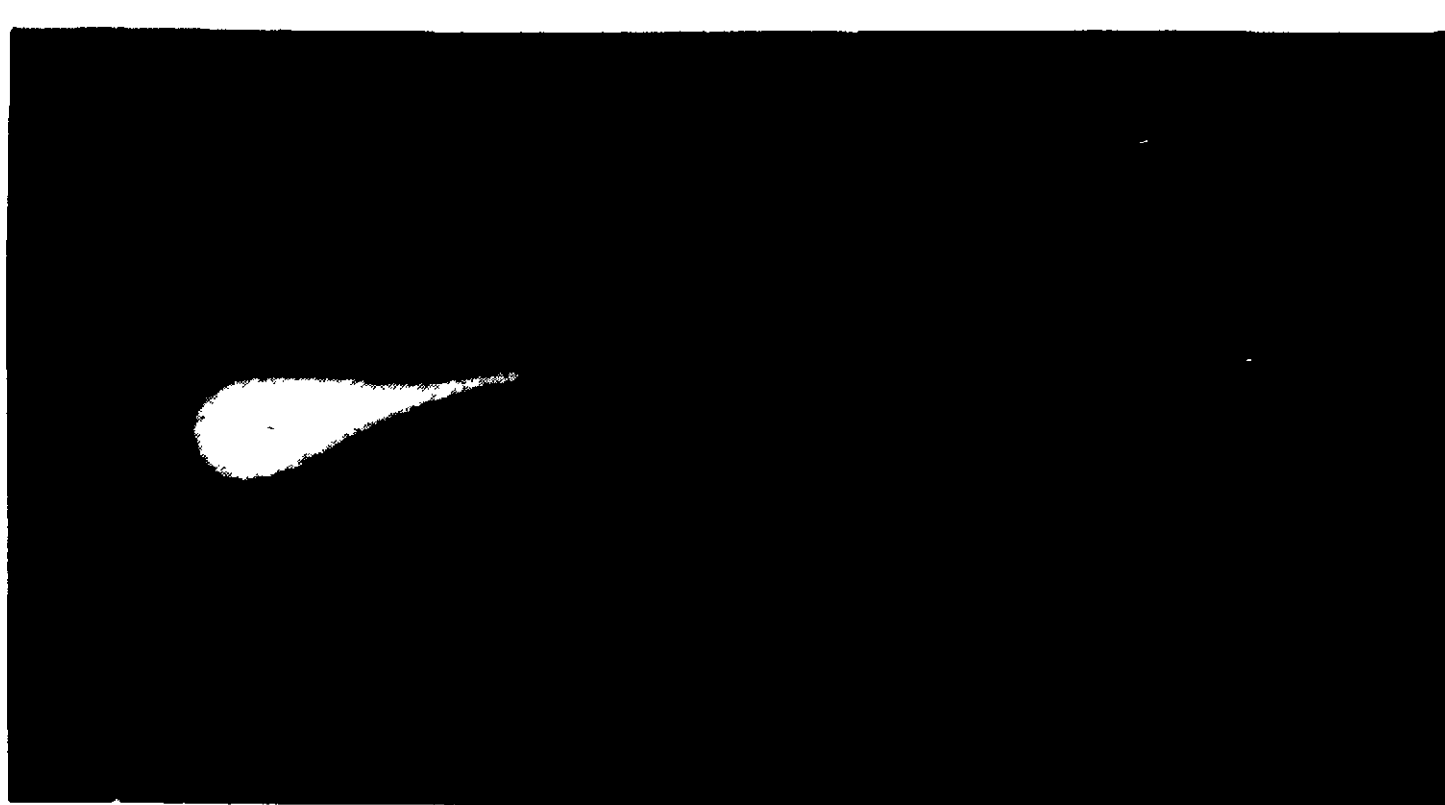

"We expect some delays and will try alternate routes," said a spokesman for the Greyhound Corp. in New York.

The heavily traveled New Jersey Turnpike begins at Deepwater, on the New Jersey side of the bridge, and state police diverted traffic off the turnpike because of the tie-up.

The Ohio truckers had warned of new stoppages. Walter Barclay of Omaha, Neb., one of the leaders, said: "We're trying to shut down the whole U.S.A. to get the fuel price down and let us have fuel priority."

The overnight turnpike blockades had closed all lanes of the toll roads in three

Higher prices, refinery profits await approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher heating oil prices are in the offing in what officials say could be an important test of the idea that the country can conserve energy through higher prices.

The increases of two to three cents a gallon are expected to be approved today by the Cost of Living Council, according to William E. Simon, head of the administration's new Federal Energy Administration.

And sources within the Cost of Living Council have predicted that heating oil prices may increase by eight cents per gallon before the winter is over.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was to meet with Sheikh

Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi Arabian oil minister, to discuss that nation's cutoff of oil to the United States.

Also expected to meet with Kissinger is Belaid Abdesalam, the minister of industry and energy for Algeria.

However, State Department officials say they do not expect the meeting to accomplish much in arranging quick resumption of oil supplies.

The man Simon replaced, former Colorado Gov. John A. Love, said that he doesn't think members of the administration, from the President on down, are fully aware of the seriousness of the nation's energy crisis.

"Most of the administration just doesn't realize how deep this problem goes," said Love, who resigned Monday. He said chances of solving the energy problem in the next three to five years "are very remote."

Apparently in agreement with that assessment was Frank N. Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute, who predicted that the oil shortage will last "as long as most of us will live."

Ikard said gasoline rationing is inevitable "some time next year."

The government, through its increase in heating oil prices, is hoping to encourage refineries to produce more of the oil and less gasoline.

Council energy officials say many refineries have been emphasizing gasoline production since the spring and summer gasoline shortage because gasoline has been more profitable than heating oil.

Gasoline prices, which were increased by some companies by as much as two to three cents per gallon in the past week, have been rising even faster than heating oil prices.

Both are in short supply, but so far there has been no serious heating oil shortage because the weather has been unseasonably warm throughout much of the country.

Haig knew about tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — According to witnesses at the Watergate tapes hearing, it often was Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., President Nixon's top aide, who knew the most the earliest about problems with the Watergate tapes.

Haig is scheduled to testify today at the federal court hearing called by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to hear testimony about what might have caused the 18-minute gap in one of the subpoenaed tapes and what was done about it.

In another development Tuesday, an attorney for billionaire Howard Hughes gave the Senate Watergate committee $100,000 in cash, supposedly the same bills given three years ago to Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo to pass on to President Nixon's re-election committee. Each of the 1,000 $100 bills was photographed by committee staffers on a copying machine.

The money was given to Rebozo, President Nixon's close personal friend, in two $50,000 installments in 1969 and 1970.

The money was kept in a Florida bank. It never was turned over to the re-election committee and last summer, according to the committee, was

Return to daylight time expected by end of year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the nation is expected to return to Daylight Saving Time by Dec. 30, with the exact date to be settled by a Senate-House conference committee.

The Senate voted 68 to 10 Tuesday to impose a year-round energy time plan as an energy conservation measure, effective the fourth Sunday after enactment.

The House earlier agreed to give industries and transportation companies 15 days to adjust their schedules before advanced time goes into effect.

The Senate bill allows each state to exempt itself from Daylight Time if advancing the clock one hour would result in undue hardship.

The Nixon administration asked for the legislation, contending that adding Daylight Time during the winter months would result in a three per cent fuel savings. Various experts say the savings would range from a fraction of one per cent to 1.5 per cent.

But Chairman Warren Magnuson of the Commerce Committee said that, even without direct fuel savings, year-round Daylight Time would serve as a constant reminder that the nation can no longer waste its energy resources.

Several congressmen contend that delaying the onset of darkness by one hour would result in less crime and fewer traffic accidents.

But Sens. Marlow K. Cook, R-Ky., and Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., said an equally effective argument could be made that Daylight Time could result in more fuel usage.

Cook noted that, under Daylight Time, sunrise in his native Louisville would be at 9 a.m. during the first 10 days of January, that many children would have to wait in the dark for school buses, and that area farmers would waste an hour each day waiting for the sun to burn off the morning dew.

It will be up to the Federal Communications Commission to alleviate another problem caused by Daylight Time. The bill directs the FCC to modify its rules that prohibit many small radio stations from going on the air before sunrise.

Since 1966, most of the nation has observed Daylight Time from May through October each year. The Senate and House bills would impose full-time Daylight Time for 22 months ending the last Sunday of October 1975. After that date, states could decide on their own whether to continue fast time.

Cook added an amendment, adopted by voice vote, allowing any state to exempt itself from Daylight Time during the 22-month period. Any state having two or more time zones could exempt the full state or one or more time zones from Daylight Time.

Life term in installments

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP) — Bobbie Ferguson wants Gov. Robert Ray to give him a life term in the Iowa State Penitentiary so he can stay in the place he regards as home.

Ferguson says he's spent all but 16 months of his 39 years in various state institutions and he wants "a life term because I can't live as a free person."

Ray's office says the governor doesn't have the authority to grant Ferguson's request.

Ferguson was born in the women's reformatory at Rockwell City of a convict mother he's never known. Two days later he was taken to Woodward State Hospital, where he spent the next 14 years as a ward of the court.

Since then he says he's committed a succession of crimes designed to keep him in institutions where he feels secure and has friends. His record shows 18 convictions on charges which include robbery with aggravation, auto theft, jailbreak, larceny and vagrancy.

"Bobbie is serving a life term on the installment plan," says Nolan Ellandson, director of Iowa's Bureau of Adult Corrections.

Ferguson's current 10-year robbery sentence in the penitentiary here will be completed in 12 months, but he says the specter of freedom haunts him.

"I don't know how to live outside," Ferguson said. "My home is inside, and I want to stay here for the rest of my life."

"It would be a joke if I am let out. Why go out and prove I don't want out by robbing someone and hurting them?"

Ellandson said Ferguson's latest prison sentence stems from a 1965 incident in which he robbed a Fort Dodge service station of $10, then walked across the street and waited to be arrested.

Ray's office said the governor can only commute a sentence or pardon a prisoner but that he can't extend a sentence.

Ferguson's reply is that in that case he'd like to be transferred to the mental health institute at Mount Pleasant where he could live in a structured environment before re-entering society under supervision.

"I don't want to hurt anybody," Ferguson said. "I just want them to give me some help."

He added that his requests for a life term or transfer are not granted "a year from now I know I'll be right back here."

Nixon net worth increased to $1 million since he took office

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has become a millionaire since taking office, according to his lawyers.

Republican congressional leaders said Tuesday that the lawyers said at a White House meeting that Nixon's net worth had increased from about $300,000 on Jan. 1, 1969, to $988,000 last May 31.

And they listed a cash flow since May 31 that would have added the $12,000 needed to boost the President into the millionaire status, the congressmen said.

The cash flow statement and net worth figures were divulged by two long-time friends of Nixon, lawyers Kenneth Gemmill of Philadelphia and H. Chapman Rose of Cleveland, who are helping draft the personal financial reports the President plans to make public this week.

Two Republican leaders who attended the unannounced White House meeting, Sen. John Tower of Texas and Rep. John Anderson of Illinois, said Nixon was urged to release his income tax returns to back up the financial statements and other documents scheduled for release.

"I think most of us feel that the press and the Congress will be satisfied with nothing less than seeing the actual returns," Tower told newsmen. "... The tax returns will show his financial affairs were very much in order."

The Associated Press reported on Sunday that Nixon paid $72,000 in federal income taxes for 1969, but less than $6,000 during the past three years when he claimed substantial deductions for donation of his vice presidential papers to the government.

The net worth figures submitted by Nixon's lawyers appeared to have been based on an audit of the President's records by a New York accounting firm, Coopers & Lybrand. The $300,000 net worth on Jan. 1, 1969, and the $988,000 last May 31 did not correspond with previous public statements by Nixon aides.

For example, when Nixon was a presidential candidate, his staff reported his net worth as of Sept. 30, 1968, was $315,830. On May 12, 1969, the White House said his net worth was $596,900, and on Sept. 16, 1972, aides said it was $785,118.

One White House official said the disparity resulted from different accounting procedures.

According to a cash flow statement prepared by the lawyers, Nixon had $432,874 in bank accounts or savings certificates on May 31, with the rest of his net worth in California and Florida real estate.

The May 31 accounting included $250,000 in certificates of deposit purchased from a Key Biscayne, Fla., bank headed by C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo, Nixon's close personal friend. Since then, the President has purchased another $50,000 certificate.

Auto industry layoffs welcomed, for now

DETROIT (AP) — Auto industry layoffs caused by the energy crisis or parts shortages mean pay losses for hundreds of auto workers, perhaps the loss of their jobs.

But to thousands of their fellow workers, the layoffs are a welcome holiday season respite. They will still get the bulk of their pay.

The Big Three American auto makers have announced layoffs for more than 200,000 of their 720,000 workers. Most of the layoffs are set for a week or less.

Many of the auto workers who have been laid off or who face a layoff will receive as much as 95 per cent of their usual take-home pay from unemployment compensation and from supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) under United Auto Worker contracts.

This, coupled with a week off before the holidays, couldn't make many of these auto workers happier.

"Why not," said one Pontiac, Mich. Pontiac auto assembler. "I've been working plenty of overtime. I'd love some time to relax."

"I've haven't been without work for more than a week since I was nine years

Kissinger talks with oil sheiks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is meeting with the Saudi Arabian oil minister to hear an explanation of that Middle East nation's cutoff of oil supplies to the United States.

Kissinger scheduled an hour for today's session with Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani. In addition, the meeting also was to involve Belaid Abdesalam, the minister of industry and energy for Algeria. Both have toured major European cities lately to explain the embargo and production cut of their countries' oil supplies since the Arab-Israeli war began Oct. 6.

The United States has been listed as hostile to the Arabs and, therefore, the object of a near total embargo of oil from Arab exporters.

In his conversations with Western European officials, Yamani has stated that the major condition for resumption of his nation's oil production is Israeli withdrawal from all Arab territory taken in the 1967 war, as well as lands conquered in October.

State Department officials do not expect today's meeting to accomplish much in arranging a quick resumption of oil supplies from Saudi Arabia. That will be the function of Kissinger's diplomatic efforts to bring about a full-fledged Middle East settlement, the sources said.

Part of that effort will be the secretary's trip through the Middle East later this month.

cording to Rebozo and the President, the same bills were returned to Hughes.

In court, Samuel J. Powers, a Miami attorney working as a White House consultant on the tapes cases, testified he had no explanation for the full 18-minute gap on the tape of a June 20, 1972, conversation between the President and H. R. Haldeman.

Rose Mary Woods, President Nixon's personal secretary, has testified that she might have caused part of it by accidentally pushing the record button when she tried to stop the machine while transcribing the tape last Oct. 1.

Haig's name has cropped up frequently in testimony.

Miss Woods said it was Haig who told her Thanksgiving Day that she ought to retain a lawyer.

White House lawyer J. Fred Buzhardt said he first learned about the existence of a gap from either the President or Haig. He said he wasn't certain who told him first.

Haig was the first person Buzhardt told when he discovered that the gap was 18 minutes and 15 seconds long instead of five minutes.

He said he told Haig at the same time that he believed the Haldeman conversation was covered by the subpoena, contrary to his earlier opinion that it was not.

When Buzhardt reported about the gap to the President on the evening of Nov. 15, Haig also was present.

Lawyer for committee studying impeachment says he's 'good cook'

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Attorney Richard Cates is not saying much about his part in a House review of the possibility of impeaching President Nixon, but says his cooking is good.

Cates, of Madison, is the No. 2 man on the staff of the House Judiciary Committee, which is trying to determine if it should recommend impeachment.

He was appointed last month to work as assistant to general counsel Jerry Zeifman.

In telephone interviews from Washington with the Madison Capital Times, Cates and Zeifman declined to comment on the investigation.

"We are trying to be very judicious," Zeifman said.

Cates said his job "gives me a chance to totally immerse myself in one project," but also gives him a chance to try out his skills at the stove.

"I never cooked before I came down here except for once at the Edgewater (Hotel). They hired me as a cook, but fired me in two days," Cates said.

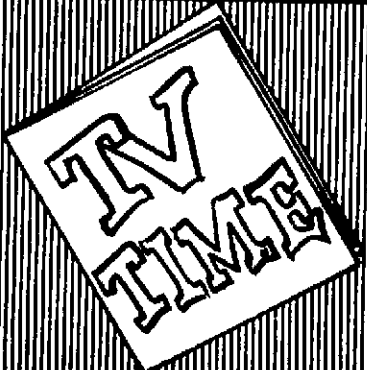

"Now I'm finding out they made a big mistake," he said, "because I am pretty good at it."

Barber says Nixon is easy man to please

WASHINGTON (AP) —Barber Milton Pitts says his most prominent customer is an easy man to please.

Pitts, who cuts the hair of President Nixon about every 10 days, talked with reporters at a White House dinner party Tuesday night. He said Nixon takes a razor cut.

"The President is a great person. President Nixon never tells me what to do. He's very kind, very easy to please," said Pitts.

AND THERE WOULD BE COMPARABLE SAVINGS OF NATURAL GAS AND ELECTRICITY, TOO.

The President of the United States has urged all Americans, whether they heat with oil, gas or electricity, to dial down their thermostats 6° to help conserve heating fuel. If everyone does — homes, offices, factories, schools, government — the savings would be immense. On a cold day, heating oil consumption alone would be reduced 22 million gallons. A tremendous amount of natural gas would also be conserved and could be used to relieve the shortage of petroleum products. That's enough to make the difference between a serious shortage and a moderate one.

DIAL DOWN TO 68°

For every degree the thermostat is set above 68°, it increases fuel consumption about 3%. So, if you keep your thermostat at 68° during the day, you're conserving a substantial amount of heating fuel.

If you dial down even lower when you go to bed at night, you'll be saving even more. And, if you go away over the holidays, dial down to 55° so you don't waste fuel overheating an empty house.

THE GASOLINE SHORTAGE: WE BEAT IT WHEN EVERYONE USED A LITTLE LESS

Last summer, most people hardly felt the effect of the gasoline shortage. Many questioned if there really was a shortage after all.

The fact is, the shortage never got as bad as feared because people did conserve gasoline. Little things — like driving slower, avoiding jackrabbit starts and combining trips — reduced consumption enough so that few people ever experienced serious difficulty in getting gasoline.

If it worked last summer, it can work this winter. If each of us just uses a little less, there'll be more for all of us. Enough, hopefully, so that no one need suffer.

THE ALTERNATIVE: EMPTY SCHOOL ROOMS AND FACTORIES

If we don't conserve, something has got to give. There just won't be enough fuel to heat everything that needs heating.

Schools will close. Businesses will be forced to shut down.

And, since many electric utilities use heating oil to generate electricity, the shortage of fuel may cause brown-outs. Especially over the holidays when Christmas trees and more cooking and baking increase the demand for electric power.

WHAT STANDARD IS DOING TO EASE THE SHORTAGE

We are producing as much heating oil as we can, and investing heavily to produce even more.

We spent more money in 1973 exploring for new sources of oil than in any other year in our history. And, in 1974, we'll top that record.

We're currently adding 4 huge tankers to our fleet and recently announced plans to add 7 more.

An $88 million investment is being made in our Texas City, Texas, refinery to increase its capacity for handling foreign crude.

A $2.5 million investment is being made to increase pipeline capacity. We're enlarging our storage capacities for heating oil in those areas of the country where extremely cold weather is likely to occur. We are telling all Standard employees to dial down, both at home and at work. We are urging other businesses to dial down, too. We are reducing the electric lighting in our offices.

And, we're running ads like this one, urging everyone to conserve heating fuel wherever possible. The ads can't create more oil, but they can help make the oil there is go farther.

MAKE YOUR NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION EARLY: DIAL DOWN NOW

Every day people don't conserve there's just that much more heating fuel used, and that much less to get us through the really severe winter months.

So dial down today. And stay dialed down until the threat of shortage has passed. And, check your home for other ways to conserve. For a free booklet, on what to do, contact your Standard heating fuel man, or write: Heating Fuel Conservation, Standard Oil, MC 1506, P.O. Box 6110A, Chicago, Illinois 60680.

Major highway blocked by protesting truckers

places. Authorities said 300 to 400 trucks were involved at one point.

Earlier, police used tow vehicles to remove some of the 800 trucks blocking Interstate 80 in Pennsylvania. The log-jam near Milesburg finally broke up as the trucks started moving at 10 m.p.h. in a two-abreast parade that stretched for 20 miles.

There were demonstrations by truckers on Tuesday in Connecticut and Delaware as well as in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Ohio. In addition, one man blocked the New York State Thruway near Buffalo in a brief independent stoppage.

Truck blockades formed Tuesday night on Interstate 80 in Pennsylvania at the Lamar and Danville exits in the center of the state, at Bartonville near Stroudsburg and at the Strattaville exit near Pittsburgh.

When Pennsylvania State Police moved in early today to tow the trucks away, drivers complained that officers broke windows and damaged drive shafts on their rigs.

James Cox, public information officer for the Pennsylvania State Police, said truckers locked their cabs and left the trucks in gear, making it impossible to tow them. He said police had little choice other than to break windshields of vehicles that had to be moved.

The American Trucking Association, a trucking industry organization, and the Teamsters Union, which represents 400,000 drivers, both disclaimed involvement in the protest.

The truckers want an increase in the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit imposed in many areas, and they also want a price ceiling placed on the diesel fuel most trucks use.

In Chicago, Teamsters Union President Frank E. Fitzsimmons said Teamster contracts may have to be reopened if the 55 m.p.h. speed limits are kept in force and wages fall. Many drivers are paid on a mileage basis, and slower speeds mean less mileage.

An Ohio Turnpike blockade Tuesday night cut that busy route between Norwalk and Fremont, 90 miles west of Cleveland. Some 40-60 trucks were involved, police said.

The demonstration came after two truckers had been arrested earlier for impeding traffic on the toll road by driving too slowly.

After the arrests, more than 100 angry drivers met at a turnpike plaza and the drivers decided to stop their rigs on the road. Patrolmen rerouted traffic and let the trucks stay where they were.

Trucks also blocked highways in New Jersey, at Lodi and Blairstown, and at Wheeling, W.Va., Tuesday. Seven drivers were arrested in New Jersey and one in West Virginia.

In Delaware, police broke up a gathering of an estimated 25 truckers near Interstate 265 Tuesday.

Three drivers were arrested near Newtown, Conn., Tuesday on charges of impeding traffic. Arresting officers said they had driven their trucks three abreast on Interstate 84 at 20 miles per hour.

On the New York State Thruway, a driver who swung his tractor-trailer across two lanes of the highway after being stopped for exceeding the speed limit was arrested for obstructing governmental administration, reckless driving and disorderly conduct. Police said he told them he blocked the road to protest the 50 m.p.h. speed limit.

In Los Angeles, Overdrive Magazine, which calls itself "the voice of the American trucker," urged a nationwide walkout Dec. 13 and 14. A spokesman said the protest would signify "the ultimate in fuel conservation."

Emergency fuel plan set

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent staff writer

FOND DU LAC — A system is being set up through the various county clerk and county emergency government offices to handle emergency needs for fuel oil supplies in Wisconsin this winter.

Stanley York, coordinator of the Wisconsin Office of Emergency Energy Assistance, told east-central Wisconsin emergency government directors and county clerk representatives here Tuesday that if it sounded as if he were painting a gloomy picture of the fuel situation this winter it was because "it is a gloomy picture."

Current estimates, which he said were guesses at best, are that Wisconsin will be about 25 per cent short of petroleum this winter. The exact amount, York said, will depend entirely on the weather. He said he also expected individuals and businesses to be without fuel.

To handle such emergencies, York said, emergency allocation request forms will be placed in all county clerk offices in the state and also probably with the major distributors.

Anyone needing furnace or diesel fuel in a true emergency situation will fill out one of the forms which will then be turned over to the local emergency government office. The request will then be radioed or telephoned to York's office in Madison. A supplier will then be ordered to furnish fuel.

"There is a $5,000 fine for refusing to provide emergency fuel," York said. In most cases, he said, emergency fuel should be able to be delivered within 8 to 12 hours of the request.

In cases where the emergency can be foreseen, the request form will be mailed to Madison.

To indicate the impact of a 25 per cent shortage, York said that if a homeowner turns down his thermostat from 70 degrees to 64 degrees he will reduce his fuel consumption about 15 per cent.

Under a proposed mandatory fuel allocation program which is supposed to go into effect Jan. 1, home owners will be allowed 85 per cent as much fuel oil as they got in calendar year 1972. However, there are no guidelines on how the 85 per cent will be delivered.

York said the proposal "borders between stupid and ridiculous." He said it wouldn't work and that he expects it to be withdrawn and a new allocation method developed before the end of the month.

To allocate oil on an emergency basis, the state can take up to 10 per cent of the oil allocated to Wisconsin by each oil company for emergency distribution. Texaco will probably be the first company tapped, York said, because it is refusing to ship 10 per cent of its oil unless it is needed.

Basically, he said, Wisconsin is in a relatively good position because January, February and March, 1972 were colder than normal and 1972 will always be used as the base year for figuring allocations.

However, some oil companies have reduced the amount they will send to Wisconsin substantially from that year. Clark Oil Co. and Kerr-McGee (Deep Rock) have allocated only about 50 per cent of their 1972 totals for the state for next year. Standard Oil has allocated 91 per cent and Shell Oil about the same. York said allocation percentages for other oil companies would be available soon.

Priorities for fuel oil also will be worked out in the near future, York said. He indicated that residential users would be in the top priority.

"There is nothing we can do to add to the total oil supply," York said. "All we can do is move around what we do have."

The eastern third of Wisconsin, in an arc from Green Bay through Madison and south to the state line, is in relatively good shape for natural gas, York said.

Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Co., which supplies that portion of the state, is one of the few pipe lines to actually have more natural gas for next year than it had last year, York said.

However, he said that while its supply will be up about 5 per cent, the demand will be up closer to 15 per cent.

Having this extra supply of natural gas "doesn't mean you don't have to turn your thermostat down," York said. "While you're cozy in your home you may be out of work because your employer was on an interruptible contract."

Most large industries are on natural gas contracts which say that service can be interrupted during peak use periods. Those industries then usually switch to fuel oil for the week or two until gas service is restored. York said there probably won't be any fuel oil for them to switch to.

The East Coast is experiencing a fuel crisis because it is almost totally dependent on fuel oil with little or no natural gas or coal being used, York said. The East Coast also is the only area dependent on Middle East oil.

York said that even if the Middle East situation were resolved and its oil started flowing again it would be a minimum of 35 days before any of that oil could reach the United States.

Optimistic dealers not following fuel guidelines

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent staff writer

Fox Cities fuel oil dealers aren't adhering to the state's recommendation that they allocate fuel oil to individual customers based on 85 per cent of last year's consumption, but they contend that following the state system would be a nightmare administratively.

The dealers said they weren't feeling the pinch at this time — thanks mainly to unseasonably mild temperatures to date. Some believe they can make it through the winter, barring unforeseen cutbacks, because their customers have obviously been keeping down their thermostats.

One dealer noted that where he normally put in 200 gallons at refill time, he needed to put in only 160 or 170 gallons to fill.

Spokesmen from the Wisconsin Office of Emergency Energy Assistance aren't impressed with the optimism and they warn that dealers had better start using the complicated allocation system.

"They had better get on it," one energy office spokesman said, "or the hot potato is going to be in their laps." He said customers would be the ones to suffer in the long run.

What the dealers apparently are not doing is holding down the allocation to individual customers to 85 per cent of the individual customer's fill of a year ago. However, if the drop in the thermostat is reducing fuel consumption by about 15 per cent, the effect would be the same.

This situation could be affected drastically by a reduction in the fuel oil supply to area dealers. The latest word from the energy office is that during December only 71 per cent of last year's consumption will be available in Wisconsin.

Energy office spokesmen claim the allocation program has been in effect since Nov. 1 and is part of a national energy allocation program. They said the explanation of the allocation system has been given to fuel oil dealers associations, but, in the interest of clearer understanding the state is preparing an information package which may be ready by Friday.

An energy office spokesman said there are many variables that should be considered by fuel oil dealers in allocating their product. Among these, he said, are the number of customers, inventory and possible excess from the

New London woman hurt in shooting

NEW LONDON — Police were continuing their investigation today into a shooting that put a New London woman in the hospital with a gunshot wound to the abdomen. The man who allegedly shot her was hospitalized for observation.

Police said Mrs. Marvin Beattie, of 620 N. Water St., called the department and reported hearing a gunshot in the apartment behind her home.

The department gave this account: Ronald Sands, 48, 620 1/2 N. Water St., had apparently had a quarrel with a man in a downtown bar, and returned home to load a gun. Myrtle Weinandt, 55, also of 620 1/2 N. Water St., apparently tried to talk him out of going back to the downtown bar. The gun apparently went off accidentally, according to Mrs. Weinandt.

The bullet from the .41 magnum handgun entered her abdomen and passed through her side. She was listed in satisfactory condition a late Tuesday at New London Community Hospital.

Police said that Sands, who is apparently an epileptic, had a seizure, and was taken to Community Hospital, where he was being held under police guard.

Black Creek tax rate decreases 21 per cent

BLACK CREEK — The village board Friday adopted its 1974 budget, which calls for total spending of $275,163 and a tax rate 21 per cent lower than last year's rate.

The net tax rate for 1974 is set at $39.79 per $1,000 assessed valuation, compared with a $50.86 net rate for the previous year. The tax will be applied to real estate and personal property within the village.

The assessed value of property now is about 57 per cent of market value; last year the percentage was 63.

The owner of a house worth $20,000 on today's market can expect his tax bill to be about $463, compared with $640 of last year.

Expenditures in 1974 for village purposes, over which the board has control, are budgeted at $133,282. Receipts are estimated at $83,070, leaving $50,212 as the village's part of the total $192,093 tax levy.

Other parts of the levy include the local school district tax, $105,274; county and state taxes, $30,337, and vocational school tax, $6,270.

Major reasons for lower tax bills in 1974 than for 1973 are reductions in both the local school tax and state and county taxes. The 1973 school tax was $118,364, while state and county taxes were $40,312.

Total 1973 spending is estimated at $294,242.

Study likely on Pierce issue

BY FRANK CHURCH
Post-Crescent staff writer

A committee probably will be established next week to study the future of Pierce Park as a site for the annual July 4 celebration sponsored by the Appleton Jaycees.

Park and Recreation Commission Chairman John Olson said Tuesday that "no matter what we do in Pierce Park, many people aren't going to be happy with us having the celebration there."

Some 30 area residents, most from the 600, 700 and 800 blocks of South Summit Street, have signed a petition calling for moving the celebration somewhere else next year.

Olson's not sure it can be done that quickly, but he said he's willing to try. The chairman said commissioners already have given to the Jaycees permission to conduct the annual civic event in 1974 in Pierce Park. "How binding that is, I can't tell you at this point."

But Olson wants the commission to name a committee to first determine site criteria for a large celebration like the July 4 event and "then start narrowing down where we can possibly put this thing."

Olson eventually would like to see the celebration moved to Langedyke Park. "Maybe it can be ready next year," he said, "but I hope at the latest by 1975."

The commission chairman also thinks the commission can explore, along with the Jaycees, the use of a non-park site like a vacant field.

Olson, because the commission has already granted the civic group a permit to use the park in 1974, would like to wait until 1975 before moving the celebration from Pierce Park.

City Atty. David Geenen said the commission could rescind its action on the permit "as long as it's done far enough in advance so they (Jaycees) can plan for another site."

The commission will discuss the Pierce Park question at its Dec. 11 meeting.

The petition submitted Monday at city hall said the commission "has been promising area residents to hold" the celebration "elsewhere for at least five years...."

It said "excessive noise, traffic congestion, litter, driveway blockage, trespass to lawns and property and general havoc" were enough reason to prompt the park and recreation commission to move the celebration to another place in 1974.

Another petition, with 34 signatures was delivered Wednesday to city hall and asked that the civic celebration continue at Pierce. It was signed by residents primarily along Oakcrest Court and Lehmann Lane.

Some changes expected before Senate approves recycling bill

Post-Crescent Madison bureau

MADISON — A state solid waste recycling program that proposes to use the Fox River Valley as its testing ground is expected to encounter some alterations before receiving a Senate stamp of approval early next year.

The Senate's Natural Resources Committee Tuesday heard representatives of private industry lead for a clarification of the wording in the bill in order to remove the possibility of competition between the state and private enterprise in the handling and processing of solid waste.

The bill, which passed the Assembly by a two-to-one margin in October, calls for the establishment of a nine-member authority to coordinate all solid waste recycling. The initial project is being planned for Outagamie, Winnebago and Fond du Lac counties.

Predominant fears among the bill's opposition included doubts that the project could be self-sustaining as some have claimed, that the state is committing itself to an untested program and that local municipalities may be forced into a state program although they have their own operating recycling systems.

Sen. Clifford Krueger, R-Merrill, committee chairman, said he agreed with the concept of the bill but would be anxious to see some of the doubts answered through amendment before the bill is passed.

"There will be some changes made," Krueger said. "But we'll have something ready for the Senate to vote on when it comes back in January."

Sen. Robert Kasten, R-Brown Deer, a strong supporter of the bill, expressed confidence that there were already enough votes to gain Senate approval

One hospitalized

Eugene Schmidt, 23, rural Kaukauna, was reported in good condition today at Kaukauna Community Hospital where he is being treated for injuries sustained in a two-car accident about 3 p.m. Tuesday on U.S. 10 near Calumet County Trunk M five miles west of Forest Junction. Schmidt, driver of the car shown above, is being treated for fractured ribs. He was alone in his car, headed east on 10, according to State Patrol and Calumet County Sheriff's Department personnel. Daniel Fredericks, 30, Appleton, was westbound on 10, but authorities had no details at midmorning today on circumstances of the accident. Fredericks, also alone in his auto, was not hospitalized but told to see a physician. (Keller photo)

Tavern owners commended

NEW LONDON — The Waupaca County Tavern League has received a joint legislative commendation for its work state-wide and nationally in pioneering the raising of cancer research funds.

State Rep. Francis Byers of Marion presented the award, which he sponsored with Sen. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek, to William Scheweide of New London, who has been the league's secretary for 30 years.

Byers cited the county group for being one of the best, the most aggressive and the most ambitious tavern league in the state and nation.

Five years ago, the league started its "Buck Cancer with a Buck" campaign during May Tavern Month and raised $6,000 the first year. Last year, it raised about $60,000, and improved the campaign, using a "Send a mouse to college" promotion. Both programs are now being used in other parts of the nation.

Byers pointed out that just 8 per cent of the research funds raised by the county group go to administration.

Scheweide also pointed out other recent accomplishments of the league, including a commendation from John Radcliff of the state highway safety department for its safe-driving project, which includes using stickers in taverns reminding motorists to "Think before you have one for the road."

The American Cancer Society has also cited the group for its fund-raising efforts, and, for the eighth year in a row, a first place award for winning the Tavern League of the Year Award from the National Tavern League.

Hephner critical of scheduling for EPA hearing

MADISON — The federal Environmental Protection Agency is not doing enough to get rural input into its decisions, according to State Representative Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton.

Hephner, in a press release, specifically criticized the scheduling of an EPA hearing on pollution discharge permits in Milwaukee this month.

In a letter to EPA Regional Administrator Francis T. Mayo, Hephner suggested that the agency hold two other hearings in Wisconsin — one in Appleton and another in Northwestern Wisconsin, possibly Wausau.

"The issue they'll be discussing," Hephner said, "is of vital concern to Wisconsin farmers. They'll be talking about state takeover of the pollutant Discharge Permit system — something that will affect any farmer who has a feedlot near a stream or whose field might run off into a body of water."

"I don't know how many farmers will be able to make it down to Milwaukee," Hephner continued, "but those who do get there will have expended a lot of effort to make themselves heard."

On the basis of the hearing, the agency will decide whether or not it will allow the state to administer the granting of discharge permits. If the decision is positive, the Department of Natural Resources would have the authority to administer permits under laws passed by the legislature this year.

If the state's request is approved, Wisconsin will be the second midwestern state to administer its own permit program. Michigan was granted such authority in October.

The hearing is scheduled at 9:30 a.m. Dec. 18 in the Grand Ballroom East of Milwaukee's Pfister Hotel.

Cornshuckery topic of church women's meeting at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — "A piece of thread, a cornshuck or two and a little imagination" were essential ingredients in Mrs. Margo Davis Pontius' lecture, "American Cornshuckery Through the Season."

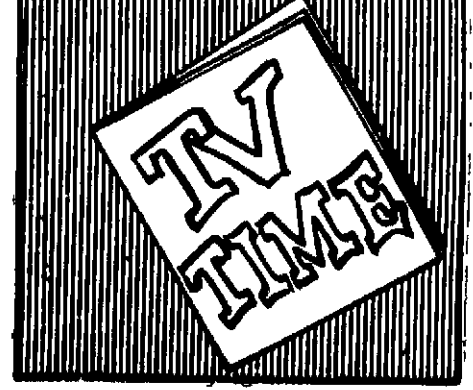

The message was delivered Wednesday evening at a meeting of the St. Rose Christian Mothers Altar Society at the school hall. She discussed the history of cornshuckery, demonstrated the steps in making cornshuck dolls and offered ideas for their use in holiday and year-round decorations.

Members of the Clintonville Flower and Garden Club and the Clintonville Center of the Waupaca County Homemakers were guests. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Anthony Henn and Mrs. Clair Harbath.

Clintonville's DAR award winner chosen

CLINTONVILLE — Julie Arvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Arvey, 160 Garfield Ave., has been selected as the recipient of the Daughters of American Revolution (DAR) award at the Clintonville Senior High School.

Miss Arvey, a senior, was selected on the basis of leadership, community involvement and academic achievement. She was the 1973 delegate to Badger Girls' State, and is active in the Senior Honors reading, chamber choir, Project BRIGHT (Building Resources to Instruct Gifted and Highly Talented), St. Rose adult choir, and the Creative Stitchery Club.

Harrison joins war against rats

BY HAZEL THIEL Post-Crescent correspondent

HARRISON — This may be the year of the "white" rat.

According to a Town of Harrison resident who has tried it, you catch a rat, paint it white and the varmints disappear — at least for about two weeks.

This was one of the amusing solutions brought out at a meeting on rat control conducted by the town Tuesday night.

About 33 persons, including a few women, attended the informational meeting to hear Calumet County Agent Richard La Croix and Karl Towsley, manager of Wil-Kil Pest Control Co., discuss prevention and control of rats.

La Croix said rats were not only prevalent this year in Harrison but throughout the Fox Valley. Because corn was not harvested fully last year due to wet weather, rats wintered in the fields and multiplied rapidly. Norway rats start producing at three months of age and have litters of 10-20 monthly. Rats live about a year, although some are known to be three years old when they die, La Croix said.

While several rat control programs had been available through the University Extension and Fish and Wildlife Division of the Interior in the past, La Croix said these were no longer in existence.

La Croix pointed out the possible large financial loss because of rats in the town, particularly to one certified seed dealer. He called the situation "a real problem" and said he would meet Friday in Oshkosh with Winnebago County Agent Vern Peroutky and Prof. Ellsworth Fisher of the University of Wisconsin to discuss the matter. Fisher was unable to attend the Harrison meeting, he said.

Towsley, a veteran of 30 years in the pest control business said sanitation, trapping and rodent proofing were important to good rat control.

He warned against having stored lumber, rocks and food products sitting around for rats to get under. He suggested a trapping program, particularly if there are young children or pets near the troubled area. "Be careful with baiting", he said.

He suggested a regular snap trap, which would be more effective if a four inch square of tin were cut out and put under the spot where the bait goes. Traps could be set along travel routes and near food sources.

Wood bait boxes about twice the size of a cigar box with a 3-by-3-inch hole baited with fresh bait also were suggested.

Large quantities of poison—60 to 100 pounds—are necessary this year on farms, according to the experts. Anticoagulant poisons are most frequently used because of their relative safety.

Rats retain the poison because their digestive system, unlike other animals, does not allow them to vomit, town residents learned.

Rats have varying tastes—a variety of mixes, grains, meats, sweets and grease should be used. Where there is a large food supply, such as on a farm, water baits should be tried in above freezing weather. Depending on quantity, control can be effective in from four to 10 days, town residents were told.

Shooting and gassing rats were not recommended. The animals are rabies carriers and never should be cornered, residents were warned. And the one time "nickel a tail" bounty on rats no longer holds good. There is no bounty on the "critters."

Potter man named to head Calumet services board

CHILTON — Donald Duchow, Potter, has been named chairman of the Mental Health, Alcoholism, Drug Abuse and Developmental Disabilities Service Board for Calumet County.

Merlin Weiting, Brillion, will serve as vice chairman and Mrs. Wilma Springer, Appleton, secretary.

Weiting, Mrs. Duane Youngstead and William Engler Jr., Chilton, will serve two-year terms. Mrs. Springer, Dean Wallace, Brillion, and Rev. Quentin Moeshberger, Chilton, will have three year terms.

The board was established by the Calumet County Board of Supervisors as the governmental and policy making body for the mental health, mental retardation, alcohol and drug abuse program in the county.

The board will facilitate the use of county resources to the fullest extent through control and fiscal responsibility.

Board members will be compensated for their services and travel expenses at a rate the same as the per diem and mileage allowance prevailing for the county board of supervisors.

Purdy heads directors of St. Elizabeth

Bruce Purdy has been elected president of the St. Elizabeth Hospital Board of Directors. He has served as vice president of the board for the past two years.

Purdy, president of Outagamie Corp. and retired vice president of Appleton Wire Works, was chosen at the latest monthly board meeting.

Two new board members also were elected—Dr. H.C. Danford, a physician, and Leonard Tysver, vice president of the human resources division, Aid Association for Lutherans.

They replace R.W. Mahony, who remains as honorary chairman of the board, and Cyrus Rachle, who has left the area.

Other officers elected were Wendell Bueche, vice president; Richard A. Stack, secretary; John S. Wells, treasurer, and Sister M. Anselma Michka, assistant secretary-treasurer.

The other members of the board are Gus Zuehlke, Elmer Otte, Robert Sauter, William Sirek, Mrs. Niels Miller, Donald Plunkett, Sister M. Kathleen Daniel, Sister M. Barbara DeWendt and Sister M. Diane Sledge.

Zuehlke, who has served on the board for a number of years, was presented a plaque and a vote of appreciation for his "dedication and meritorious service as past president of the board."

Clintonville Cub pack trying to raise funds

CLINTONVILLE — Cub Pack 28 has in its possession a grandfather clock, which is for sale and which is on display at the First National Bank.

The clock is made of durable plastic and is a woodtone color, approximately 21 inches tall, and would be suitable either as a wall clock or could be placed on a table.

Bids for the clock may be placed in the box provided at the First National Bank and bids will close at 3 p.m. Dec. 18. Bids will be opened later that day and the clock will go to the highest bidder. Bidders are asked to please put their name and address on their bids.

Profits from the sale of the clock will go into the general fund of Cub Pack 28 to be used for various activities throughout the year.

Fuel . . .

past month's supply, allocation from supplier, and severity of the temperature.

Daily temperature monitoring is considered especially critical by the state in light of the energy shortage. The energy office is advocating using the "degree-day" system for incorporating temperature into the allocation program.

Under this "degree-day" system, it is assumed that artificial heat is needed when the outside temperature falls below 65 degrees. The state will be determining the daily mean temperature (halfway between the extremes) and broadcasting it at 7:30 a.m. daily, starting this week, on the state broadcast network.

"This should help distributors in distributing their product equitably," an energy office spokesman said.

Some Fox Cities fuel oil distributors said this is the system they have used for years. The difference between the daily mean temperature and 65 degrees is recorded daily (if the mean temperature is 40, that produces 25 "degree-days") and allowed to accumulate until a predetermined number is reached. Then the dealer knows it is about time to fill the tank.

The time-to-fill point is reached at different times for different customers, depending on their fuel consumption and when they got their first fill. Carrying this a step further would be difficult.

One Fox Cities dealer said he had 60 to 70 deliveries per day. To handle the additional paperwork to meet the state's request would mean hiring an additional two women.

State energy office spokesmen admit it could be a difficult job, but they point out that in light of the fuel oil shortage and potential severe cutbacks to the state, such a program is needed.

The state energy office is attempting to keep tabs on the amount of fuel oil that can be expected to be available to the state dealers during each month. It had expected more than the 71 per cent of last year's supply that was reported last week, but state Energy Coordinator Stanley York said if people keep their thermostats down 6 1/2 degrees, or about 60 1/2 degrees, the supply can handle it.

Teachers ask citizen support in pact dispute

HORTONVILLE — The Hortonville Education Association, preparing to enter fact-finding with the board of education in an attempt to end a 10 month contract dispute, has asked district residents to ask board members to agree to binding fact-finding.

A fact-finding hearing with a University of Wisconsin-Madison mediator has been scheduled for Thursday, but the board twice has refused HEA requests to make the study binding. The hearing is open to the public. While the teachers' group has pushed for the binding study "so we can get this cleared up," the board, saying it wants to keep local control, has agreed to advisory fact-finding.

Ken Couillard, chairman of the teachers' negotiation committee, asked residents to call members and ask for binding fact-finding. "We're not appealing to the public to support our position, but we'd like it binding so that when the fact-finding is done, our dispute is done. Local control is fine," he added, "but when you reach an impasse, local control won't help."

Couillard said the dispute centers over salary base schedules and fringe benefits. But he added, "The only issue we're asking support on is to make it binding so we can get it settled."

He said HEA expects a ruling from

David Johnson, the fact finder, in early January or sooner.

Couillard dispelled rumors that HEA was considering a strike vote before the Thursday hearing. "I have no plans to present a strike vote," he said. "It's obviously futile to take a strike vote before you go through fact-finding."

But he said a strike at the school is a possibility after fact-finding.

Supt. Marvin Obry, in explaining the board's position, said the board wanted to retain local control for negotiations. "The board is concerned that if you go to a state person now (and it's binding), what stops it from going there in the future? It could go there year after year."

Recycling . . .

but agreed that some wording changes would be wise to reassure the private sectors that hte state is not seeking to compete.

Kasten represents an area of the state that would receive the third recycling project, an area including Washington, Milwaukee, Ozaukee and Waukesha counties. The second designated area is the Lincoln, Marathon, Portage and Wood county area of central Wisconsin.

Sen. Jack Steinhilber, R-Oshkosh, also expressed support for the concept but offered strong reservations about the wording of the bill. Steinhilber, who attended the hearing to listen to the four hours of testimony, said later that he was concerned about the state's getting into competition with private business.

The formulators of the bill insist that the state will not be competing with private business and will not require much tax money to operate. Many who appeared at the Tuesday hearing did not believe them.

The Wisconsin Towns Association, through lobbyist Myron Lotto, offered an amendment deleting a portion of the bill that would give the Solid Waste Authority the power to acquire property owned by a municipality through condemnation.

Gerald Schwerm of the League of Suburban Municipalities offered a series of amendments, including one which would allow any municipality to detach itself from the state program if it could prove that its own existing program cost less.

Much of the opposition came in the form of out-of-state witnesses. Among them were David Reichert, an attorney from Cincinnati representing the Institute for Scrap Iron and Steel; Eugene Wingerter of Washington, D.C., speaking for the National Solid Waste Management Association, and Jerome Scharf of New York, representing the National Association of Secondary Material Industries Inc.

Sen. Gordon Roseleip, R-Darlington, took issue with Kasten's statement that the program could be self-sustaining despite a provision of the bill asking for $23 million in bonding.

"Why should the other areas of the state, who have nothing to gain by this program, help support it?" Roseleip asked. "I think we're being discriminated against."

Representatives from Outagamie and Winnebago counties appeared at the hearing and expressed differing opinions. Joseph DeBruin, chairman of the Outagamie County Zoning Committee, opposed the bill and said that Outagamie was in the process of building its own shredder in an Appleton industrial park.

Outagamie County board Supvs. Fred Rehfeldt, Eugene Klose and Clayton Van Dyke also appeared and Rehfeldt testified in favor of the program, despite the fact that the Outagamie County Board has voted against it.

Oshkosh City Manager Gordon Jaeger appeared in favor of the bill, pointing out that both the Oshkosh City County and Winnebago County Board support it.

National Guard starts extensive recruiting drive

CLINTONVILLE — The local unit of the Wisconsin National Guard is involved in an extensive recruiting campaign, which has been initiated throughout the state in an effort to bring the force up to the authorized strength of 10,000.

The National Guard in Wisconsin is 10 per cent under that strength.

Detachment 1, company A of Clintonville is now eight members under its authorized strength.

The Clintonville National Guard Armory, E. 12th Street, will be open weekly during the day, on Saturday mornings from 8 a.m. until 12 noon, on Mondays from 4 to 8 p.m., and on regularly scheduled drills, in an effort to recruit veterans and men and women without prior service.

Three programs have been initiated to aid the recruiting drive: The 3 by 3 option, the Try One Program and the 180-day enlistment program. Each offers a different approach to enlistment and training.

Veterans and men and women without prior service may seek information on the programs from Sgt. Ray Harwick at the National Guard Armory.

Keeping posted

NEW LONDON — A visit from Santa and gift exchange will be included at the Jaycette meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Mrs. Roger Mathison home, 1826 Nassau St.

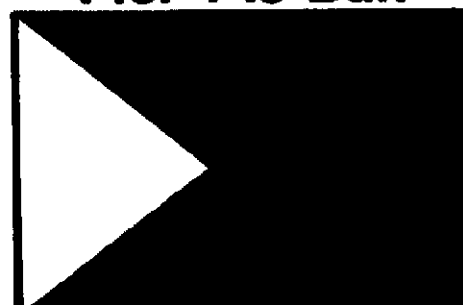

Christmas workshops and the quick hearing screening test for local schools will be discussed. New members will be installed. Members are asked to bring a 50-cent gift, wrapped in plain paper, for St. Joseph's. The gifts will be used throughout the year for prizes at bingo parties.

Wheat farmers harvest windfall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wheat farmers reaped a legal windfall of nearly half a billion dollars in government subsidies last summer because the Agriculture Department underestimated by 60 per cent how much the price of bread grain would go up.

The subsidies, totaling $475.7 million, included "preliminary payments" authorized by Congress in a 1970 farm law. The payments were based on what the department expected wheat market prices to average between July 1 and Dec. 1.

Five months ago it appeared to department experts that the farm price of wheat would average about $2.49 per bushel nationally. Instead, the five-month price soared to $3.99 per bushel.

The higher prices, according to a complex formula in the law, meant that no subsidies needed to have been paid if the boost had been foreseen. But the law also stipulates that farmers do not have to return overpayments to the government.

The error, termed a "misjudgment" by USDA officials, was disclosed Tuesday in a routine announcement that wheat farmers would get no further subsidy payments for their 1973 crop.

Kastenmeier votes 'no'

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Rep. Robert Kastenmeier says he voted against the confirmation of Gerald R. Ford as vice president because it is possible Ford "will reach the office of the presidency in the next three years."

Kastenmeier was one of eight congressmen voting against Ford in the House Judiciary Committee.

The House is to take up the question Thursday.

Kastenmeier, D-Wis., predicted the nomination would be confirmed with only about 35 dissenting votes.

"I cannot accept the nomination of a man who defines leadership as his ability to follow and remain slavishly loyal to a president whose moral authority to govern has diminished to unacceptable levels," he said Tuesday in an interview.

If Ford succeeds to the presidency, "we will no longer have access to him. We cannot judge after the fact whether we want him to serve in that position," Kastenmeier said.

"If called up as president," Kastenmeier said, "this nomination is a disturbing one."

Capital threatened

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops are threatening Gia Nghia, the capital of Quang Duc province in the lower central highlands, after capturing nearby Kien Duc, the first district capital lost by the Saigon government since the January cease-fire. Fighting continued along a 30-mile front as the Communists tried to complete their control of a new north-south supply route that the South Vietnamese government says they are setting up in preparations for a general offensive early next year.

Crisis in Denmark

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Another surge to the right in the general election Tuesday has plunged Denmark into its worst political crisis since World War II. The Danes turned against all established parties and kicked out one third of the members of the Folketing, their parliament. The Social Democrats remained the country's largest party but won only 46 of the 175 seats, and the number of parties in the Folketing doubled from five to ten. No one would predict what government lineup might emerge, but most observers predicted that there would be new elections within a year.

Firing along canal

TEL AVIV (AP) — The Israeli military command reported that Egyptian forces along the Suez Canal opened up Tuesday with small arms and bazookas and wounded four Israeli troops. The command said its forces returned the fire and sporadic shooting continued for more than four hours.

Nixon 'enemy'

Milwaukee granny on Nixon's 'enemy list'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — An elderly Milwaukee woman whose name was found on a White House "enemies" list will write to President Nixon in protest, her daughter says.

The Milwaukee Journal, in a dispatch from Washington, said it was discovered Monday that the name of Mrs. Anna Grapczynski, 75, and those of two of her grandchildren were on a list in a recently published volume of Watergate hearing testimony.

Mrs. Grapczynski's name was among those listed as having contributed to the presidential campaign of Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine. The list was sent to former White House counsel John Dean.

Mrs. Grapczynski, who donated $100 to the Muskie campaign, included the names of grandchildren Patrick O'Keefe, 19, and Kathleen O'Keefe, 18, with her contribution. Patrick is a student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and his sister lives in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Mrs. Raymond Krukar, daughter of Mrs. Grapczynski, said her mother had supported Muskie ever since he was governor of Maine. She said her mother's maiden name — Marciszewski — was the same as Muskie's original Polish name.

Word that her name was on the list came Monday afternoon in a phone call from a reporter, Mrs. Krukar said.

"When I told her about being on the list, she just sat there silently with an expression of total disbelief," Mrs. Krukar said. "She said it must be a poor situation in Washington if people have nothing better to do than sit and copy the names of her and her grandchildren."

Mrs. Krukar said her mother would write to the President, protesting her inclusion on the list. She also said that after the Democratic presidential nomination went to Sen. George McGovern, Mrs. Grapczynski decided to vote for Nixon last year, as she did in 1960. She supported the Democratic ticket in 1968, when Muskie was Sen. Hubert Humphrey's running mate.

Antigonorhea vaccine tested

By C.G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Researchers at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta report they have developed a vaccine against gonorrhea in chimpanzees which may lead to such vaccine for humans.

Availability of a vaccine for humans may be years away, they said Tuesday at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Dermatology, but the development of one for chimpanzees marks a major forward step toward that goal.

However, the scientists' efforts have been hampered because the federal administration has reduced the amount of money available for this research, it was pointed out.

The center's chimpanzee colony has been reduced from about 30 animals to four, Dr. Stephen J. Drais of the center told a news conference.

Efforts at controlling venereal disease have been epidemiological — finding cases and their contacts and treating them.

In spite of such massive efforts, the incidence of VD has continued to rise at an alarming rate, Kraus pointed out, adding that he and others think the development of an effective vaccine would do more to solve the problem.

The chimpanzee gonorrhea vaccine is crude, Kraus said, and the next step is to separate the fractions within the vaccine to find out which one is the effective agent.

It is not possible, he said, to predict when this work might lead to development of a vaccine for humans. At any rate, it is probably years away.

There are many strains of gonococcus — the microorganism which causes gonorrhea, and the scientists are faced with developing a vaccine which will be effective against all of them.

There have been no marked side effects with use of the vaccine in the animals, Kraus reported.

Chimpanzees are an expensive and difficult animal to work with, he noted, but this animal is closer to human beings than any other experimental animal.

Kunstler to fight bar

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago 7 defense lawyer William M. Kunstler says he expects that much of his time from now on will be spent "fighting disbarment."

The veteran civil rights lawyer and three of the Chicago 7 defendants were convicted Tuesday of contempt during their riot-conspiracy trial four years ago.

Convicted with Kunstler for their actions at the trial arising from street disturbances the week of the 1968 Democratic National Convention were David Dellinger, Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin.

Acquitted were lawyer Leonard I. Weinglass and Chicago 7 defendants Tom Hayden and Rennie Davis.

U.S. District Court Judge Edward T. Gignoux, who handed down the convictions in the trial without a jury, set sentencing for Thursday. Each faces a possible 177 days in prison.

Kunstler, 58, said he would appeal the ruling and declared the contempt trial was "further evidence of government oppression of the movement bar."

James R. Thompson, U.S. district attorney, said there was "no intent on the part of the U.S. government to go after a lawyer on philosophical grounds."

Dellinger, Davis, Hoffman, Rubin and Hayden were convicted in February 1970 of crossing state lines to incite rioting at the time of the Democratic convention. They were acquitted of conspiracy to do so.

Two other defendants, John Froines and Lee Weiner, were acquitted of all charges.

An appeals court reversed the convictions and the government declined to retry the charges. The appeals court sent the contempt citations handed down by Judge Hoffman back to the District Court for retrial.

Stoop for bleachers

CUBA CITY, Wis. (AP) — About 60 youngsters swarmed through cornfields Sunday, stooping to erect bleachers.

The students, hired by a half-dozen farmers to gather corn overlooked by harvesting machinery, earned about $250 toward $2,000 needed for new school gymnasium bleachers.

Quaker group seeks Nixon impeachment

NEW YORK (AP) — A committee of Quakers, the religious group to which President Nixon formally belongs, has called for his impeachment.

The action disclosed Tuesday was described as the first of its kind by a Quaker agency. It was taken by the legislative committee of the New York Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends.

"Richard Nixon and members of his administration have indulged in acts which render them suspect of betrayal of our democracy," the resolution says.

It asks that the House proceed with his impeachment to fulfill "its obligation to the democratic process as embodied in the Constitution" and to the American people.

Walter Ludwig, Yonkers, N.Y., chairman of the 12-member committee, said it was the first such action by an official Friends agency, and was taken without dissent in conjunction with the two-day annual session here last weekend of the New York society.

The meeting included representatives of the 80 local meetings in the region, which embraces about 6,000 Quakers in New York and parts of New Jersey and Connecticut.

President Nixon is a member of his hometown Quaker congregation in California, the East Whittier meeting, which has resisted pressure from some other Quakers to ask him to resign membership.

Other than the New York Quaker group, the only other church organizations to call directly for his impeachment have been two agencies of the United Methodist Church — its women's division of a national missions board — and its social action agency.
